BLUE LINEN

A pretty model for a linen gown is shown above. The bodice is cut with two pleats above the shoulder, the outer one slashed and run with black velvet ribbon. The neck is cut square and filled with lace, a square rib of the same reaching quite high in the front of the bodice and apparently held in place at the sides by black velvet buttons and loops. The skirt is plain, trimmed only with a shaped band of the lace and down either side a black velvet ribbon in run corresponding to that on the blouse. This would be particularly effective in a grey linen.

Taffeta Frocks the Spring Craze—Pompadour's Passe.
Little frocks of taffeta are just now the craze, and every debutante has her afternoon tea frock of white taffeta made in simple, girlish style.

Such a frock is, of course, worn under a fur coat or other wrap in a dressing room, the wrap being left in a dressing room, and the taffeta frock must be made in a style suitable for afternoon rather than evening wear. The sleeveless overwaist is one of the very latest developments of the came home one night out of temper and said to him, "One of these nights a murder will be committed here." In March 1912 he says she said to him, "I will fix you. I have just enough Mexican and Spanish blood in me to do it, and I will." O'Leary alleges that his wife frequently went to his restaurant and abused him and the waitresses.

LIFE IN DANGER HUSBAND'S CHARGE

Judge Campbell Friday annulled the marriage of Frank A. Wise and Vera May Clemens. They were married January 14, 1911 in Portland. The plaintiff alleges that the defendant had a husband at the time.

Bence Shonlucky sued Mary Shonlucky for a decree for a divorce, he alleges desertion in February 1907.

Albert E. Sanderson asks a decree from Agnes Sanderson. They were married August 6, 1910 in Niagara Falls, Ont. Abandonment is alleged.

Violet Harper seeks a divorce from Bert Harper, and the custody of their child. They were married in St. Ignace, Mich. The plaintiff says her husband left her October 1, 1901.

Grace Simpson sued Walter A. Simpson for a divorce, and the custody of their two children. They were married in California, August 2, 1908. Cruelty is charged.

CLACKAMAS SOUTHERN STOCK IN DEMAND

In response to letters sent out to every stockholder of the Clackamas Southern Railway Company telling them of the $45,000 subscription made by Stephen Carver, many of the stockholders have replied with new subscriptions—and it is predicted that at least 75 per cent of the present 275 stockholders will increase their holding before May 1, when the time to secure the $45,000 expires.

In addition to this many more subscribers are being assured, for everyone realizes that this will insure the completion of the road from Oregon City to Molalla this summer, and when complete, without any indebtedness it will be worth twice the money expended on it.

This proposition presents an unusual opportunity to obtain the construction of this road, and every effort should be put forth by every man or property owner of Oregon City, in assisting the directors of the road in securing this $45,000 worth of new subscriptions.

Meetings are to be held at Beaver Creek Wednesday night, April 3; and Mulino Friday afternoon, April 5; and at Molalla Saturday afternoon, April 6.

Stock is offered at $50 per share on easy payments, until the $45,000 is subscribed. The building of the railroad means much to Oregon City and Clackamas County.

MERCHANDISE BOND IS AWARDED TODAY

In this connection should be remembered, "A soft answer turneth away wrath." When a candidate meets with a refusal, he or she should turn the conversation into other channels for a few minutes before turning away because we are all apt to change our minds.

These negative answers should act as a spur to the candidates. When a prospect says "no," you have lost just as votes as you thought you were going to from him. It never pays to quit a losing game so go after the next two just that much harder. Get from them what you might have gotten from Mr. No One.

If the true ideal of sportsmanship, which is prevalent in this race were realized by more people, the list of candidates would be greatly increased. It is a good game, even if you lose. It is like a horse race, base ball or football game. You should, however, go into it with the same spirit that prompted a certain father of this city to tell his boy, "To win, boy, win if it takes a leg. If you can't win with one, take two."

Each and every candidate is out to win—to beat the others—but in spite of this, they do not let any personal feeling of the wrong sort exist between themselves and the other contestants. A good feeling of keen rivalry exists but no petty envy or jealousy is apparent. This shows the true manhood and true womanhood which is a dominant trait in the characters of our contestants and makes us proud of them, individually and collectively.

The recent rains have put the roads in excellent shape for a spring Sunday over some of Clackamas county's good highways. Say Molalla by way of Meadowbrook, dinner at the excellent hotel at the former place—back home around the Canby way—What could be more pleasant on these balmy spring days when all "our feet kick to his far from the haunts of men." Enter the contest, win the Ford and treat yourself to the luxuries of these enjoyable trips.

MY OH ME! HAREM SKIRT CLUB PLANNED

Several young women of this city are contemplating organizing a "Harem Skirt Society" and the members are to wear the Harem skirt to the meetings. The only eligibles to this club will be young women between the ages of eighteen and thirty years. Eligibles will be elected. At the meeting the garments to be worn will be discussed, and arrangements made to have these finished for wearing at the second meeting, which will be held at the home of one of the members.

It may be determined to have the club made into a walking club, but whether the garments worn at the meeting will be used on the long jaunts has not been decided.

On Clackamas' Banks

Rush on wild Clackamas where sylvan flowers
On shady banks list to thy murmured speech!
Rush ever on past bending forest bowers
Where drooping branches toward thy ripples reach!

From mountain brooks, agile in sunlit glades
To broader vales I trace thy silver course,
And onward yet where man thy peace invades,
Where greater waters dash on grander shores.

'Tis bliss to dream in silent white-ness,
Where after turmoil calm thy surface lies
When nature brighter smiles in mild-er mood
Through summer sunshine 'neath the azure skies.

Might not yet 'hast still primeval ban,
The forest gloom soom dusky spirit malds
Reveal their loves their childhood plays and pranks,
And dance to night wind tunes in moonlit glades.

Or sing strange songs discordant to my ear,
And yet harmonious with the lisp- ing leaves,
The falling waters and the echoes here,
The wild bird's carol while his nest he weaves.

Night visions flee when awns the morning light,
And what I see is not the old time wild,
But flowery banks and meads of pleas- ing sight,
Where plays prattles now the fair- faced child.

BURNS SOCIETY TO TALK ON SUFFRAGE

At a meeting of the Robbie Burns society in the parlors of the Congregational church Mr. Paterson of Portland gave an interesting lecture on the adventures of David Livingstone, the great explorer, who although he was reared in humble circumstances became a missionary, doctor and explorer. To him belongs the honor of opening up the great continent of Africa.
