LENA RIVERS TO PLAY AT THE SHIVELY OPERA HOUSE

The management of the opera house has secured the play "Lena Rivers" for one night, Tuesday, and promises a performance that will suit all. The play "Lena Rivers" will probably need no introduction to the American public as it is a direct dramatization from the novel Lena Rivers by the popular author, Mary J. Holmes. All the characters in the book have been carefully sustained in the play which is the work of the popular dramatist, Frank Fisher. The interest never lags for a minute and the play is full of good dramatic situations and clean cut comedy. The company will surely please as they have been playing this bill the entire season throughout all the large cities of the west. The leading part, that of Lena Rivers, will be in the capable hands of Dora Parker, the youngest leading lady on the American stage. The balance of the company, including such excellent actors and actresses as Robert Coleman, Richard Wilber, Marshall Geno, George H. Johnson, Dorothy Douglas, Hazel Allen and others have also added to the success of the play. Seats are now selling at Jones Drug Store.

The time to read the Morning Enterprise is at the breakfast table or a little before.

WILD HORSE SOON TAMES GALLANT

It has been said that men of the present time are not proving themselves to be up to the standard in some ways that men were in former times. That these surmises are incorrect was plainly demonstrated Sunday when a young man of this city proved that the days of chivalry are not past. The story goes something like this:

A certain young woman of pleasing appearance, who is employed in Oregon City, was heard to remark that she was very fond of horseback riding and that her father, who lives on a farm, owned a fine young horse which was unbroken. This young gallant, who by name happens to be Fred Hogg, manager of the furniture and hardware department of the Frank Busch store, immediately volunteered to twist the ear of the colt and do other bronco buster stunts until the horse would be a fine mount for any girl. The proposition accepted, the saddle of the would-be hero was sent to the farm Saturday and on the following day the young man enjoyed chicken dinner with the young woman and her family, after which it was announced that the time had arrived for the gladiator to enter the lion's den. With the assistance of several boys, the saddle was soon in place and the city lad was on with a tight grip on the leather. The usual persuasions were applied to make the colt show its bucking ability, which it did to the entire satisfaction of the audience and with wild dashes in the air madly plunged across a ten acre field, jumped a ten rail fence and lunged through the thick underbrush of the forest. Fearing for the good health of Mr. Hogg, the family after the thorough search in the woods, found their friend trying to find his way to the house. He was tenderly cared for and will soon recover. He returned to Oregon City somewhat wiser. The colt is still unbroken.

Perhaps Ignorance Was Bliss.
Mabel—I have at last experienced the great, wonderful event of my life. Yesterday, when the sudden failure of the electric light at the Blank's reception plunged the company into darkness, he kissed me passionately. Julia—Who? Mabel—Who? That's just what I should like to know!—Exchange.

Ambiguity.
Layman (to curate)—Were you preaching at your church last night? Curate—No. Why? Layman—Oh, I didn't know whether you would be preaching or not, so I wouldn't risk going.—Lonsdon Punch.

Witty Remark.
John Sloan, artist, of New York takes the same interest in architecture as in painting. A New York architect, aware of Mr. Sloan's taste, took him in his motorcar to see a huge and costly country house that he had erected for a millionaire on a bluff overlooking the Hudson. As the architect stood with Mr. Sloan on the terrace of the new property he looked up at the mansion's showy facade and said thoughtfully:
"Stupendous! But I haven't decided yet what kind of creosote to have in front."
"The Virginia creosote," said Mr. Sloan, "would cover it up quickest."

NEW POTATOES FORCE DOWN OLD STOCK

With new potatoes down a cent a pound in California, the market for old stock is correspondingly weaker. A small amount of buying of the latter is reported in Portland on the basis of $1.65 and $1.70 for extra fancy f. o. b., country shipping points but the higher price is available only in a nominal way.
Choice stock is not finding bids of more than $1.50 per cental and there is only a limited demand at present around this figure.
California is still glutted with potatoes at principal market centers. The artificial famine that has existed at Los Angeles has been thoroughly relieved by the enormous shipments to that point by shippers who were not allied with the ones hoarding prices.
New potatoes are coming forward into that section in somewhat larger supply and sales are being made in San Francisco as low as 4c a pound in a jobbing way. This is affecting to a small extent the demand for old stock although there will be a good call for the latter for about a month and a half longer.
Prevailing Oregon City prices are as follows:
DRIED FRUITS—(Buying)—Prunes on basis of 6 to 8 cents.

Fruits, Vegetables.

OATS—(Buying)—Gray $31 to $32; wheat $20; oil meal, selling $35.
Shady Brook dairy feed, selling $1.25 100 pounds.
FEED—(Selling)—Shorts, $25; bran, $24; rolling barley, $39; process barley, $40.
