SIMPLE CASHMERE FROCK

The gown shown in the accompanying drawing has for its foundation a blouse and skirt which are extremely plain as to cut. The blouse is peasant style, a deep "V" cut from the front, a shorter one from the back displays a vest of the material, which is old blue cashmere and a square yoke of lace. The "V" is bound with self-tone satin ribbon ending in a two-looped bow at the waist line. The short lace trimmed sleeves are also bound with the ribbon and trimmed with small butterfly bows. The skirt has a shaped trimming of lace simulating a tunic, the lower portion of the skirt buttoning with satin buttons as does the little vest.

TONKIN FUNERAL TO BE THIS AFTERNOON

The funeral of Oben Tonkin, who died Sunday morning at his home on the West Side, will be held in St. Paul's Episcopal church at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon. Rev. C. W. Robinson will officiate at the church. The Odd Fellows will have charge of the services at the cemetery.
The body will lie in state at the church from 8 a. m. until 1 p. m. The interment will be in Mountain View cemetery.
Mr. Tonkin was industrious, truthful, cheerful and honorable in all his actions. He had worked up to an enviable position in the employ of the Willamette Pulp & Paper Company. He was the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Oben Tonken and was christened and confirmed in the Episcopal church when a child. Some years ago he became an active worker among the young people of the Baptist church and became a member of that church. He was an active member of the I. O. O. F., Elks, Eagles and the Woodmen of the World. He had a good voice and this made him a welcome visitor at the churches. He was born in Australia February 16, 1882, and moved with his parents from there to England. They came to Oregon City fifteen years ago. He and Miss Augusta Schroeder were married June 11, 1911, who with his parents and sister, Nellie, survive him.

UPLIFTING A MAN

By M. QUAD
Copyright, 1912, by Associated Literary Press.

Deacon Goodhue was a good man. You could be sure of that by his name alone.
He loved his neighbor as himself and wronged no man. He gave to the heathen and was grieved when he read of the wickedness at home.
For a good many years the deacon went on just being good in a general way, although there were times when he wished he had a speciality. One came his way at last and he was surprised that he had never thought of it before.
But a few tramps came to the village where the deacon lived. Constable Baker had the reputation of being a hard kicker, and the knights of the road took in other towns instead. Therefore the good man had never had a chance to study the tramp at close range.
Constable Baker was taken ill of fever, and while he tossed to and fro on his bed a tramp took advantage of the occasion to make his appearance and do business. He came across Deacon Goodhue almost the first thing, and he told the old, old story of the great Chicago fire—loss of his all—suffice of his wife—loss of his children and the other particulars. Tears came to the eyes of his listener.
Here was what the deacon had longed for—a speciality.
Mrs. Deacon Goodhue was a good woman, as every deacon's wife ought to be, but she was not too good. When the deacon brought his tramp home there were some words about it.
"Why didn't you bring a pig and done with it?" was asked, after the ragged and dusty wayfarer had been looked over.
"Hannah," replied the deacon, "this man has a soul."
"If he has it ought to be scrubbed with soft soap and hot water!"
"Hannah, he stays!" said the deacon as he set his jaw and that ended it. He was a good man, but now and then it became necessary to let it be known who was running that house. The tramp had a hair cut and a shave and was filled up. When his rags had been exchanged for a whole suit the change in him was great. He looked himself over and wept. As he wept he said that his gratitude overpowered him.
"Overpowered nothing!" snorted the deacon's wife, and he came back with: "Hannah, it's as he says. No one can deceive me. You can see gratitude sticking right out of him."
"You just wait awhile," the deacon's wife replied when he boasted of the success of the upbuilding.
"Hannah, he'll grow better every day. What do you think he asked me yesterday?"
"For a dollar, probably."
"No, he didn't." He asked me if he might ring the church bell on Sunday mornings to call out the congregation."
"And you told him he might?"
"Of course. Don't that show that the man is having serious thoughts?"
"No. It shows that he's getting ready to steal the rope and the bell."
Samuel Smith, a villager, had left his hoe hanging on the limb of a cherry tree in the garden. It disappeared. Mr. Jones had some tools in his barn. The tools went. Mrs. Adams left the Monday wash on the clothes line that night, and not a garment was to be found next morning. Theft after theft occurred, and the whole village became excited.

POTATO MARKET IS LOWER IN SOUTH

Potato market prices are again lower in the south. A few small purchases were reported in the country by local interests during the past 24 hours on the basis of $1.25 @ $1.35 per cental for extra choice, which would not mean above $1.40 for best offerings. Under this condition it might be possible to squeeze $1.50 for some extra select seed, but dealers quote nominally from $1.75 to $2.75 for Burbanks, it is known positively that this price is not being received as actual returns show. A similar condition exists at Los Angeles, where it is stated that Zuckerman, known as the representative of George Shima, the so-called Japanese potato king has been selling Burbanks down to $2 per cental.
New potatoes are quoted nominally at $3.50 @ $4.00 per cental.
Prevailing Oregon City prices are as follows:
DRIED FRUITS—(Buying)—Prunes on basis of 6 to 8 cents.
Fruits, Vegetables.
HIDES—(Buying)—Green hides, 7c to 8c; salters 6c to 7c; dry hides 12c to 14c; sheep pelts, 25c to 75c each.
Hay, Grain, Feed.
EGGS—Oregon ranch eggs, 18c to 20c.
SACK VEGETABLES—Carrots, HAY—(Buying)—Timothy, $12 to $15; clover, $8 to $9; oat hay, best, $9 to $10; mixed, $9 to $11; alfalfa, $15 to $16.50.
OATS—(Buying)—Grays $35 to $36.50; wheat $39; oil meal, selling, $35; Shady Brook dairy feed, $1.30 per 100 pounds.
FREED—(Selling)—Shorts, $25; bran, $25; rolling barley, $39.50 to $40.50; process barley, $40.
FLOUR—$1.60 to $5.40.
Butter, Poultry, Eggs.
POULTRY—(Selling)—Hens 13c to 14c spring, 20c to 22c, and roosters 3c. Stage 11c.
Butter—(Buy)—Ordinary country butter, 20c to 30c; fancy dairy, $1.25 to $1.50 per sack; parsnips, $1.25 to $1.50; turnips, $1.25 to $1.50; beets, $1.50.
POTATOES—Best buying $1.00 to $1.50 according to quality per hundred.
Livestock, Meats
BEEF—(Live Weight)—Steers, 5½c and 6¼c; cows, 4½c; bulls 3½c.
VEAL—Calves 10c to 12c dressed, according to grade.
MOHAIR—32c to 34c.
MUTTON—Sheep 3c to 3½c. lambs, 4c and 5c.

The time to read the Morning Enterprise is at the breakfast table or a little before.

Epigrams in Japan.
The Japanese are great admirers of epigrams and apt phrases. Their love of such things is carried so far that when a guest says something unusually brilliant the host or hostess will beg him to write down his remark in large ornamental script. The sentence is then mounted and hung on the wall as a permanent addition to its ornaments, much as in England we should hang up a text or motto. Naturally the author of a bonmot treated in this way feels himself highly honored to be thus placed on record. But the sentences are selected more for their wisdom than their humor, so that the funny man is not much in evidence.

Makes Sewing a Pleasure

If you could eliminate the tiresome drudgery of pedaling—wouldn't sewing be a pleasure instead of a task?

An electric sewing machine motor attached to your machine does all the WORK, giving any speed desired by the mere pressure of the foot on the treadle.

Current can be drawn from any one of your electric light sockets—at any time—in any room—at a cost of but a half-cent an hour.

Let us explain how simply the motor is attached—how easy the control—how safe the operation. Ask us today.
