

BIG WILD WEST SHOW TO BE HERE TODAY

Stories of western life, of the great cattle ranches, now practically a thing of the past, with their vast herds of wild cattle and happy-go-lucky cowboys, have ever proved the most attractive of all modern tales. But while they thrill one with their realistic descriptions, they are but descriptions, and therefore carry but an imperfect idea of the real life. In the Cooper Bros. Great Wild West Show which will give two performances in Oregon City today, afternoon and evening you see and feel and live the real thing, you see not the moving pictures, but the bucking bronchos, the outlaw steers and those handling them, the picturesque sinewy cowboy with his chaps and spurs, and his deadly weapon, the whirling lasso. You see feats of riding, battles between broncho and rider that seem impossible. You see a girl of the plains, a genuine "cow girl"—You are in fact a part of the wild life. Besides this big show has many special features one of which has never been duplicated, and in which E. McCoy using only his teeth, "bulldogs" a wild steer and throws him in 13 seconds. The rope handling and riding of Mr. and Mrs. Mace (Winfield and Milly) is a revelation in the art of lassoing that must be seen to be believed for they do the apparently impossible, and they have not only no superiors, but no equals in their line.

Another special feature is the riding of "Cactus Kid" Homer Edwards who holds the western and international championship as a rider of vicious bronchos and all-round bad horses. Cuba Crutchfield the Cherokee trick and fancy rider, and expert with the rope, who challenges the world in his line, does a series of stunts that you will not forget soon, and that you will never see unless you see "Cuba" do them. Miss Minnie Richardson, a most daring cowgirl shows by her riding that in the saddle as well as other walks of life woman is cultivated to equal suffrage, for she does her riding and her special acts in a "manly" way. There are dozens of others whom space forbids special mention, but who are all top notchers in their lines. We can only say of them, see their wonderful performances and then sit down and try to write about it and discover how poor the English language is to express thought. The tender and director of this big aggregation, who has charge of the arena and the performances is himself a wonder in the saddle.

Cookery
Notes

Good Things For the Spring Table.

Cocoa Flavored With Cinnamon.—If the afternoon cocoa served in place of tea at the sewing meet or at the little supper is especially delicious it might be well to inquire into its secret if such familiarity is warranted by acquaintance with the hostess. The mixture of some such delicious cup is often a surprise to women who have always supposed that chocolate is chocolate and cocoa cocoa. For instance, one woman favors her cocoa with cinnamon, sherry and vanilla and often adds a cupful of strong coffee to the potful. And she gives a creamy consistency by using a tablespoonful of arrowroot for every quart of hot milk. Four tablespoonfuls of cocoa are allowed to this amount, and it is cooked slowly for twelve minutes with the cinnamon, arrowroot and about three tablespoonfuls of sugar. At the end of this time a tablespoonful of sherry is stirred in with a teaspoonful of vanilla and a saltspoonful of salt. Then the cocoa is whipped with a revolving egg beater until it is a mass of foam. The coffee, very strong, is turned in at the very last if it is wanted.

Swiss Steak.—Put two and a half pounds of round steak into a saucepan with just enough cold water to keep it from burning as it slowly cooks until tender enough to fall to pieces. Keep the saucepan well covered. A casserole is the best dish for cooking this tender. Then remove the bones, fat and gristle and mince very fine. Add salt and pepper to suit the taste, a pinch of nutmeg and a little catsup or hot table sauce. Press out the juices and work into the meat one unbeaten egg. Mold into shapes four inches long and three inches wide. Sauté these a nice brown in good sweet dripping or bacon fat; arrange on a hot platter and garnish with parsley. Make a sauce by adding a large tablespoonful of butter to the pressed out juices, a cupful of milk, half a cupful of water and salt and pepper to taste. Thicken with a little flour paste and add half a can of button mushrooms or a dozen small oysters parboiled in their own liquor. If the oysters are used take the oyster liquor instead of the water for making the sauce.

Jelly Filled Oranges.—Take as many large China oranges as liked, then with the point of a sharp knife cut out from the top of each a round about the size of a quarter; then empty out the pulp, taking care not to break the rinds. Throw into cold water. Make some jelly of the juice pressed from the pulp and strained quite clear. Color one half a bright rose color with prepared cochineal, leaving the other very pale. When the jelly is nearly cold, drain and wine the oranges and fill with alternate stripes of the different colored jelly, each color being allowed to get quite cold before the other is poured in. When they are perfectly cold cut into quarters with a very sharp knife and arrange tastefully on a dish with sprigs of myrtle between.

New England Pie.—Use a deep pie plate. Pare Baldwin or greening apples, core and cut in thin slices. Line your pie plate with pastry, place a layer of apples over this and sprinkle with brown sugar. Then another layer of apple with the sugar until the pie plate is well filled and heaped in the middle. Over the top dot bits of butter, shake a pinch of salt over the whole and a small dash of red pepper, which will give a rich, pungent seasoning that other spices will not. Wet the edge of the lower crust, sprinkle with flour, put on the upper crust and press the edges firmly together. Bake a rich brown.

Parsnip Stew.—Wash and scrape half a dozen parsnips and slice the round way. Put on to cook in just enough water to cover. Add half a dozen thin slices of fat salt pork, two large onions, sliced, half a dozen medium sized potatoes. Stew all together slowly, adding salt, pepper and a dash of cayenne fifteen minutes before serving. When done, add half a cup of cream, a small piece of butter and four enough to thicken the gravy. Serve hot on a platter around boiled salt mackerel or flumm haddock cooked in milk or broiled.

Puree of Carrots.—Boil enough carrots to make two cupfuls after they have been cut through a sieve. Add three cupfuls of milk, add salt to taste and place over the fire and let come to a boil, then add three small table-spoonfuls of flour mixed with a little cold milk. Stir constantly until it boils, add a tablespoonful of butter, a dash of pepper and take from the fire and serve. A little light brown sugar may be added and a dash of grated nutmeg if you like.

Casserole of Chops.—For a casserole of chops, sauté the chops in a pan with minced onions until they are well browned. Then put the chops into the casserole, cover them with two minced peppers, the contents of a bottle of button mushrooms, diced potatoes that have been parboiled and a can of peas drained from their liquor. Moisten the contents with hot water, season with salt and pepper, and cook slowly for about half an hour. Some persons add a tomato.

The Lost.
When a fellow has discovered that all his loose change has filtered through a hole in his trousers pocket it is nearly impossible to get him to accept the scientific proposition that nothing is ever lost.

A Strong Hint.
"Did your cook say right out that she wanted you all to stay at home that evening?"
"No; but she put onions in every mouthful of food we had to eat that day."—New York Sun.

THE LOTTERY OF MARRIAGE.

Is marriage a lottery? More or less—yes. All things human are uncertain, and the uncertainty of marriage makes it a game in which there is hazard. However—The lottery drawing differs from marriage in this. In the lottery are but few prizes and many blanks; in marriage are a few blanks and many prizes. With all proper precaution sometimes one may draw an undesirable mate in the matrimonial lottery. It is impossible to foresee what may happen. But—The marriage game would be less a gamble were there more knowledge and less deception in antenuptial proceedings. Without deliberate intention to deceive one another before marriage, what amounts to that is often practiced by the man or the woman. Each puts the "best foot forward." The shield is shown on but one side, and there is poor opportunity to see the other side. Besides—Ofentimes there is a veil of romance or of illusion between the two; and sometimes the veil is purposely drawn. Conditions being such, should it be thought a matter of special wonder that some one sometimes draws the booby prize? Oftentimes when young persons fancy they know each other thoroughly they are really ignorant of each other's temperament, weaknesses and tendencies. The man is lured by a pretty face or figure or attractive charm; the girl takes the man mostly on faith. It speaks well for average humanity that by some happy chance such unions should turn out well. Young man, young woman—Build your future happiness on nothing less than positive knowledge of your sweetheart's strength and weakness. You are taking a long chance when you risk your peace of mind and heart for a lifetime on good looks or charming manners. Marriage is a lottery because it is so often shrouded in a mystery. Love is often blind—too blind. Therefore do people engage in the drawing from the matrimonial grab bag—win or lose—some, by a marvel of chance, to draw a prize and others a marital gold brick. Yes, marriage is a lottery—more's the pity.

SENATE FIGHTS FOR DIRECT ELECTION PLAN

WASHINGTON, April 23.—The Senate decided, 42 to 36, today to insist on its Federal control amendment to the House resolution looking to the election of United States Senators by direct vote of the people. The effect will be to send the measure to conference again. Senator Borah of Idaho was the only Republican Senator voting with the Democrats against the motion. The conference report announcing the failure to agree declared that the House proposed to take away from Congress all supervisory power over Senatorial elections. "To deprive Congress of the right to say whether a member of either body had been corruptly elected," Senator Clark, of Wyoming, chairman of the judiciary committee, said, "is striking at the very root of our legislative department. It is my opinion that the House amendment would preclude Congress from making any investigation into the selection of a Senator. It would leave it entirely in the hands of the states." Senator Clark is one of the Senate conferees. The report of the failure of agreement, after 16 conferences between the Representatives of the two Houses was in accordance with a notice Senator Clark recently gave that he would report disagreement.
