A CONVENTION CITY.

Now, what do you think of that? Oregon City a Convention City. We have entered into work for our spiritual as well as our financial welfare. In April, 1912, one year hence, we will welcome and entertain the representatives from Sunday Schools from all sections of the State, 500 to 600 in number. This demonstrates that all we need to do to get things is to go after them. We are awaking to the fact that we have a beautiful, resourceful city, one which everyone in the state should visit, one which will be visited by thousands if we only let them know we are on the map. Since the large expenditures during the past 2 years on street work, and the other work of great public interest and benefit, including the beautifying of our parks by the Woman's Club, we have something of a scenic nature beyond compare to show and methods for showing same.

Now we are after conventions. We have proposed and been accepted by The Oregon State Sunday School Association. We have many places in which this convention can be held, but none of them public halls or auditoriums. If we get busy and build a place second to none, one large enough for gatherings twice in number of that to be with us in April next. We also have hotels, and our people will take many into their homes, but the Hotel Committee of The Live Wires says it must get busy and interest Foreign Capital in the enterprise if our city and county folk do not see fit to do so. There are many sites of considerable value for this purpose, and with the promised elevator to the hill bluff sites are valuable and available.

The Commercial Club and Oregon City are to be congratulated on securing this assembly of church folk.
