

Oregonians Are Urged To Buy "Made In Oregon" Goods

The made in Oregon campaign to extend the home market for products of Oregon industries makes its first appearance in the advertising columns of this daily newspaper. A page to appear once a week for a year has been contracted for by representative manufacturers and readers of this paper are requested to buy the Oregon products.

The "Keep twenty millions at home that are now sent east" means a great deal to the home market, the home industry and the Oregon wage earner. It is interesting to know that Oregon industries an Oregon interprises can be made highly successful if given an equal chance at Oregon patronage. The only line not purely manufacturing on this page is insurance and the amount of money sent out of the state for that purpose is appallingly large. The Oregon Life with a record of $7,500,000 in policies written in seven years and only $38,000 losses is a record showing that the health, stability and prosperity of this state is without a parallel.

The Pacific States company is an all-Oregon fire insurance company organized on the same conservative lines; and with the high character of Oregon people and the low fire risk is destined to as great a career. Wood manufacturing is naturally given the largest share of attention. Firms like the Central Door & Lumber company, and the Carmen Manufacturing Company build and equip interiors for business firms, banks, lodges, churches and club rooms. They construct art glass and metal work, marble and tiling. Oregon is a great furniture manufacturing state. The Kingeraft chairs of the Oregon Chair Company are found in the lobbies and parlors of the new Multnomah hotel. No finer chairs are made in the United States and no home or office is complete without one. R. Veal & Son of Albany make seventy styles of cheaper chairs and rockers. Their chairs are made from oak, ash and maple grown in Oregon and there is little excuse for sending money for furniture to Michigan.

It is almost a crime against industrial Oregon to send money east for flour and cereal products. The Crown and Columbia mills products should displace all Minneapolis flour now used in carloads by Oregon people. Albers Brothers Violet Oats—their mills using 400 carloads of Oregon oats in a single month—surpass in quality any rolled oats made. Their pancake flour and the Columbia Wheat Flakes alone would keep $100,000 in Oregon if used by Oregon people. Clothing manufacture is naturally one of the most important lines and strongly represented. With a number of the largest woolen mills on the coast, including a mohair mill, there is an increasing demand for Oregon made clothing among the people of this state. The products of the Salem, Eugene and Brownsville woolen mills are made up into suits for the Bowman stores at Portland, Eugene, Marshfield. Clothing is made up from the Oregon Woolen manufactured by the Oregon City woolen mills and Fleischer, Mayer & Company. The mohairs made at Sellwood by the Multnomah Mohair Company from the Angora goats grown to perfection in this state, are fabrics that any man or woman in Oregon City should be proud to wear.

It is estimated that a quarter of a million dollars are sent east each year for paints, wood fillers and stains that are manufactured here in Oregon. In this line are products of the Oregon Wood Distilling Company with its large plant at Linnton, where the fir stumps are thrown into the retorts and creosote and about thirty other chemical products are refined. This material forms the base of the Cendor paints and should be used by Oregon home builders interested in Oregon payrolls.

By looking over the "Made in Oregon" page readers will find they can sleep on Oregon made beddings, eat Oregon-made pickles and relishes, eat Oregon-made crackers and wash them down with Oregon-made beer as good as any beer sold, count their money on an Oregon-made cashier, listen to music on an Oregon-made piano while smoking an Oregon-made cigar. Their are special interests in Oregon that deserve special reference. How many know that the Bergmann loggers shoe has the highest reputation in that line of any shoe made in the United States if not in the world? That the Central Door and Lumber Company makes plate glass mirrors as good as the finest imported? That Portland is one of the largest harness manufacturing cities in the North American and that McMonies' gall-proof collar is one of the greatest humane inventions of the age? That the Swastika Macaroni factory puts out twenty kinds of noodles and alimentary pastes, the equal in quality of any imported products? That the Portland Coring Company has one of the largest payrolls in Portland and makes binding twine, wool twine and hop twine superior to the imported? Why not ask your dealer for the Oregon-made products? Do you not owe that to the home industry that in time makes a market for your product? Is not the home manufacturer who is nearest to the consumer compelled to keep up the quality of his product more than the eastern manufacturer who is far from the market.

The answers to these questions are equally true of every line represented on this page. The same quality goes into the products of the Dwight Edwards Company, who import coffees in bulk from the plantations direct from all over the world. The products of the Union Meat Company go direct to the consumer through the retailer who hears the slightest complaint as to quality. A soft drink called "R-Porter", made by the Puritan Manufacturing Company is displacing a great deal of the ginger ale and grape-juice. It should be sold on all buffet and dining cars. It is made of pure fruit juice and distilled water and is displacing stronger beverages. The manufacturer of the Lionite Giant Powder near Portland, a safety and sanitary explosive that is displacing the more dangerous and nausea-producing dynamites, will save millions for Oregon in money and human life. "Vitrified sewer pipe, made in Oregon will interest every city in the state. A visit to the large plant of the Irvin-Hodson Company at Portland, or the Willamette Pulp and Paper Mills at Oregon City would convince anyone that there is little excuse for sending money out of Oregon for trifles like rubber stamps, celluloid buttons, lithographing or printing paper.

Only a short time in which to make good in the auto contest.

DO YOUR BEST.
No matter what the task, always do the very best you can. Only to the few is given the chance to do great and shining deeds, to link their fame with some mighty achievement, but to every man it has been given to act well his part—to perform his own duties, each simple in itself, whose sum is vast and whose effects are enduring.

Not a Landlubber.
Nelle—Maudie makes some queer remarks. She says Chelly does his courting like a sailor. Delle—Nothing queer about that. That's only her modest way of saying he's fond of smacks. Philadelphia Record.

Boosting a City.
There is a great opportunity for city boosting through the combination of the municipal bond and municipal advertisement. This is the day when the bond issue builds the city. With money coming to it from every side of the country, money drawn from the savings bank and sometimes the stocking hidden between the mattresses, the modern city has gained the beauties which make it famous. The public school buildings of the southeast are made possible by the money of orange growers of California, and the Massachusetts mill owner and his operator often furnish funds for bridges and boulevards in a western city.—John J. Duffy in Leslie's.

English Daisies.
The word "daisy" means "day's eye," because the little pink English daisies always close their petals when the sun goes down. An American woman found that out once when she was in England. She thought the English people didn't appreciate their little pink daisies. They rooted them all out of their lawn with big knives and said they were just weeds. So the American said she was going to wear some at dinner. They said nobody but babies wore daisies. But she picked a bunch of them and wore them. And in the middle of the dinner she looked down and found they'd all gone fast asleep.—Exchange.

The Tea Problem.
"Is tea harmful?"
"Sometimes it drives a man from home," replied Mr. Cumrox solemnly. "It all depends on whether your wife is content to drink it or insists on giving it to ope."—Washington Star.

PRISON LIFE TO BE SHOWN IN PICTURES

MANNER OF CONDUCTING OREGON PENITENTIARY TO BE THROWN ON SCREEN

The manner in which the Oregon penitentiary is being conducted under Gov. West is causing much excited discussion pro and con all over the United States, and even in Europe. Leading magazines of the east—the Outlook for one—have sent special representatives to this state to investigate, and the Oregon prison is continually in the limelight of the newspapers. Even the people of England have become familiar with Governor West's prison policy, through the discussions of this subject by the great London dailies.

The motion picture houses, too have taken up the matter, and recently a series of splendid pictures has been prepared, covering all interesting phases of convict life in the Oregon prison from the receipt of the prisoners at the station at Salem, by Warden Curtis, to the convict's final liberation.

The interesting thumb print system is clearly explained, the Bertillon measurements shown, the Harry Tracy escape, etc., in fact, stories and pictures. Packed houses have been greeting these pictures throughout Oregon.

Elmo S. White, well known locally, has these pictures in charge, and will show them throughout the east. Before starting on the extended trip, however, they will be shown at the Grand Theatre Wednesday and Thursday, May 8th and 9th, both afternoon and evening.

A Perpetual Sacred Fire.

In the peninsula of Abcheron, formerly belonging to Persia, but now a part of Russia, there is a perpetual or, rather, what the natives call an eternal sacred fire, which is known to have been burning continually for more than 2,000 years. It rises from an irregular orifice of about twelve feet in depth and 150 feet square. The flames, which are constant, rise to a height of from six to eight feet, unaccompanied by smoke or disagreeable smell, waving back and forth with the wind like a field of golden grain.

Look at this Dollars' Worth!

THERE is only one bigger dollars' worth in America than 4 pairs of Underhose for $1.00, and that is our Special Underhose Value of 3 pairs to one box; Single pair 35 cts. We recommend them above any 35c stockings on the market. In fit, finish and appearance they are perfection, and have the same broad guarantee as protects all Underhoses.
