THE BABY HOME

One of the greatest charity works of the present day is that of taking care of the homeless waifs and orphans brought into this world never to know their parents, but to live and suffer for their sins. There are many institutions of this nature in our state and great need for them. The state aids them but not nearly enough to do the part of the work for which the state at large should be taxed.

The St. Agnes Baby Home at Park place houses over 90 babies from a few days to 5 years of age. The Sisters have to work night and day in order to keep up the great work. Many outside people aid, but the lines are as hard as the work is thankless, although the reward of those giving their lives for the common good of tinue to happen. A rock in the road course is not of this world. Our legislative friends should consider the a fatal catastrophe; a broken brake pressing need of additional state aid has often caused an auto to plunge when such matters are in order in down a precipice; a tire blow out has

ROSE DAY PUBLICITY

The Publicity Manager of the Com mercial club could do a lot of good advertising at little expense if he would have printed 10,000 to 20,000 small hand bills and leave them at the wrapping counters of our various stores to be placed in packages and in the offices of our attorneys and others with large mailing business, these bills informing the public generally of the plans for June 8, 1912. These would not alone get into the homes of our city folk but all through the county as well, causing hundreds to visit us on the day in question.

A visitor in Oregon City Sunday, a former resident, now a prominent Portland resident passed by McLoughlin Park and after inspecting the place, having known its history and its condition three years ago, remarked that the Woman's Club judgment the equal of their enfrib should be complimented on its work and should be encouraged to take up other improvements of like nature. If the business men of the city would aid, the bluff could be terraced and commend the same to the considerabeautified to such an extent that our tion of all those persons who now excity would be known the length and breadth of the land as Oregon's Garden Spot, the City Beautiful, etc. It Morris, Condon, Gilliam County; Pois worth the endeavor. Who will take it up?
