RIVER SANITARY ASSOCIATION

This association formed in Portland not long since has a great work set out to be accomplished, one which will do our city and county greater good for the money and energy expended than many other organizations combined. It is the object of the Sanitary Association to prevent the Willamette river from becoming contaminated by dead eels and other fish which in previous summers have become a vile nuisance to those who enjoy boating, bathing and fishing on this beautiful river. The Live Wires have taken an interest in the matter and it is to be hoped that the business men will do their part.

ROAD BILLS

Compromise is the one best way to settle disputes. We are promised five to six road bills on the ballot at the next general election. The Live Wires want a compromise and one good strong practical bill which will ensure roads where they are needed and at the lowest possible cost. Stay with it. Hard and continuous work de-

Scoop Brightens Up the Dark Spots in the Society Column

YOU'RE GETTING OUT A PRETTY GOOD SOCIETY MAGAZINE - BUT IT NEEDS BRIGHTENING UP - GET A LIVE SPRING STYLE STORY FROM SOME CLASSY DAME.

THERE'S A PRETTY STYLISH LOOKING DOLL, I'LL FLAG HER - HOW GET A SPRING STYLE INTERVIEW?

OH! MOMENT MAMA - I WOULD HAVE A WORD WITH YOU!

I KNOW YOU'LL THINK ME RUDE - BUT I WOULD LIKE TO GET YOUR IDEAS LADY, ON SPRING STYLES FOR THE SOCIETY MAG OF OUR PAPER.

HUH?

erves and is usually rewarded with success. In any event let's vote for good roads.

While on the compromise why not get our political and industrial friends together and settle their differences without carrying the matter to the Legislature. The Enterprise is strong for what is the best for the greatest number and until we have all the industry our city and power can handle it seems folly to take a stand which will retard our growth.

The eager manner in which bond purchasers went after our water bonds shows that our credit is good. When five per cent bonds will go at a premium of over two per cent we have a financial condition of which we should be proud.

Many cities are in debt to even greater amount than our water and city bonds combined, and Oregon City could easily bond itself for another quarter million without selling at a discount. If our city property was assessed at its real value the tax rate would be very low as compared with other cities.

Upon the removal of the dead eels from the river hinges the advisability of placing the proposed swimming pool in the lower river. If conditions this summer are the same as last year the lower river will be so filthy and foul from dead eels, etc. that the water would not be fit to swim in. It is hoped that the move to raise $200 to spend in removing the eels will be successful.

If you think your light bill is too high, why don't you learn to read the meter and keep tabs for yourself?

Let's take a day off—Portland won a game!

Nine months in jail will give Mrs. Pankhurst plenty of time to "think again" before she starts on another windurst smashing expedition.

Taft has been called upon to "leave the field" but he says there is another "quarter" to the game and he isn't beaten yet.

Those Portland men on the Tillamook won't want anyone to even whisper "cheese" for six months.

A peculiar feature of the Darrow trial in Los Angeles will be a jury of thirteen.

Of course the net result is the same if a murderer is shot to death or hanged, so perhaps the Salt Lake authorities did right in allowing a condemned man the former method of paying the penalty.

Nearly 200 state automobile licenses were issued this week. This makes more than ten thousand a year.

Our own Eddy Ryan, upon making a "home" at Cleveland lately was presented auto goggles, box of cigars, diamond stud, $5 vest, $5 worth of barber work and a bottle of champagne. No wonder every lot in town has its bunch of boys, playing the national game.

Even Russia is getting busy. 251 millions for new battleships isn't half bad, but where does she get the money?

The Bear now makes the run from San Francisco in just forty-eight hours—The S. P. will no doubt announce a reduction in the running time of the Shasta Limited.

Talk about your ideal climates—leave it to old Oregon. Wasn't that rain just dandy.

Funeral Cortage of General Frederick Dent Grant, U. S. A.

Photos by American Press Association.

THE funeral of Major General Frederick Dent Grant, U. S. A., late commander of the department of the east, was one of the most impressive seen in New York in many years. It was attended by the president of the United States and high officers of the army and the national guard, and many thousands of spectators bared their heads as the procession passed up Broadway and Fifth Avenue on its way from Governors Island to West Point. The coffin, wrapped in the flag, was carried on a caisson, and behind it paced the dead soldier's favorite horse, Pat. In flowing black trappings. In the stirrups, reversed in accordance with military usage, were the general's boots. Besides the regular troops and militia organizations, the U. S. Grant post of the Grand Army of the Republic took part in the procession, the veterans having the place of honor.

THE AMERICAN HEN IN CLACKAMAS COUNTY

(OREGON CITY PUBLICITY) "Poets may sing of the glory of the eagle and artists may paint the beauties of birds of plumage, but the modest American hen is entitled to a tribute for her industry, her usefulness and her productivity. The American hen can produce wealth equal to the capital stock of all the banks of the New York Clearing House in three months and have a week to spare. In less than sixty days she can equal the total production of all the gold mines in the United States. The United States proudly boasts of its enormous production of pig iron, by far the greatest of any country in the world, and yet the American hen produces as much in six months as all the iron mines in the country produce in a year. In one year and ten months she could pay off the interest-bearing debt of the United States." (Congress Dawson, of Iowa, in the House.) Eggs and poultry produced on American farms in 1909 reached a value of $25,000,000. Half of this value was in eggs. Poultry products exceed the value of wheat by a hundred million dollars. Missouri produced $47,000,000 worth of poultry last season—Oregon but $3,000,000. A conservative estimate—a car load (400 cases) of eggs is shipped into Portland six days each week during the year from the east. From 75 to 100 coops (2 dozen fowls in each coop) of eastern poultry arrive in Portland daily. Frozen poultry shipped into Portland yearly from the east at a cost of $2,500,000 went into the pockets of the eastern poultry men instead of Oregon pockets. Just think of this and Clackamas County right here next to Portland and still poultry and eggs must be shipped several thousand miles to supply the demand. What is the matter? Is this not a poultry country? Yes, it is, and a good one. There is no place that will excel Clackamas County. The trouble is that there are not enough people to raise the poultry. Our cities are growing so fast that the rural people cannot feed them, and still only one acre in ten is being utilized. What do you think? It appears like the best kind of an opportunity for some industrious people to engage in the poultry industry in Clackamas County.

A FEW QUESTIONS

(OREGON CITY PUBLICITY) Here are a few of the many questions that are asked of the Oregon City Commercial Club. We are always glad to answer all questions and never fail to answer all of them. We know that we have a good country or we would not be here ourselves and we consider that others should know of the opportunities here and come and share them with us. Are there any mosquitoes, red bugs or ants in your section? A few mosquitoes of the small variety in some sections although they are not considered very bothersome. No red bugs. A few small ants; they do no harm. Any poisonous snakes? None. What are your fog months? Fall and winter. Do these fogs generally last all day? No. Only a short time in the morning as a rule. Are they salt fogs? No. Are your old people noticeably rheumatic? No more so here than other places. What about asthma? Cases rare. As a whole, what would you judge to be the bulk of the nationality of your people? German, other than Americans. Have you any Southern people? Yes; a few. During what months do you have frosts? As a rule from November to the first of March. Is there any wing shooting to be had over dogs? Yes, in some parts wing shooting is fine.

JOHN R. DIMICK IS BURNED TO DEATH

In 1903 and his mother died two years ago. The couple came to Clackamas County in 1847. A strange coincidence in connection with the fire is that the house was ablaze two weeks ago, but Mr. Dimick and the men employed on the ranch extinguished the blaze. They had been more careful since then, and the only explanation of the origin of the second blaze is that the chimney was defective. Mr. Dimick was a Knight of Pythias and that order will have charge of the funeral. The body was burned beyond recognition. The dwelling was old and burned rapidly and it is believed that Mr. Dimick was overcome by the heat while attempting to remove papers, deeds and documents belonging to clients whom he still served though retired from active practice.

NOTICES.

Notice of Hearing of Fourteenth Street Assessment.

Notice is hereby given that the apportionment of the improvement of Fourteenth Street, Oregon City, Oregon, from the East line of Main Street to the West line of Washington Street, has been ascertained and the proposed assessment has been apportioned and is now on file in the office of the Recorder of Oregon City and subject to examination. Any objections that may be made in writing to the City Council of Oregon City and filed with the Recorder thereof within ten days after the first publication of this notice will be heard and determined by the Council before the passage of any Ordinance assessing the cost of said improvement. The property assessed for said improvement lies on both sides of the part of said Fourteenth Street proposed to be improved and the line of lots abutting on said part of said Fourteenth Street farthest from said part of said Fourteenth Street and said part of said Fourteenth Street. This notice is published in the Morning Enterprise, the first publication being the 11th day of May, 1912, and the City Council has set the 22nd day of May at the Council Chamber of Oregon City as the time and place of the passing on said objections. L. STIPP, Recorder.

To Segregate a Corporation Doesn't Regulate a Man

Advertisement for George W. Perkins. It features a portrait of a man with a mustache and the text: 'We Are Living Entirely in a New World' and 'We Fail to Read Signs of the Times'. The author is identified as 'By GEORGE W. PERKINS, Financier of New York'.

NO thoughtful, intelligent man can deny the fact we are living in a new world—a world almost wholly unknown to our forefathers, and we are using little of their fabric save honor and integrity. Without doubt our political representatives and many of our statesmen have utterly failed to read aright the signs of the times. Bloodshed and riot followed the labor saving machines, but now they are accepted and protected. And now we are passing through almost a parallel experience with our corporations. They have created FEAR AMONG THE PEOPLE just as the other machines did, but in place of being destroyed by workmen these corporate machines are being TORN ASUNDER BY THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT ITSELF. The true American has no such fear. He FEARS THE METHOD OF THE BLIND POOR. He has the right to know from the government what is being done by great business enterprises in which his money is invested. We are afraid of a dishonest, corrupt, unfair, selfish man, and we must learn to regulate and control the actions of men. We must have LAWS THAT WILL PUNISH A MAN WHO COMMITS THE CRIME, not the stockholder or the public which is being served. TO SEGREGATE A CORPORATION DOES NOT REGULATE A MAN.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE THE REGILDED GOLD BRICK. He wanted to get rich quick. A page advertisement of the Sure Thing Mining and Milling Company, Limited, of Allureville, Nev., caught his eye. The writer of that ad. was a word artist. The announcement was all draped in gorgeous rhetoric, the tons of ore just in sight, each ton assaying steenth per cent of gold, dividends—they could scarcely be less than 50 per cent—all merely waiting the placement of machinery for development. The price of the certificates was "only 10 cents per share." Why, said the ad. artist, did not every one know the history of the Homestake and Anaconda and Calumet and Hecla—how at one time the precious stock sold for a song? Surely. And, said the promoters—"If you are not satisfied come to our office, X. Y. Z., in the Too Good Loan and Trust company building." "Our office" was luxurious. The man did not inquire of himself how these people could spend so much money in advance. And the doctored reports of the assayers, estimated output, cost of production, balloon dividends, aeroplane prospects—all these he swallowed. He did not know the "experts" nor the personnel of the directory board. He asked for no abstract of title to the "claims." You see, rich men look closely into their investments. That is why they are rich. But the man who can least afford it shuts his eyes and takes the risk. In the category of the mine sharks and sharpers our man is a "sucker"—one of whom is said to be born every minute. He did not go to his banker for advice. He sneaked in at the side entrance and drew out his money as if he feared the banker might persuade him out of the grand chance of his life quickly to grow rich. He did not consult a lawyer. He did not ask his wife. The glowing page of an advertisement, big type and little type—so chary of real facts and so rosy of promise—had lulled him. And so his little savings made one of the streamlets that went to make the golden flood that poured into the head office of the promoters. The man is a type. There are others.
