ADVERTISING OUR CITY.

A stranger on Morrison Bridge, Portland, a few days since, saw the steamer "Ruth of Oregon City, Or., passing through on its way to Astoria dock to dispose of its daily cargo of paper—some 250 tons made at Oregon City. His question was, "Where is Oregon City, what is it noted for?" and a few others. He was informed of the close proximity to Portland and that it is the largest paper and woolen goods producing section of the west. After instructions for reaching our city, he stated he would visit us before leaving Oregon.

This steamer, one of the Willamette Navigation Company fleet of Oregon City makes a round trip each day and does considerable in the way of advertising our part of Clackamas county. Would it not be well for the Publicity Department to take up again the matter of electric sign for our Suspension bridge. We think our business men would consider a special subscription for the first expense, provided the department kept up the power cost.

It might also be well to get more notice in Portland that we are on the map.

The railways and Portland commercial club do much to get people to Portland. Are we doing our part to get them away from Portland and investigating our district? These are things for us all to consider. They are important.

Vacation time is near at hand. Where are you going? If one would only think for a moment he would see that we have everything here to be found other places. Just get together with the Publicity committee and keep something doing at home every month during the summer.

RIGHT OF CONTRACT

There are many things for which we all should be happy and consider ourselves especially blessed. We have a free country politically and from a religious standpoint our constitution gives us many rights that citizens of other countries do not enjoy. We are protect by laws the equal of which cannot be found in other lands, and above all we have the right of contract for property or labor, one which is unrestricted and allows the mechanic to get what his services are worth or what he is willing to work for and to work as many hours as he pleases. Many months of the year the days are so long that a man can, if he will, work longer hours on his contract with telling effect financially and otherwise. Such a right is worth more to us than we may at first imagine. Study it over and see if we are not right.

IMPROVE THE CROSSINGS

The crossings on our new streets are from two inches to six inches above the elevation of the street. These are dangerous to pedestrians and a nuisance to automobilists. In fact the beauties of our city are kept from the public who travel in automobiles on account of the necessity for changing gear at almost every crossing. The city fathers have had their troubles with engineers and this fault is no doubt chargeable to this department, but we now have a wide awake young man taking care of such matters and we trust the new streets will be taken care of with cement or bitumen crossings on grade and that repairs will be found necessary on all poorly constructed crossings. We have good streets and they should be open to advertise our good city.

CLARENCE BRUNER

This young man entered the employ of the Willamette Pulp & Paper Company fourteen years ago as a common helper. Showing some ability and a willingness to work he was promoted from time to time until some few years ago he was made millwright of the tipple mill. Later he took up mechanical drawing and about six months ago was promoted to the draughting department, on May 15 took the position of master mechanics assistant under Mr. James H. Cary. Another good evidence of the fact that a man who will help himself will be helped by his employer.

We can do more for you in advertising work than any other medium provided it is applied in the right way by the right people. The Enterprise has on its staff masters in the art. Let us know your wants, we will do the rest.

MAPLE LANE CLUB HAS EXCELLENT PROGRAM

The women of the Maple Lane Mutual Improvement Club were entertained by Mrs. Parker at her home Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Parker being assisted in entertaining by Mrs. Cone and Mrs. Schmidt. An excellent program was given: recitation, Mrs. Schmidt, the title of which was "How Deacon Adams Admonished His Son;" recitation, "The Millin Seed," (by request) Dorothy Swallow; recitation, Glenn Parker; vocal solo, "The Pilot," Mrs. Sartin; recitation, Mrs. Craven; reading, "The Art of Letting Go," Mrs. Sartin.

The rooms were prettily decorated, the decorations, which were very artistic, being furnished and designed by Mrs. Cone. The color scheme was pink, which was carried out even in the cakes and other refreshments served. In the center of the table was a large pink bowl, in the center of which were slips of paper on which were written questions or directions, each being attached to ribbons extending to each place. Each guest was called upon to answer the questions or do what she was directed by the slip of paper she drew from the bowl. This feature furnished a great deal of merriment for the club.

Berger, Lunn and Seidel, Widely Known Socialists

At a mass meeting recently called in New York to celebrate the fifteenth anniversary of the Daily Forward, a Socialist newspaper, three of the speakers were the men whose portraits appear in the group above—Ex-Mayor Emil Seidel of Milwaukee (standing), Mayor George R. Lunn of Schenectady, N. Y. (at left), and Representative Victor L. Berger of Milwaukee (at right of the picture). They are the three most prominent officeholding Socialists in the United States, for Mr. Seidel may be said still to belong to that class, although he was defeated in the last Milwaukee election. The Rev. Mr. Lunn was elected mayor of Schenectady last fall. Mr. Berger, who is the only Socialist member of congress, said at the meeting: "I intend to go back to congress. The labor class wants me there, and I like my job. Moreover, for the first time in my life I am getting decent wages. I don't manage to keep any of it, but I set it, and that's something. I promise you to be elected again and to take a companion back with me. I expect you to send at least one from New York. I am looking for one from North Dakota and two or three from Ohio I expect that the party will poll 2,000,000 votes and that there will be twelve or fifteen Socialist congressmen."
