BEAUTY AND COMMERCE

Much has been said about the stream which passes our doors. Poets have seen in it inspiration for beautiful verse. Artists have put on canvas what their eye and talent showed to them but for years, yes, generations and centuries this great water way has been in existence, winding its way to the ocean, serving no purpose other than what nature itself asked of it.

Not many years ago—a little over a generation, our townspeople saw its commercial value. Our city was then very small, still the great river, Willamette, was a tower of strength sufficient to build up not alone the city we have today, but one of the greatest industries of the age, a process for manufacture of paper from logs, one of Oregon's greatest products, still the industry called upon the forests for logs of no value for other purposes, giving to the timber business a new outlet for what had hitherto been thought valueless timber.

This industry therefore had a great part to play in the upbuilding of Oregon City, and Clackamas County and through its steady increase in production; the timber business of the State of Oregon. From a plant employing 50 to 75 men 20 years ago, over 1000 men of Oregon City and vicinity find employment in the mills of the three companies now doing business here by virtue of the great everlasting power at the Falls of the Willamette. 40,000 horse power are now harnessed and with legislation equally favorable to employe and employer, there is no real good reason why the mills here should not add to their plants from time to time each of which calls for at least 100 additional hands. We have 40,000 winter month horse power still for this purpose. We know that the industry has done for us in the past. We know what Patrick Henry said in his speech,

The Sporting Editor in Denver Has the Right Dope

"There is no way to judge of the future, but by the past." Why not get together citizens of Oregon City of Clackamas County and of the state of Oregon and foster the industry which has done so much for us all.

Wood paper on this coast was first manufactured at Oregon City. Oregon City still produces the majority of the paper consumed on the coast. Oregon City can continue to have this distinction if it will but aid itself. No one who will not help himself can expect to be helped. Still the old Willamette, the beautiful Willamette of verse and art, the Willamette which has made Oregon City famous and known to the entire world, continues on its way to the sea unmindful of the good it has done and is doing for humanity.

Not a few people think that the shipping of freight to Pacific Coast points via Panama will only start when the big ditch is finished. For a number of years every merchant in town has been having some of his freight shipments come that way. They are transported on steamers from New York to Panama, then taken overland across the isthmus and re-loaded on ships and taken to their destination. Even with all this handling the freight rates are about one-fourth to a half of what the railroad companies charge for the straight haul across the continent.

The busiest man in town these days is the photographer. Graduation pictures, you know. They tell us it's all off with the four legged duck. Very few people can stand "too much of a good thing."

PASTOR PLEADS FOR PATRIOTISM

trust, established forever. So can we come to memorial day in these times as a day that shall not keep alive the memories of a conflict but shall rather commemorate the heroes of a new era of peace. A war that does not establish a more permanent peace by bringing in a new righteousness or a new freedom is worse than a failure. It is an unmitigated evil.

War is only a last resort to force the "wronger to render right." Undertaken for any other reason it is an outrage on civilization, a blot on the human race. No man and no nation is justified in any fight for aggression or for vengeance.

We Americans need not make the mistake of thinking that patriotism is a bar to a true internationalism, that love of country means hatred of any other country, that honor to battle-scarred veterans means love of war and the exaltation of the military spirit. A love of man that has no home or country is strange and unnatural. If a man cannot love his fellow citizens whom he has seen how can he love the nation whom he has not seen? If a man has no love for the people of which he is a part how can he love the other peoples of which he is only a distant observer? We owe our first duty to the land that has borne us, nourished us, given us freedom and a glorious heritage. It is our privilege to be citizens of a land which stands on such a broad platform of justice and humanity that it can apply the Golden Rule to the nations and fear not, a land that will stand for the integrity of a nation about to be dismembered as well as for its own; a people whose citizens are already of one blood with nearly all nations of the earth and whose spirit is permeating the world with a love of freedom.

We are glad then to honor today those who have helped through a great conflict to extend our liberties and broaden our humanity. Every great national struggle has witnessed a new birth of freedom and a new consciousness of the meaning of our national life. Every such struggle has cost us heavily but it has been worth the cost.

We honor the veterans of our wars not because we are dazzled with military glory or infatuated with daring deeds, but because these men dared to sacrifice themselves for their country's need, because in that emergency they were the men who made a way for liberty and dared to die when the need of the hour demanded lives.

The "Tichborne Dole," a Quaint English Charity

Photos by American Press Association.

ONE of the largest landowners in the south of England, Sir Henry Alfred Joseph Doughty-Tichborne, dispenses every year a charity whose foundation is said to date almost to the Norman conquest. The "Tichborne dole" consists of a gift of flour to the poor of the village of Tichborne, Hampshire. The upper of the two photographs shows the villagers taking home the bags of flour; the lower shows in the foreground two of the older recipients of this quaint bounty. About 750 people participated in the last distribution. The baronetcy of Tichborne is chiefly known in this country by reason of the famous English lawsuit tried in the middle of the last century to test the claims of an Australian butcher, who asserted that he was the rightful heir to the title and the vast estates which went with it. The suit, which in some of its aspects much resembled the Kimmie case, was decided against the claimant, who was found to be an impostor and was condemned to a long term of imprisonment at hard labor.

Women's Suffrage Is an Epoch Making Movement

By JANE ADDAMS, Hull House, Chicago

IT does not require a social philosopher to draw attention to the fact that our age is characterized by an almost UNIVERSAL ATTEMPT TO ENTER INTO GOVERNMENT ON THE PART OF THOSE HITHERTO WITHOUT THE FRANCHISE.

In spite of the number of American women who will vote for the next president America has not led in this as it did in two previous movements for the advance of democratic government. It certainly led in the worldwide effort at the end of the eighteenth century on the part of the middle class to represent their own interests directly in national parliaments. It was characterized by two dramatic revolutions, one in America and one in France, neither of them without great bloodshed.

The next movement was the entrance of the working classes into government in the middle of the nineteenth century, the revolutions of 1848 in Germany and the Chartists in England.

THE LATEST MOVEMENT MANIFESTING ITSELF IN VARIOUS PARTS OF THE WORLD SIMULTANEOUSLY IS THE ATTEMPT OF WOMEN AT THE BEGINNING OF THE TWENTIETH CENTURY TO ENTER INTO GOVERNMENT.

This third worldwide revolution is happily a bloodless one. It is imposing from the very fact that it is worldwide and sporadic.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

LOOKING FORWARD.

"Remember Lot's wife." That unhappy woman, fleeing from the destruction visited upon the cities of the plain, hindered for the despoils she was leaving.

Looking backward, she was transfixed and changed into a pillar of salt. Harsh penalty? Maybe. But the story carries a valuable lesson.

And that lesson is that the golden age is not behind you, in the past, but in front of you, in the future.

Let the dead past bury the past. You may have regrets concerning your failures or your sins, but do not let those regrets get in front of you and impede your going.

Remember Lot's wife. The old idea that man has fallen from some great eminence to a lower plane of life is giving way to the new idea that he is slowly struggling upward out of imperfection into strength of character and purity of living.

Keep your face to the front. You are not what you want to be or what you ought to be, but you never will be what you should be or long to be if you go about forever mourning on account of your mistakes and lapses. You will be like the prisoner who drags behind him his ball and chain.

Forget the things that are behind. If you have truly repented of your sins the Omnipotence that has forgiven them has in his mercy forgotten them. Though your sins may have been as scarlet, they shall be white as snow. God is through with them. Why should you tie them on your back and go stumbling?

It takes time to grow a man. The bud that is slowly unfolding pear and answer the complaint filed against you in the above entitled suit, on or before the 10th day of July, 1912, and if you fail to move, demur or answer, plaintiff will take a decree against you, forever dissolving the bonds of matrimony heretofore and now existing between the plaintiff and yourself and for such and further relief in the premises as to the Court may seem just and equitable.

Service of this summons is made upon you by publication in pursuance to an order of the Honorable J. U. Campbell, Circuit Judge of Clackamas County, Oregon, made on the 27th day of May, 1912, ordering such publication in the Morning Enterprise, once a week, for six consecutive weeks, the first publication being May 25th, 1912, and the last publication being July 9th 1912.
