

NEW SPUD MARKET AIDS OLD POTATOES

The strength of the new potato market in the south, which forces the issue, is a big aid to the old potato trade all along the coast.

Old crop now shows one of the best movements of the season, to date, and the price is being held at $1.25 to $1.50 per cental in a jobbing way. Both values are ruling for similar quality.

Country is offering sparingly of old potatoes and this, too, is helping values at this time. Seeding operations are again shown in the south as well as at home and this is taking more potatoes than first believed.

Although there is seemingly a very firm trend to the potato trade at this time, speculators are keeping their hands off as much as possible and purchases are of a hand to mouth character. Almost all speculators on the coast got their fingers burned on the early speculative movement and it will take some of them a year or two to recover.

An Old Time Rip Van Winkle.

The learned John Stow, known as the "London Antiquary," records the following: "April 27, 1546, was Tuesday in Easter week, and on that day William Foxley, potmaker of the mint, fell asleep, and he continued sleeping, and he could not be wakened with pinching, cramping or burning whatsoever until the first day of the term, which was fourteen days and fifteen nights after his sleep began. The causes of this extraordinary sleep could not be known, although the same were diligently searched for after by the king's physician and many other learned men. He lived for forty years after he recovered."

Singular Creatures.

"And so, Peter, you spell women with an 'n'?" said the teacher, correcting an exercise. "Please, sir," was the reply, "my papa told mamma only yesterday that women were singular beings."

Experience.

"Every girl has the right to be happy," she declared.

"Yes," her experienced friend replied, "but so many girls get left in their eagerness to exercise that right."—Chicago Record-Herald.

OLDEST INDIAN TO BE HERE WITH SHOW

Probably the oldest Indian in this country is Chief Lone Bear a Sioux who this year is with the 101 Ranch Real Wild West Show and who will be here with the show on June 7. Lone Bear is a character and well known to all who have had anything to do with Indian affairs during the past half century. The Indians have no reliable way of keeping track of their exact age but as near as can be figured from historical events in his life Chief Lone Bear has left the one hundred years mile stone far behind him. He is intelligent beyond his race and a beautiful way of telling stories of his experiences. Recently when a gentleman who had been talking to him remarked "well the Indians are much better fed since they have surrendered than they were when running at large" the old Chief looked at him for a minute and replied:

"You are far from being correct. age he now enjoys.

The Indian never was so well fed as when he was as the good God intended he should be roaming on the prairie. Before the coming of the white man the Indian furnished his table with pumpkins, corn, beans and water-melon, all of which were raised by his patient squaw. Milkweed took the place of asparagus and after the pod came and the cotton formed a boiled dish was concocted. Then there were wild strawberries, wild onions and buffalo berries. The acorn of the red oak after being soaked in wood ash lye to extract the tannin was boiled and formed a substantial tidbit. We had more meat, fish and game then and what we had was just what was intended for us and we thrived not perished as we have done on the food of the white man who neither knows food nor how to cook it. All of the white man's food is killed in taste by the stuff he puts in it and it all tastes alike. We had more and better food when we were in our natural way of living than we have ever thought of having since."

Lone Bear is emphatic in his declaration that had he been forced to eat the white man's food from infancy that he would never have lived to the
