THE SOUTH AND THE PRESIDENCY

Chairman Underwood is said to be developing such strength that he is causing some uneasiness to a few of the other democratic presidency seekers. Why are they uneasy? He has support in only three states so far, and is not likely to become formidable at any time. Like Marshall, of Indiana, Burke of North Dakota, Baldwin of Connecticut and Foss of Massachusetts, he is merely a local favorite, but it gives Underwood's friends hope, if they have any real hope. With Clark in the lead, with Wilson second, and both of these far ahead of Underwood, it would seem that the Alabama man would have very little chance for the candidacy except through the prospect of a deadlock, such as defeated many promising aspirants in democratic conventions in the past—Van Buren in 1844, Cass in 1852 and Pendleton in 1868. Of these, Van Buren had a majority on the first ballot, but the two-thirds demand defeated him, as his enemies intended it should. But local fears need not deter Underwood from pushing his canvass. The democrats who tell him that a Southern man has no chance to be elected are creating a false impression. The republicans are not raising the sectional issue against any body. They will oppose the Baltimore nominee, whether he hails from Massachusetts, Missouri, New Jersey or Alabama. So far as regards geographical considerations, all democrats look alike to the republicans. The persons who, nearly half a century after Appomattox, are keeping sectional issues alive are democrats. Some are in the north and some are in the south, but all are democrats.

Such cheap things we are getting to be. Four girls played cards with four more girls. Four men were the "prizes." Four girls won four men. Four girls drew blanks. We wouldn't be surprised if the other four before long decide their "prizes" are gold bricks. What are we men coming to anyway—"Penny ante" or "Jack Pots?"

Who can think of a better or prettier exhibit than the babies of Clackamas County? Saturday, June 8, will be Baby Day. Get your baby's new outfit completed, "doll him up" and bring him to town. Of course your baby is the prettiest and can win. If the judges are "men" who be unto them. Who will award the prizes? Another of our prominent Elks has joined "the silent majority." James H. Cary, past Esquire of Oregon City Lodge No. 1189 B. P. O. E. has taken unto himself a wife. May his wedded life be long and happy and may his troubles ever be nil.

What is going to happen? Portland won three or four games in a stretch. Wait awhile longer before you bet your pile on a sure thing, for while Portland may be coming up to class, we are not sure yet just what class. Keep your money awhile yet, but boost for the home team.

CAUFIELD-WOOD NUPTIALS PRETTY

Miss Huntley and Mr. Fleckner the former on the piano, the latter on a violin, rendered several musical selections, both of whom showed much musical talent. Mr. and Mrs. Wood received many beautiful presents.

The invitation list to the reception included Mr. and Mrs. David Caufield, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Harding, Miss Nieta Harding, Miss Evelyn Harding, G. L. Harding, R. L. Holman, Miss Norma Holman, Mrs. Ross Charman, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Porter, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Daulton, Miss Helen Daulton, Miss Bess Daulton, Mr. and Mrs. Lansing Stout, of Portland; Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Latourette, Miss Mary F. Hamilton, J. C. Hamilton, of Portland; Miss Mary Naylon, of Portland; Miss Beatrice Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Stevens, Miss Muriel Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Phillips, Miss Aline Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Caufield, Robert Caufield, Sr., Mrs. Clara Morey, Miss Helen Eastham, Miss Shirley Eastham, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Eastham, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Morey, Edward Eastham, of Portland; Miss Vera Caufield, Miss Nell Caufield, Miss Louise Walker, Miss Louise Huntley, Miss Marjory Caufield, Miss May Gray, of Milwaukie; Lee Caufield, Robert Caufield, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Clean Perkins, of Portland; Percy Caufield, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas, Keith, of Portland; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wells, of Portland; Miss Irene McCown, of Sellwood; Miss Dolly Pratt, Miss Bess Galogly, Miss June Charman, Miss Wynne Hanny, Dr. and Mrs. C. D. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Loder, Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Charman, Mrs. E. J. Phillips, of Albany.

The bride is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Caufield, and has spent all of her life in this city, where she was born. She is a charming young woman, and has a host of friends. She attended the University of Oregon, and graduated from that institution in 1908, and is a member of the Gamma Phi Beta Sorority. The bridegroom for some time made his home at Astoria until the last year, when he moved to Washougal, where he purchased a large prune orchard which is located about two miles from Washougal. He attended the University of Oregon, graduating in 1909. It was at this college where Mr. Wood became acquainted with the young woman who has become his wife. Mr. Wood is a son of Mrs. M. E. Wood, also of Washougal. He is a member of the Kappa Sigma Fraternity. During his college days at Eugene he was one of the most popular students at the University, and has a host of friends.

What Ailed Pa's Stomick

Pa's stomick was ailing—dreadfully bad; Ma said he had the "jim-jams," But Pa said, "It's indigestion Come from eatin' crabs and clams; I 'sposed they kept clawin' about his stomick. An' makin' it feel so bad He couldn't help swearin' and smashin' in things, Tearin' around like mad. I run an' dived 'righ' under the bed Whenever he acted so; An' you jest bet I pulled my feet under. So he couldn't see even a toe, But the las' time cause Tom an' Jim were there. My feet wouldn't go clear under, An' pa triped over them an' fell; Then he was mad an' no wonder; Cause he bumped his nose pretty tolerable hard— Anyhow it was awful red, But Ma told me never never, To repeat the things he said. He snaked me out from under the bed An' I got an' awful scare, An' when "I gave him the slip" he swore An' ousted our only chair. Pa slept that night an' half the nex-day. An' Ma cried till her eyes were red. Don't cry for pa, he'll be all right When the clams are 'gested, I said "But I tell you ma, he hasn't have no more. To hurt his poor stomick so!" So I watched pa, al that afternoon To see which way he'd go.

Well, jest after dark he went slippin' off— There was only the leetlest moon, But I follered him, till I saw him go. To Tim 'n' Shannon's saloon. Then I run hom an' told my ma That I gussed pa was all right; He wan't doin' nothin' but taken a drink An' he wouldn't get clams that night. But ma she turned nigh as white as a sheet, An' I guss she was prayin' then, Cause she wringed her hands together an' sobbed, "O, God, is he there again! An' then she hugged me til I couldn't breathe. For 'most a minute, I think, It wasn't the clams that was hurtin' ma, She said, but that terrible drink!

The whisky was burnin' his stomick up, An' stealin' away his brains. 'Twas whisky that made us so wretched an' poor. An' gave pa his terrible pains. "Then, why does he drink the nasty old stuff?" I asked, but ma shook her head, "He's drunk it so long an' he craves it so. He thinks he can't help it," she said. "But why should Tim want to keep drink that hurts folks. An' sell it to men like my pa! "What's the good of saloons if they make people bad, An' can't people close 'em by law?" Ma looked so sick, an' her poor pinch-face. "Was 'most as white as the snow. She clinched her fists an' shook 'em too, "O, Johnnie, my boy, don't you know "Some men care more for money an' a pin Than for manhood noble an' true, 'Tis for gold that they sell men's souls into hell— O, God, an' their families too!" I guess Ma fainted, I that she'd died, I hollered an' in pa came He'd been listening outside the door to us. An' since then he's not been the same.

But is jest as kind to us all the time. He'd not drink no more, he said, My ma an' I were so glad, an' now I don't have to dive under the bed. We've got a nice home, an' ain't got no debts, An' 'n's poor stomick is well. Tim O'Shannon's saloon is a thing of the past— He's got no more whisky to sell. Folks got so tired of men bein' drunk An' 'busin' their families, too. They said, "We'll now do away with saloons. An' see what prohibition can do!" The merchants are selling lots more of their goods. There's money to buy with your know. Everybody's prosperin', no one in want. Even down in Poverty Row. Ma says she is awfully proud of our town, An' pa?—Oh, he loves to tell Of its fine new buildings an' empty jails— But excuse me, there's the school-bell! SAMANTHA of Clackamas County.

As Ambassador and Mrs. Reid Left London Titanic Service

A vast congregation filled St. Paul's cathedral, while thousands of Londoners who had been unable to gain admission stood without during the services in memory of the Titanic's death. Five thousand persons joined in the final hymn. Oh, bear us when we cry to thee For those in part on the sea, many in tears and with voices choked with emotion. Alexander Carlisle, the designer of the sunken vessel, fainted during the service. Nearly all the foreign embassies in London were represented by their envoys. Ambassador and Mrs. Reid were in the congregation. They were large contributors to the fund for the relief of the survivors and those deprived by the disaster of their natural protectors. The sum raised in Great Britain alone is more than $1,500,000. The photograph shows Ambassador and Mrs. Reid leaving St. Paul's.

MILWAUKIE DIRECTORS TO FIGHT SCHOOL SUIT

The case of Carl J. Hanson against School District No. 1, of Milwaukie, and the Board of Directors, enjoining them from purchasing two acres of ground, which was authorized at the school meeting called for that purpose will be bitterly contested by the defendants. The answer has been filed by the law firm of Dimick & Dimick, in which it is alleged that the land purchased is expressly in accordance with the resolution adopted at the school meeting, and the tract is centrally located and ideal for the school purposes. The answer further alleges that the opposition to the purchase is brought about by real estate speculators, in attempting to force the directors to purchase land from them, in order to enhance the value of other property they have for sale further north of the tract purchased by the Board of Directors.

NEW POTATOES TO BE OFFERED SOON

New crop Oregon potatoes are to be offered in a limited way within a short time according to nearby growers. Examinations made during the week show the stock to be of rather good size, even at this time, and owing to the extreme high price of the California article just now, it is generally believed that the initial marketing of home grown for the season will start within a week or 10 days. The crop is today looking better than ever before known at this period and while many are of the opinion that general delivery will not be earlier than usual, there will be more early stuff available than ever before. Prevailing Oregon City prices are as follows: DRIED FRUITS—(Buying)—Prunes on basis of 6 to 8 cents. Fruits, Vegetables. HIDES—(Buying)—Green hides, 7c to 8c; salted 6c to 7c; dry hides 12c to 14c; sheep pelts, 25c to 75c each. Hay, Grain, Feed. EGGS—Oregon ranch eggs, 18c case count; 20c condeled. SACK VEGETABLES—Carrots, HAY—(Buying)—Timothy, $12 to $15; clover, $8 to $9; oat hay, best, $10 to $11; mixed, $9 to $11; alfalfa, $15 to $16.50. OATS—(Buying)—$37.50 to $38.50 wheat $1 bu.; oil meal, selling $35; Shady Brook dairy feed, $1.30 per 100 pounds. PFEED—(Selling)—Shorts, $28; bran $26; process barley, $41.50 per ton. FLOUR—$4.60 to $5.50. POTATOES—Best buying $1.00 to $1.40 according to quality per hundred. Butter, Poultry, Eggs. POULTRY—(Buying)—Hens 13c to 14c; spring, 17c to 20c; and roosters 8c. Stags 11c. BUTTER—(Buying)—Ordinary country butter, 20c to 25c; fancy dairy, 30c roll. Livestock, Meats. BEEF—(Live Weight)—Steers, 5 1/2 and 6 1/2c; cows, 4 1/2c; bulls 3 1/2c. MUTTON—Sheep 3c to 3 1/2c. VEAL—Calves 10c to 12c dressed, according to grade. MOHAIR—33c to 35c.

MANY NOTABLES WILL ATTEND AUTO BANQUET

The Clackamas County Automobile Club will give a banquet Wednesday evening at 6:30 o'clock at the Masonic banquet hall. Many owners of automobiles of this city and Portland will be in attendance. One automobile enthusiast has placed an order for twelve plates and about fifty platters have been ordered. Among those expected are Governor West; H. Wempe, vice-president of the Portland Automobile Club; W. J. Clemens, president of the Portland Automobile Club; F. B. Riley, vice-president of the Pacific Highway Association of Oregon; B. W. Olcott, secretary of state; E. F. Rogers, chairman Capital Highway Association; Thomas F. Ryan, of Salem; Judge E. C. Bronaugh. Dr. H. S. Mount will be toastmaster, and music will be furnished by an orchestra. The affair is not only for men but for the women automobile owners as well.
