LOOSE SHOES.

Many Painful Foot Troubles Result From Them

In an article on sensible shoes in the May Woman's Home Companion the author says:

"Seven persons out of ten suffer excruciating pain at one time or another with their feet. A single corn no larger than a grain of sand can take all the 'snap' and vitality right out of you."

"Two-thirds of modern foot troubles are due to the fact that almost every one—man, woman and child—wears shoes too loose. The shoe itself may be correct as to size and shape, but it is not fastened tight at the only point of control—namely, the instep."

"When you set your foot upon the floor or pavement in the act of walking the shoe adheres, and if it be loosely fastened over the instep the foot pushes down into the toe of the shoe. At certain spots on the foot this slipping causes friction. These spots are the soles of the foot, the tops, ends and inner sides of the toes, the great and little toe joints and occasionally even the back of the heel."

"When the friction thus caused is continued hour after hour and day after day one or more of these spots are almost sure to become inflamed and sore. A slight thickening, called a 'callous,' is formed. As the friction and pressure go on the resulting callous may thicken up unevenly; then it is called a 'corn.'"

The Danger From Flies.

Notwithstanding all that has been said and written, many people continue to ignore the constant danger from flies as carriers of infection. Everywhere food is exposed to the visits of these distributors of disease. A series of reports on this subject has recently been published in England, in which it is shown that infectious may remain active upon flies which have been exposed to them—and their habits thus expose them continually—for from four to ten days. An idea of the distance to which infection may be dispersed by flies is given by recent investigations at Postwick, near Norwich, where it was found that marked flies traveled nearly a mile from the notorious refuse heap that served as their breeding ground.

To the Teacher.

A teacher who can arouse a feeling for one single good action, for one single good poem, accomplishes more than he who fills our memory with rows of natural objects, classified with name and form, for what is the result of all these, except what we know as well without them—that the human figure pre-eminently and peculiarly is made in the image and likeness of God?—Goethe.

This is Good.

Mildewed spots moistened with clean water and then coated thickly with pure white soap and powdered chalk can be banished. Let the coating remain at least an hour, then wash off. Sometimes a second application is necessary.

Great Luck.

"Been hunting, eh? Any luck?"
"Yes. I got back safe and sound."—Laughter.

Eskimo Women's Work.

In a zone where the diet is largely meat and the meat is eaten raw cooking forms no great part of woman's work. But, though she gets out of the cooking by this simple expedient, the Eskimo woman has work to do. When her husband comes back from the hunt it is her business to scrape and prepare the skins of the animals he has killed and out of these skins make the family supply of boots. The flesh she cuts up for drying. True to the Indian conception of the eternal fitness of things, the boys play and gambol about until they are old enough to go to the hunt with their fathers, but the girls, while still very young, go to work, helping their mothers.

Lightning Rods.

As early as 400 B. C. the ancients had observed that iron rods had the power to avert lightning.

WOMAN WILL RIDE REAL BUCKING HORSE

Using a jockey saddle to ride bucking horses is unusual and a stunt that few would care to undertake. Generally when the attempt is made to subdue the outlaw equines a heavy saddle is used and the saddle is always equipped with high rear rest and a heavy pommel. With the 101 Ranch Real Wild West Show which will be here on June 7 there are three riders one of whom is a woman who rides the fractious bucking horses and they will use only the small jockey saddle. While the show has over a score of cowboys and cowgirls who are able to ride on anything that can be ridden by man or woman these three people are the only three as far as is known who have ever dared to ride the outlaws with only a jockey's saddle to cling to. The opportunities of conquering are all in favor of the horse and the danger of being thrown are greatly increased and no one knows this more than those who have tried to ride buckers or even any nervous horse.

There are no horses with the 101 Wild West Show that are educated to buck. In fact despite what some people believe there are no exhibition horses taught to buck. It is natural for them to do so and in truth they know nothing different. They are brainless and with all the vigor and strength they possess they fight being ridden. Those who are familiar with horses claim that a real bucking horse cannot be subdued until he has been ridden to death and there are some with the show which is to exhibit here that carry out this belief.

A Witty Abbot.

Francis I. of France, being desirous to raise a learned man to the highest dignities of the church, asked him if he was of noble descent. "Your majesty," answered the abbot, "there were three brothers in Noah's ark, but I cannot tell positively from which of them I descended." The witty abbot obtained the appointment.

Wonders of the Eye.

Viewed as an optical instrument the human eye may well be called perfect, for it is an apparatus contained in a globe less than an inch in diameter, in which is produced an image practically perfect in form and color and which can be accurately adjusted almost instantaneously for every distance from five inches to infinity, which is movable in every direction, has an area small enough for the detection of the most minute details and at the same time large enough for the appreciation of large objects, and which enables us to see all shades of color and to estimate distance, solidity and, to some extent, the consistency of objects.

The Original MacIntosh.

"MacIntosh boasts a good deal about his family, doesn't he?" "Yes; I think he claims that the head of his family was the original MacIntosh that Noah had with him during that rainy season."—Philadelphia Press.

GEBHARDT GOES FREE AT HEARING

ing was in self defense. Both made strong and convincing arguments, and won the sympathy of all present for the defendant and his wife. Assistant District Attorney Stipp, who conducted the prosecution said he was positive the circumstances leading up to the killing were not the same as related by the defendant and his wife. The prosecutor said there was nothing to show that Lindley intended to kill the couple. "It is one of these cases in which the facts probably will never be known," asserted the prosecutor, "but it is preposterous to think the true facts have been given at this hearing."
