An Effective Whistle. A popular English author was wholly incapacitated from work by a lady who lived next door and strummed through Handel's "Messiah." His idea of the inviolability of an Englishman's house did not allow him to send in any message, and he was at his wits' end till he saw in a daily paper that steam whistles could be bought to fit on to kettle spoons. He provided himself with one and put the kettle on the fire in the room nearest the singer. As soon as the whistle began to wail out. Of course the bottom came off the kettle, but it cost little to solder it on again, and after two or three solderings the lady took the hint.

CONSIDER OTHERS. A little thought will show you how vast your own happiness depends on the way other people bear themselves toward you. Turn the idea around and remember that just so much as you add to the pleasure of the users of other people's days by your attitude toward them.

GERMAN FLEET IS WELCOMED BY TAFT

FORT MONROE, Va., June 3.—President Taft's official welcome of the visiting German warships here today began a round of festivities and official functions that will end only when the squadron weighs anchor for home.

The Kaiser's three big fighting machines that have come to the United States to return the American fleet's visit to Kiel last year, steamed up to Hampton Roads from Lynnhaven Bay early this morning, escorted by the ships of Admiral Winslow's third division of the Atlantic fleet. Both squadrons thundered a 21-gun salute as the Mayflower steamed into the Roads with President Taft and the German Ambassador, Count von Bernstorff, aboard.

Only this morning, the American ships slipped their cables and headed down the Roads. The first streaks of dawn disclosed them gliding down to the Virginia Capes to meet the visitors. There had been in a great hubbub aboard both squadrons for the last three days of making ready for reception.

The red rust and salt of a trans-Atlantic voyage had been removed from the German fighters by a coat of grey paint. Decks, holystoned and swabbed, glistened as the sun broke through clouds that had threatened a dark day. Every ship had been made fit for parade, hundreds of colored flags flapped and filled in the freshening breeze.

Just at daybreak the boatswains' whistles about the German ships announced the escort of American ships approaching. From the bridge of the Moltke, the German flagship, a string of signal flags broke out and waved a message to the Bremen and Stettin.

The metal ships glided into Hampton Roads to the scene of the first battle of their kind a half century ago, and the ceremonies of official reception proceeded. There are two "sailor Princes" aboard the German squadron. One is Prince Henry of Reuss and the other is Prince Christian. Prince Henry, however, is not the same who visited the United States several years ago as the representative of the Kaiser. Neither Prince Henry nor Prince Christian is of the reigning family and neither represents any official of it. They came merely as lieutenants of the German Navy.

President Taft and his party left on the Mayflower later today for Washington and the German officers will follow tomorrow, after they have been guests ashore of the officers and men of the American squadron. While the German officers are being entertained, the German sailors will be having a good time with the Yankee tars in athletic contests and other entertainments.

When the German officers arrive in Washington Tuesday there will be an exchange of official visits and a luncheon at the German Embassy, and the officers will be guests at a dinner at the White House Wednesday. Later they will return to their ships and the squadron move up to New York, where another round of entertainments will be awaiting.

Distinguished Assistance. Dr. Jenkins, master of Biuloi college, Oxford, one day slipped and fell in the street and lay where he had stumbled. Two undergraduates ran hotfoot to assist him, but those who watched saw them draw back, while the master continued genially kicking his treacherous legs in the air. Another man came along, and then the great one got up. This was the explanation: When the undergraduates were about to set him on his legs he was a first willing; but he, a master of arts, appeared in sight. Dignity must be preserved. "Stay, young men!" he said. "I will be assisted by my feet by a master of arts!" And he was.

Corelli and Caine. Marie Corelli's first story, "A Romance of Two Worlds," which made her name, was sent to the London publishing house of Bentley. Hall Caine was the principal reader of that house, and his report condemned the book so strenuously that it was rejected. Miss Corelli was deeply discouraged, but after some time she was persuaded to send the manuscript to another publisher. He accepted it eagerly and made a big fortune out of it and out of her later novels.

Repotting Plants. Repotting plants becomes necessary at intervals from two considerations. The plant uses up the available fertility in the soil and fills the pot with roots. In repotting plants it is well to shake off whatever earth can be separated without breaking and injuring the roots. Then water and shade for a few days.

MRS. M'FARLANE IS GIVEN SURPRISE PARTY

Mrs. James McFarlane, who will leave soon for Powell River, B. C., to join Mr. McFarlane, who has obtained a position with the Powell River Pulp & Paper Company, was surprised Sunday evening when friends and relatives assembled at the home of Mrs. J. W. Davenport and went to the McFarlane home. The guests took complete possession, but it was some time before the hostess had recovered from the surprise. She entertained them in a most delightful manner. A breakfast table was presented to Mrs. McFarlane by the party. Refreshments were served, and at a late hour the guests bid their hostess a farewell and wished her well in her new home.
