CONGRESSMAN KILLED ON BRIDGE BY TRAIN

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Congressman Robert C. Wickliffe of Louisiana was run down and killed early today by a train on the long bridge over the Potomac at South Washington. The train crew of a Southern railway saw the body crumpled up near the track. Whether this train struck him or whether he fell from the platform of another train the police are unable to determine. Wickliffe's identity was not known until his pockets were searched. The railroad bridge is in a deserted part of the suburbs of Washington. The police believe Wickliffe fell from one of the cars. Mrs. Wickliffe was seated in the members' gallery of the house of representatives when Congressman Broussard announced the death of his colleague. She fainted, and business on the floor of the house was temporarily suspended.

Appointment of Miss Lathrop Gladdens Uplift Leaders.

MISS JULIA LATHROP

Women of the nation who are interested in the improvement of conditions under which children and women labor are unanimous in their approval of President Taft's selection of Miss Julia Lathrop of Chicago as the head of the recently created child bureau of the department of commerce and labor. The Rev. Anna H. Shaw of New York says: "The appointment by President Taft of Miss Lathrop is highly gratifying to all women who are working in the cause of equal suffrage, the final purpose of which is to bring to bear upon social problems, and especially those affecting the child and the home, the special gifts and experience of women. In appointing to this office one so extraordinarily well fitted by temperament and training for its peculiar duties President Taft has earned the sincere commendation of all suffragists and confirmed them in their expectation of a speedy removal of the restrictions that now shut them out from full participation in all the duties of citizenship." Mrs. Philip N. Moore of St. Louis, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, says: "President Taft is to be congratulated on his appointment of Miss Lathrop. This woman, by education, training and experience, is the right woman in the right place. With man or woman at the head the bureau deserves the best qualified person that could be found, and we believe the best has been obtained. We extend our approval and congratulations." Mrs. John Miller Horton of Buffalo, vice president of the D. A. R., says: "The appointment by President Taft of Miss Julia Lathrop is most gratifying to all of the many women and men of the nation who are interested in the welfare of the children. I am deeply interested in the work and with all others personally approve of the wise selection by President Taft." Mrs. Margaret Dye Ellis, secretary of the National Woman's Christian Temperance union, says: "The appointment of Miss Lathrop is just right. We have been trying for years to bring about this legislation. We believe the children of the nation are the greatest asset of the nation. The appointment of Miss Julia Lathrop we herald with great satisfaction. Her service in philanthropic work in Chicago under the leadership of Miss Jane Addams, is well known, a safe guarantee of her efficiency for this responsible position. We are glad President Taft is broad enough to recognize ability rather than sex."

MOOSE TO INITIATE BIG CLASS TONIGHT

Lodge No. 961 of the Loyal Order of Moose will meet in Willamette hall tonight when another large addition to the herd will be made. The success of the entertainment last week has aroused much favorable comment and the fact that similar entertainments are being arranged for all active and visiting members of the lodge as well as their families has proved a strong drawing card. The lodge possesses considerable local talent and their services will be put into requisition. Organizer Bert Westcott states that he is very well satisfied with his work in Oregon City, and now that his labors are drawing to close, he has every confidence that he is leaving lodge No. 961 in competent hands and offered by enthusiastic and energetic men.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

"WHAT'S THE USE?"

Why is man born with the closed fist? Because he wants to grasp everything. And why does he die with palms outstretched? To show that he takes nothing along with him.—Talmud.

The quaint, suggestive saying of the Talmud is a good one for our day—the day of grasping commercialism. This is the day of "money madness."

There is method in this madness too. Note the cunning of the trust magnate who gathers to himself. See how, like a great spider, the railway king weaves his converging webs of transportation. Watch the grabbers of special privilege.

Who is it—Tuskin, I think—pictures the money mad as lunging grasping at the straws of their cell matting and at the notes in the air of their dusty prisons, trying to change these into gold? Some steal from men. Some steal from earth and water and air.

Some sell their souls to the devil. How the marching chorus of the money pirates, the grunting, sweaty chorus, must vex the ear of Omnipotence. Listen to it—Grab, grab, grab!

Poor fools! Yet a little while and the closed fists shall be opened by the strong hand of Death. Whose then shall these things be? The lawyers will revel in the loot of it. The heirs will quarrel over it and hate one another. Harpies will fatten on the heaped up funds, and prodigal hands will sow the stuff broadcast.

Even now lustful hands and watchful eyes wait for the first symptoms when the hard closed fists of the lucre loving lunatics shall relax their itching palms.

Poor fools! Our sententious Anglo-Saxon phrase puts the lesson of the Talmud in fewer but striking words. As the phrase has it—"There are no pockets in shrouds." Poor fools!

Soon the grabbing hands shall lose their cunning, and soon the lying tongues shall cleave to the roof of the mouth.

In the language of the street—"What's the use?"

Scandinavians Are Peculiar. Many Scandinavians have a decided, by different anatomical construction from less hyperborean people. In these hardy northerners the layer of fat under the skin, Panniculus adiposus, is somewhat seal-like and blubbery, something like in those cold sea animals, the whale, seal and walrus. Also the blood vessels in this fat are somewhat overdeveloped as in sea mammals. All this comes about from exposure to the severities of disease and climate. It is no unusual thing for Norwegians and Swedes to stay in icy cold water for hours hunting sea weed without suffering sickness or discomfort.—Exchange.

Lincoln on the Platform. In one of his addresses Joseph H. Choate spoke thus of Mr. Lincoln's celebrated speech in Cooper Union in 1860: "With an awkward form and most ungraciously, he stood there with a little trepidation, not very prepossessing, but when he came to speak it was as a flash of lightning. Not only his whole personality and his face lighted up, but he seemed to lighten up the audience, and for one hour or an hour and a quarter he discussed the great questions of the day and held the audience in the hollow of his hand."

Described Him. He—So Alice said I had a thick head of hair. She—Oh, she didn't mention the hair!

BUGGIES UPSET ON HILL, INJURING TWO

Peculiar accidents occurred a few days ago on the Wolfe hill a few miles from this city. The families of Dennis Driscoll and Mr. Schmeiser, of Carus, were on their way to this city in separate vehicles, and when passing along the road where grading is being done at Wolfe hill the buggy of Mr. Driscoll upset throwing the occupants out, and following this the buggy of Mr. Schmeiser upset in the same locality, also throwing the occupants out. Mrs. Driscoll is suffering from the effects of a badly sprained wrist, while her daughter, Ethel, has a severely sprained ankle, and is unable to walk.

NEW DOG LICENSE RECORD EXPECTED

Only thirty-six licenses have been issued so far this year, although there are several hundred dogs in the city. The license for male dogs is $1 and for female dogs $2. Mr. Shaw thinks that a record will be made in the number of licenses issued this year. Persons owning dogs should apply at the city recorder's office for licenses.

ever, it must always be remembered that what is good for one trouble might in some other case be harmful, as that which would be used to counteract excessive oiliness would in all probability contain a certain amount of astringent and so would be harmful to a dry scalp. Yet the hair may fall from an excess of oil and also from an extremely dry scalp.

The Right Face Powder. Face powder does not always suit a dry skin, and it should in all cases be preceded by the application of a skin food or a cream of some sort. Animal fats in creams should be avoided, as it is claimed that where there is a tendency to superabundant hair the animal fat increases it. This may or may not be true. Cream should be rubbed well into the skin, left for some time, then rubbed off and the powder applied carefully. As nothing injures the skin more than the cheap, impure powders, one should always be careful to purchase a good brand.

Strawberry Cream Cakes. Place 1/2 cup butter and 1 cup boiling water in a saucepan over the fire, and as soon as boiling point is reached add one cup flour and stir vigorously. As soon as well mixed remove from the fire and add, one at a time, 4 unbeaten eggs, until well mixed, before adding the next egg. Now drop this batter by tablespoons on buttered tins about 1 1/2 inches apart, shaping as nearly circular as possible, and bake about thirty minutes in a moderate oven. Then, with a sharp knife, make a cut in each puff, large enough to admit of the following filling. Beat 1 cup thick cream until stiff, add liberal 1/4 cup sugar, the stiffly beaten white of one egg, 1/2 cup of mashed strawberries, and 1/4 teaspoon vanilla flavoring.

Strawberry Shortcake. Sift together two cups of flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt and 2 teaspoons sugar, then work in 1/4 cup butter and gradually add 3/4 cup milk. Toss on top floured board, divide in two parts, pat, roll out, and bake about 12 minutes in a hot oven on layer cake tins. When done, split batter by the following filling. Crush berries slightly, sweeten to taste, and put between and on top of shortcakes. Cover top with sweetened whipped cream.

Berry Ices. To 1 1/2 cups sugar add 4 cups water and boil 20 minutes, or until it syrups, then add 2 cups strawberry, raspberry or currant juice (a mixture of half raspberry and half currant is nice), and in the case of Strawberry or raspberry alone, add to the former 1 tablespoon and to the latter 2 tablespoons lemon juice. Let the mixture get cold, and then freeze. To obtain the pure fruit juice mash, heat a little, but add no cold water, and squeeze through a cheese-cloth bag. Strain again if the liquor does not look clear enough.—Farm and Home.

Fame's Brief Life. One thing is certain in regard to fame—for most of us it will be very brief in itself; for all of us it will be transient in our enjoyment of it. When death has dropped the curtain we shall hear no more applause, and, though we fondly dream that it will continue after we have left the stage, we do not realize how quickly it will die away in silence while the audience turns to look at the new actor and the next scene. Our position in society will be filled as soon as it is vacated and our name remembered only for a moment, except, please God, by a few who have learned to love us not because of fame, but because we have helped them and done them some good.—Henry van Dyke.

Where Romance Failed. "I saw a curious item about that famous author of fairy tales who died a few days ago."

"Yes; I saw that he was dead—a man of extraordinary powers of invention."

"What was the item?"

"Why, it stated that when he happened to be out into the boys he would go home and stammer and falter and get confused and mixed up and end by telling his wife the whole story just as it happened!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Struck For $16 a Day. In San Francisco in 1849 clerks in stores and offices had magnificent salaries. Five dollars a day was the smallest stipend even in the custom house, and one Baptist preacher was paid $10,000 a year. Laborers received $1 an hour. A pick or a shovel was worth $10 and a butcher's knife $30. At one time the carpenters, who were getting $12 a day, struck for $16.

Method in His Madness. Mrs. Wick—What is the use of standing there and calling the stove names? That won't make the fire burn any better. Mr. Wick—I thought that maybe it could insult the blighted thing it would get hot about it.

Procrastination. How mankind defers from day to day the best it can do and the most beautiful things it can enjoy without thinking that every day may be the last one and that lost time is lost eternity!—Max Muller.

GREAT PARADE TO BE HELD TONIGHT

stony this morning. "Nothing could please me more than the great crowds that have gathered this year to celebrate the festival of the rose. The decorations are rich and elaborate beyond any of my former reigns. I have confidence that the weather will remain propitious."

Keeping merry step to the music of many bands, Portland and guests thronged the decorated streets today in an unending march toward the brilliant Rose Festival events. Stirring festival music kept the feet of bystanders tapping as the "white uniformed musicians made harmonious rounds of the newspaper offices and hotels. They were generous with their music."

"The greatest exhibit of the most perfect roses that the world can produce" are the words used in giving promise to the magnitude and beauty of the rose show that will open in the Armory, at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

At the same hour will appear on the streets the longest, most brilliantly decorated floral automobile parade ever assembled in the world's history. These events will make the Wednesday of Rose Festival week highly interesting to all who are participating in the festival.
