Americans Are Too Tired to Enjoy Their Home Life to Its Fullest

By Madame de TASTAVIN, French Writer

THE American man and woman, the one with his business, the other with philanthropy and outside interests, exhaust themselves mentally and physically to such an extent that they BRING TO THE SANCTUM OF THE HOME ONLY FRAZZLED NERVES AND WORNOUT BODIES. Their exhausted mental condition cannot withstand the strain of extra hardship or annoyance, so that a DOMESTIC EXPLOSION OCCURS at the least friction, an occurrence which would be quite impossible if man and wife were not in an abnormal condition of fatigue due entirely to the effort of KEEPING UP WITH AN ARTIFICIAL STANDARD OF LIVING.

I'm always surprised to see how little the idea of the future home enters into the education of the girl of today, American girls especially.

NOW WITH THE FRENCH IT IS QUITE DIFFERENT. EVERY GIRL EXPECTS TO GET MARRIED, AND THE HOME IS HER ESPECIAL PLACE OF BUSINESS, DOMESTIC LIFE HER CALLING, AND, THOUGH SHE MAY NOT ALWAYS FIND HAPPINESS IN IT, SHE TAKES SOME PRIDE IN MASTERING HER PARTICULAR TRADE OF WOMAN, WHICH IN THE HOME IS THAT OF DISBURSEE OF THE INCOME TO THE BEST ADVANTAGE TO HERSELF AND HER FAMILY.

The French girl is taught at school that the HOUSE IS TO BE HER FIELD OF ACTION, and no matter how much interest she takes in outside matters she is impressed with the fact that she must keep the best of her powers, both mental and physical, for her work there. Consequently she LEAVES IT LESS THAN DOES THE AMERICAN WOMAN, who often even entertains at hotels and restaurants.

new charter; the time is short and the work of explanation great. Our people are usually of the show-me type and while the proposed new charter is what we need, we must get the majority of the voters to see it that way. Why not have a few mass meetings with a brass band, some good speakers, proper advertisement ahead of time and be sure that Tom, Dick and Harry understand the scheme? We need to get busy. Do it now.

FLAG DAY—JUNE 14, 1777—JUNE 14, 1912.

One hundred and thirty-five years ago our flag was adopted. Friday night the local lodge of B. P. O. Elks with fitting ceremony levied tribute to the flag and those who died for it. Those taking prominent parts in the ceremonies did themselves proud and many strangers were greatly impressed. Long may old glory wave!

TERMINAL RATES

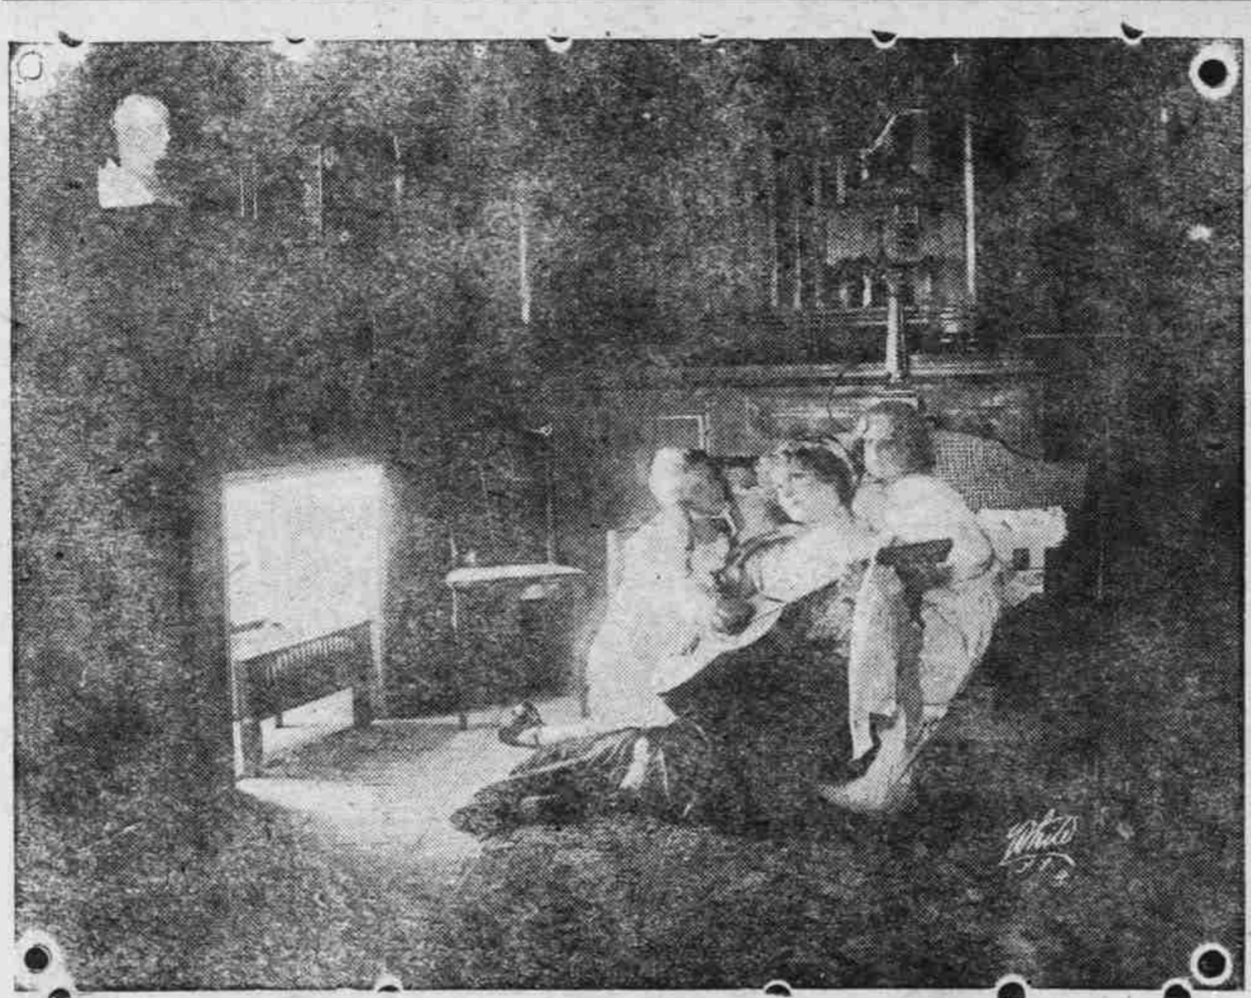

A news item states that in August next there will be effective to valley points reduced rates on freight. There are a number of matters of this nature pending before the Supreme court and this one will no doubt be held up with others until the short haul matter is settled. It will only be a short time when Oregon City will be in a class with Portland on transcontinental freight and the Hill lines will do their part in aiding this city.

THE GOVERNMENT HAS AGREED TO TAKE OVER THE OREGON CITY LOCKS; A PRICE HAS BEEN AGREED UPON; PAPERS HAVE BEEN DRAWN; THEY ARE IN THE HANDS OF GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS. OREGON HAS PAID OVER ITS PORTION; SO FAR, SO GOOD BUT THE SHIPPER AND CONSUMER CONTINUE TO PAY TOLL TO THE RECORD OWNERS. WHY NOT MAKE A PAYMENT ON ACCOUNT UNCLE SAM AND THEN WHEN PROPER PAPERS PASS PAY THE BALANCE. IN THIS WAY AN ARRANGEMENT CAN POSSIBLY BE MADE TO CUT OFF THE LOCKAGE ON ALL SHIPMENTS IN AND OUT.

HENRIETTA CROSMAN IN COMEDY, "THE REAL THING" AT HEILIG JUNE 20-21. The charming and favorite actress, Henrietta Crosman and her splendid company of players, will be seen in her latest comedy success, "The Real Thing" at Heilig Theatre Thursday and Friday nights, June 20-21.

At the Heilig Theatre, 7th and Taylor streets Thursday and Friday nights, June 20th and 21st. Directed from the Maxine Elliott Theatre, New York, where it enjoyed a most prosperous run of four months, comes the comedy sensation of the season "The Real Thing," which is being presented on tour by Miss Henrietta Crosman.

Surrounded by the same wonderfully clever company, is Miss Crosman, and also brings the remarkable scenic comicants that caused so much favorable comment during the Metropolitan engagements. The New York critics, notably Alan Dale, Acton

Davies and Charles Darnton, were unanimous in praising not only the charming acting of Henrietta Crosman, but the sterling qualities of the play itself. The comedy deals with a new version of an old theme—marital discontent. The wife is too busy making mince pies and caring for the children to dress herself, and make a fuss over her husband. He naturally feels these slights, although they are not intentionally given by the wife; and the man, not finding love at home in his acceptance of the word, turns for caresses to the other woman. This is the condition of affairs that exists when Henrietta Crosman, play-

THE BLUE MOUSE

Famous Farce to be presented by Baker Stock Company All This Week

Baker Stock Company will present Clyde Fitch's adaptation from the German of the widely discussed farce, "The Blue Mouse" this week starting with the usual Sunday matinee, June 16. This will be the first appearance in Stock of the comedy which a few years ago was the talk of the entire country being discussed pro and con in all the newspapers and magazines. This discussion was aroused by the wiles of a very live press agent, who conceived the idea of attracting attention from society at large by spreading forth the impression that the Blue Mouse was decidedly risque—in fact considerable of color in spots. This impression was of course founded upon the possibilities for such conditions as found in the peculiar plot, but in fact the possibilities had not so been taken advantage of, at least not in the translation. What it might originally have been concerns us not. Just now it is one of the liveliest and most amusing comedies the American public has ever seen and concerns an ambitious young man, just married who hires a near actress and Salome dancer known as the Blue Mouse to ingratiate herself into his employer's good graces and afterwards work the old man somehow to give a coveted advancement in position to his employe. The Blue Mouse proves herself extremely adept, and when wives begin to show up as well as others concerning a widow with "fixing" propensities arrives on the scene. The widow sees the situation at a glance, divines the trouble, and starts at once to remedy it, urging to aid her in the task, womanly intuition and good, sound horse sense. She fixes the man and his wife so that all their disturbances is over, but she gets her own heart strings tangled up in the process. Getting out of this fresh trouble, forms the culmination of one of the most interesting and laughable comedies ever presented on the American stage.

Seats go on sale Tuesday, June 18, at ten o'clock.
