

Cookery Points

The Kitchen in Summer.

The kitchen is a great problem, for it is likely to be small, crowded and hot. The window here must be open constantly. The range must be forgotten. All heating of water or food must be done by gas if an electric range is impossible, and an acquisition that will pay for itself is a fireless cooker. This is easy to handle and means that the gas stove need be lighted but for the briefest period in the morning, when the food for the evening will be heated to the proper point.

Cocoanut Cakes.

When fresh cocoanut can readily be obtained there is no bonbon finer than one of cocoanut fondant combined with chocolate, coffee favoring or maple sugar.

For coffee creams with cocoanut put half a cupful of coffee and two cupfuls of sugar on the stove to boil. When it begins to spin a thread when a spoonful of it is lifted up and poured back, remove it from the fire and stir into it as much shredded or grated cocoanut as it will hold. Then beat it until very stiff and drop it in spoonfuls on waxed paper. These candies, after hardening, may be dipped in melted chocolate or maple sugar.

Orange Cup.

This is one of the nice punch bowl drinks that are all right for the children's lawn party. Peel half a dozen oranges, remove every particle of the white pith, divide into sections and take out seeds and membrane. Put six heaping tablespoonfuls of sugar in a saucepan with the juice of two other oranges and some of the grated yellow rind and simmer until the sugar is dissolved, but not boiled. Arrange the pieces of orange in the punch bowl. Combine the sirup and cold water to make a pleasant sherbet, stir with orange flower water and pour over the oranges in the bowl and at the last put in several pieces of ice to make the "drink" and keep the contents of the bowl cold.

Delicious Short Crust.

Rub a quarter pound of butter into half a pound of flour previously mixed with half a teaspoonful of baking powder, one ounce of sugar and a little salt. Make a well in the center, break into it an egg, work together, moisten if necessary with a little water and roll out. This paste is best for an open tart, for which purpose the paste is laid on a plate, and a roll or wall is placed around the edges. Bits of bread are laid on it, it is then baked, the bread removed and the paste filled with stewed fruit or jam.

For the Tea Table.

Small sugar cutters, which are really scissor shaped tongs, are a great help to the hostess at afternoon tea, for it is a difficult matter to select a lump of sugar which is the proper size. The little cutters may be used in place of the ordinary sugar tongs as well as for cutting the lumps into halves or quarters.

French Pastries.

Fruit tartlets are excellent pastry selections for this season of the year. Almond paste puffs and chocolate eclairs are always favorites.

MAN'S FREE WILL.

Man's free will is but a bird in a cage. He can stop at the lower perch or he can mount to a higher. Then that which is and knows will enlarge his cage, give him a higher and a higher perch and at last break off the top of his cage and let him out to be one with the free will of the universe.—Lord Tennyson.
