CASCADE COUNTY

Estacada means business. Salem record showing under date of June 26, filing of initiative petitions for a law creating Cascade County by slicing off a part of the eastern side of Clackamas. It is now up to the Commercial Club to tell the voters of the state that Clackamas County generally does not want to be butchered; that it is for the best interests of all that Clackamas remain intact and that it is only the desire of a comparatively few that the matter has come up at all.

This will cost a considerable sum and an advertising man should be employed to carry on the work, for to defeat a measure of this type we must play the same game as those who are working for it. We cannot, however, praise those who are handling the matter for Estacada; their labor has been handsomely rewarded to date, but we naturally must wish them nothing but final failure, after which we hope they will see it is all for the best and continue their royal efforts in furthering the fame and interests of old Clackamas.

LAWN SOCIAL HELD AT HOME OF DYES

A delightful lawn social was given Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Dye. The lawn was prettily illuminated with Chinese lanterns. A tent erected by H. J. Bigger formed an ice cream booth, and Mrs. W. S. Ellis arranged the cherry booth, beneath a cherry tree. This booth was presided over by Martha and George Washington, who dispensed the fruit of the tree. The girls of the Beta Club had a booth prettily decorated with crimson rambles, where homemade candies were sold. The lemonade booth was presided over by Elbert Charman, while a wig-wag erected by the Boy Scouts formed a rendezvous for Indian braves, who gave war dances around a campfire.

A short program was rendered, consisting of the following numbers: duet on violin and piano, Misses Elsie and Maxine Telford; humorous readings, Mrs. J. R. Hickman, clubswinging, Robert Warner. After the program was given the remainder of the evening was devoted to games on the lawn.

3 COUPLES GET LICENSES

Licenses to marry were issued Thursday to Hattie E. Gibson and Joseph H. Bartolomay; Beulah Edith Ranshaw and Walter A. Barkus and Mary Elizabeth Roddy and John B. Rauch.

LATCHSTRING OUT FOR ANTLERED HERD

ALL PORTLAND AND ITS ENVIRONS TO WELCOME MIGHTY ELK HOST

$125,000 FUND FOR ENTERTAINMENT

Joy and Goodfellowship will Reign Supreme From Arrival Of First Delegate Until Close.

(BY SHAD O. KRANTZ)

PORTLAND, Or., June 27, (Special).—Now that the big Republican convention is over and the Democratic convention is near an end, the attention of a great part of the country will center upon Portland where the Ben- evolent and Protective Order of Elks will begin its annual grand lodge convention Monday, July 6.

Every one of Portland's 275,000 residents has shared in the work of preparing for the invasion of the city by the Elks. Not only have the members of the Portland lodge, who have the arrangements in immediate charge, given their time and attention to the task but the business men and private citizens have assisted them materially.

Portland has raised an entertainment fund of $125,000 of which $25,000 was contributed by the local lodge, the balance by merchants and individuals. This will be spent in dispensing characteristic western hospitality to the city's guests.

Probably the greatest crowd that ever attended a national convocation of Elks will assemble in Portland. This is true for several reasons. One is the fact that this will be the first time the Elks have held their convention in the Northwest. The Northwest has numerous attractions. The Portland Elks are preparing to show their guests many of them.

From the time the first delegate arrives until the last one departs joy and goodfellowship will reign supreme. Every entertainment feature planned by the Portland lodge will be free to all visiting Elks and members of their families. The week's festivities really will open Sunday, July 7, with trolley trips and automobile rides to various points of scenic delight in and near Portland.

Monday will be devoted to the formal reception of the visitors and the opening of the grand lodge sessions by an elaborate musical and oratorical program in the immense Armory of the Oregon National Guard.

The remainder of the week will be occupied with a series of unique attractions that will keep the whole city on the alert.

An event of Tuesday will be a spectacular electrical parade consisting of 17 brightly illuminated floats some of them symbolical of Elksdom and others typifying life in various of the world's leading nations. This pageant was prepared by the Elks at a great cost and undoubtedly will be one of the most brilliant features of the entire week.

On Wednesday all registered Elks will be conducted on a free excursion to the Oaks, an amusement resort on the banks of the Willamette, where every concession will be opened and the antlered hand allowed to roam in and out at will. A monster barbecue will be served for which fully five tons of fresh Columbia river Salmon will be baked. A corps of workmen already is busy preparing the ovens for this detail.

The annual parade, which is the climax of every Elks reunion, will take place Thursday, July 11. Advance information received from various lodges in the United States indicates that more than 25,000 members of the order will participate. James R. Nicholson of Cambridge, Mass., grand esquire of the Elks, has arrived in Portland to take charge of the parade. Liberal prizes have been offered for various features. Considerably friendly rivalry has developed among lodges on the Pacific Coast for the honor of having the largest number of men in line. San Francisco, Seattle, Tacoma, Spokane, Oakland and Los Angeles will be in the competition. The Portland lodge and all lodges in Oregon are barred from all contests. Prizes also will be offered for the tallest, the shortest, the fattest, the leanest and the oldest Elks, with plenty of entries in each class.

A trip to "Council Crest" a resort on top of a hill 1200 feet high and within the city limits; together with naval parades, automobile races, an aeroplane flight and various attractions of lesser delight will be crowded into the busy week.

An army of decorators now is preparing the city in a garb of purple and white—the official Elks colors—and when the first of the visiting thousands enter Portland's gates his eyes will meet a sight such as he has seldom seen. An ambitious "Court of Honor" embracing 12 of the principal city blocks will be the most prominent scheme of ornamentation. Every public building will be attired in banners of purple and white blended with national colors.

Portland is a growing city and has ample hotels to accommodate its convention crowds. Reservations already made will demand much of the hotel space but the people of Portland themselves will provide relief. They will open their homes. The Elks maintain a bureau through which rooms in private residences may be rented by visitors whether they are Elks or not. While more than 100,000 persons may be attracted to the city for the full convention period it is probable that fully 200,000 will be here on the day of the parade.

WIRES DISCUSS AMENDED CHARTER

ing power, but is deprived of the veto power. This council, is composed of three members, one from each ward and two councilmen-at-large. At the coming December election it is provided that five councilmen shall be elected, and that thereafter two councilmen shall be elected each year, one ward councilman and one councilman-at-large. The council is authorized and directed by the charter to employ a business manager, who shall receive a salary not to exceed $2500 per annum, and to this business manager is delegated the authority, under the direction of the council, to take charge of the business affairs of the city. He must make monthly reports to the council.

Mayor Dimick insists that the amendments give the business manager too much power, and that the present council of nine men should not be curtailed.

"If you give the business manager too much authority," said the mayor, "he will think he owns the city. He could order all cross walks in the city changed from wood to macadam. The council should represent every part of the city. There has been a system of graft inaugurated in Baker, Oregon, by having the authority confined to a few men. The business of the city should be transacted in the council which is an open body, and where all the people of the city may come."

Mayor Dimick sharply criticized the charter provision giving the business manager power to advertise for bids through the medium of circular letters.

Recorder Stipp disagreed with the Mayor, and said the business manager would be subject to the council and could be discharged in 15 minutes at any time if he did not please a majority of the council.

The amendments were discussed at some length by T. W. Sullivan, J. E. Hodges, William Sheahan, H. E. Cross and others and Recorder Stipp said that a public meeting would be held next Monday evening in the Commercial Club rooms.

One feature of the new charter is that the chief of police has the power to appoint the entire police force, subject to confirmation by the council.

The mayor has the appointment of the chief, who must be confirmed by the council. The Live Wires will hold their last luncheon next Tuesday noon and will then adjourn until September.

BRYAN WINS FIGHT AGAINST "PRIVILEGE"

day indicated that Murphy has "seen a light." Prior to the vote on South Dakota word went around that Roger Sullivan's delegates who are instructed for Clark had entered into a compact with the Wilson people by which the latter agreed to vote to seat the Sullivan delegates from Illinois in return for a promise from Sullivan to throw the Illinois votes to Wilson after they had complied with their instructions by voting for Clark on the first ballot.

The vote on the South Dakota contest increasing the progressive lead over that stacked up last night on the vote on the unit rule, gave Wilson supporters a great deal of encouragement, and emphasized the earlier statement of Colonel Bryan that there would be no change of attitude on the part of the delegates until "once the cornfields voiced their opinion" on the temporary chairmanship.

The lengthy session of last night in the torrid atmosphere of the convention hall was reflected in the Democratic national convention today. Because of a belief that the convention was certain to reach the nominating stage today, the street fakirs did a thriving business in flags and pennants. Each delegate armed himself with at least one pennant bearing the name and picture of his favorite candidate so that when the time arrived to explode the noise cannons the crowd would have the ammunition ready.

In addition big banners were smuggled into the hall and hidden in places where they could be easily produced when the moment came. Clark banners and buttons predominated. There was no denying the speaker's following was larger than any other candidate. A count of noses indicated that even though he should get New York delegates on the first ballot and the bulk of the other unstructured delegates, he would be far short of the two-thirds vote necessary to nominate.

William J. Bryan tore another chunk from the hide of the Tammany tiger when he and Senator O'Gorman, of New York, were chosen to write every word of the Democratic platform. They began work at 11 o'clock, upon adjournment of the resolutions subcommittee.

Bryan completely routed the Murphy-Sullivan-Taggart combination by strategic moves in the sub-committee. When the 11 members met at 11 a. m. they discussed rough drafts of various planks. Then Senator Culbertson of Texas suggested that Bryan and O'Gorman be entrusted with the composition work for the sub-committee. It went through with a whoop.

Senator Kern, chairman of the resolutions committee, was ill and unable to attend the meeting today. O'Gorman and Bryan were the rulers of the "resolutions room." The other nine members of the sub-committee decided against having any more persons with platform ideas appear today for hearings. They decided Bryan and O'Gorman should be trusted with the whole job.

Other members of the committee wished to join in the convention proceedings, so Bryan and O'Gorman were left alone to dictate every plank. A rough draft of a platform, drawn largely by William Jennings Bryan, was presented today to the resolutions committee by the sub-committee in charge of its preliminary formation.

The rough draft presented today was not complete, but many of the planks are now practically finished.

First Cultivate Your Personality Then Branch Out

Early Education Must Be Directed Toward This End

By Professor JOHN GRIER HIBBEN, President of Princeton University

THERE is a common phrase, "to receive an education," against which I would most emphatically protest. No one receives an education any more than he receives health or strength or life. AN EDUCATION IS WON BY WORK, and the labors to be undertaken and the end to be attained may all be summed up in the command—BE A PERSON!

AS FREEDOM IS THE DISTINCTIVE MARK OF A VIGOROUS PERSONALITY, ALL THE PROCESSES OF EDUCATION MUST BE DIRECTED TO SECURE THIS ESSENTIAL END.

It would seem essential, therefore, that in the early years of one's university experience those studies should be pursued which are peculiarly conducive to the discipline and training of the mind and eventually to the EVOLUTION OF A SELF DETERMINING AND SELF REALIZING WILL.

One who is to maintain the health and growth of his intellectual life must come, however, at some later period in his development to DELIGHT IN THE TASKS OF THE INTELLECT. To rejoice in the labors of the mind is NOT A PREVAILING CHARACTERISTIC of the natural man.

IF THERE IS TO BE INTELLECTUAL POWER IN THE WORLD IT MUST BE THE POWER OF A FREE SPIRIT, AND THE POWER OF A FREE SPIRIT IN TURN CAN ARISE ONLY OUT OF A SPIRIT OF DOCILITY.
