The Income Tax Amendment

The proposition to give Congress power to enact an income tax without apportioning it among the states, and without regard to any count of the population, is moving ahead slowly, but it is moving. Thirty-three legislatures have now ratified it, the latest of these, that of Minnesota, having acted a few days ago. It must get the support of three additional states before it can become a part of the constitution. Six or seven states are still to act upon it, about half of them being Western states. Out of this number the proposition will probably get enough supporters to put it into effect. This has been slow work. The amendment proposition was submitted to the states in the summer of 1909, but lack of interest in the subject delayed action, except in the case of a few states, for over a year. In several instances one branch of a legislature has rejected the proposition and later on reconsidered its course and ratified it. In this way the total in its favor has been mounting slowly but steadily. From present indications enough states will have sanctioned it by the end of 1913 to place it in the organic law. The income tax will be the sixteenth amendment to the constitution. Probably the proposition to elect United States senators by a direct vote of the people of the respective states will be the seventeenth amendment. The Massachusetts Legislature ratified the

To the Goddess of Justice

Fair Goddess, proud upon thy lofty stand, Lookst thou o'er streets and cliffs and verdant land Thy scales restored, thy temple built as new, So grand that scarce we feel its cost accrue! Ah, once Jehovah's holiest earthly place, The sordid money changers did disgrace! Therefore, fair, Goddess, we below thee pray That thou who ever lookst so far away Seest that beneath thy roof all things are right. Illume each chamber with thy searching light, Grand that the tributes paid with toil-stained hand, May not be squandered on some grafter band. What others earn may we so freely spend, And oft ill-used are things that others lend. May those whom we elect to serve not shirk, In ease and trust fair hirelings with their work, For indolence is such besetting sin, With those who pay no hire, nor risk to win. When right fights hard and jurors are for sale, Let not the mighty dollar tip thy scale. Help that each one of us be clean himself; Then public men will serve for more than self. And what our fathers build with faith in merit Our children thus unstained may inherit. ANDREW FRANZEN.

"The Lost Chord."

Sir Arthur Sullivan was at one time greatly worried about what appeared to him to be a bad inconsistency in "The Lost Chord." Sir John Robinson tells the story: "The words are, 'I struck one chord of music like the sound of a great amen.' Now, amen is a word of two syllables, so that there must have been two chords. He did not notice this, he said, until after the song had been sung in public, and he was terribly afraid he would get laughed at for it. But he didn't."

Sparing His Feelings.

"I love you, but I shall never marry you." "Why not?" "Well, you see, I love you too much ever to think of getting a divorce from you."—Detroit Free Press.

Expecting Too Much.

Customer (sarcastically)—I've managed to cut this steak, but I'm either, if I can chew it. Waiter—Yes, sir. We guarantee our knives, but our responsibility does not extend to our customers' teeth.—London Punch.

ROBERTS COOL WHEN SENTENCED TO DIE

PORTLAND, July 6, (Special)—"It is ordered and adjudged by the court that you, H. E. Roberts, convicted of murder in the first degree, be remanded to the custody of the sheriff of Multnomah County; that he deliver you within 20 days from this date to the superintendent of the penitentiary of the state of Oregon; that upon such delivery you be confined within the walls of the said penitentiary until the date of execution, and that there, in the said penitentiary of the state of Oregon, on Friday, the 25th day of August, 1912, in the manner provided by law, you be hanged by the neck until dead. "And may the Father of us all, in His infinite goodness have mercy on your soul." "Jack" Roberts was sentenced today for shooting Donald M. Stewart and George Hastings, on the White House road March 29, while attempting to hold up an automobile party. He was brought into court from the County Jail by Deputy Sheriffs Leonard and Phillips and maintained his usual bravado manner throughout the proceedings. When called before the bench for sentence, the judge put the usual question: "Roberts, have you objections to make why the sentence of the court should not be pronounced at this time?" "I don't know what you call objections, but I want to tell you that three witnesses told damn lies at the trial." "That is hardly a legal objection," answered the judge. "I'm ready then, to get hung," responded the condemned man. After sentence had been pronounced Roberts had a brief conversation with Attorney Hurst, who was associated with Attorneys McAllister and Whitfield in the defense.

A CHEERFUL FACE.

It is said there is nothing which diffuses itself more quickly in a family than the coolness, indifference and discontent which manifest themselves in the countenances of one of its members. This thought is not absolutely true. There are some things which communicate themselves with as much rapidity and more force. They are a bright smile, a frank and open manner, a cheerful face, a happy heart. There is enough misery in the world without adding to it a single frown. A cheerful face is always welcome.

The Sky Youth.

He—Then you have no objection to admitting we are engaged? She—No. But why do you want to be? He—I'm going away, you know, and it's such a protection, when the girls annoy me. —Cleveland Plain Dealer.

ARE YOU A MASON

Screaming Farce Comedy for Elk Week by Baker Stock Company

Once upon a time a few years ago, a man with the ferocious name of Ditrachstein wrote a farce comedy and called it "Are You a Mason." It made him a fortune and is still coming laughs and much money for theatre managers all over the world. Manager Baker of the Baker Stock Company selected this play to exploit the well known capabilities of his famous amusement organization the week the Elks are here and it will open today matinee. The plot of "Are You a Mason" deals with a couple of married men, one young and one old enough to know better, who grab the old excuse to stay away late at nights sometimes—only they neither one really pretended to be. And neither one knew the other was bluffing. Both thought the other fellow knew all about the wonderful things he was pretending to know and explain to the rest of the family. Some of the funniest situations are derived from this ground work ever seen on the stage and the Baker company will do full justice to everyone of them. There are three of the liveliest acts imagination can conjure up with no time to sleep between laughs. So one place to take the visiting friends and relatives while in the city this week will be to the Baker Theatre. They will be grateful for that for a house is always cool and comfortable and this city has never seen better shows for the money than Manager Baker is noted for giving his patrons. There will be matinees nearly every day during the big week and the Baker prices are such that a man can take a whole party to a big first class playhouse, enjoy one of the best farces ever written, played by one of the cleverest companies ever gathered together and hardly feel the amount spent. Portland people will know that from experience for the Baker has always held a large regular patronage. Only be sure to have your friends see the well known Baker Stock Company while in the city. Monday will be a bargain night as usual. Are You a Mason closes the Stock season at the Baker.

THOUSANDS FOR SELF-EDUCATION.

Farmers and business men of DeKalb county, Ill., recently pledged $30,000 to promote demonstration work for three years. This was made possible through the farmers' clubs which sprang into existence during the last two years. There are 19 of these clubs with a total membership of 700 farmers, merchants and bankers. They were organized by the county farmers' institute. The object of the clubs says Farm and Home, are to promote the work of farmers' institutes, to disseminate more rapidly agricultural communication, and to establish community centers for the discussion of community problems. During the last two seasons about 50 meetings have been held in the county with an attendance of from 100 to 500. Some of the very best farmers in the state, men who have met with unusual success in their work, have been secured to address the meetings. Less than two years old, these clubs are already showing excellent results. Farmers are taking renewed interest in their work and more intelligent attention is given to farming operations; community life has been developed, and a better social spirit is evidenced. Social, moral and educational standards have been raised and co-operation has been given a distinct impetus.

Will Doctors of the Future Be Hypnotists? By Dr. HENRY C. EVAN, Member of the American Medical-Psychological Association

SUCCESSFUL physicians of the future will be psychologists and hypnotists. The average "quack" is a success because he always has his patients CHARMED INTO BELIEVING that the medicine he administers will effect a cure, which is half the battle. MERE DRUGS WITHOUT THE PHYSICIAN'S PERSONAL EQUATION ACCOMPLISH LITTLE. HE SHOULD BE AN OPTIMIST. The time is ripe for a new specialty, which should include in its vast sweep every physician entitled to the confidence of the people—a specialty that will cause practitioners to study men, MASTER THE MARVELOUS INTRICACIES AND DEPENDENCIES OF THE HUMAN MIND.
