QUAINTNESS AND CHARM
A chic little model of shot taffeta claims attention in the drawing today. This is in the shade of messaline green (which found favor in the spring blossoming of smart gowns at the French capital. This quaint frock follows the lines of the narrow silhouette with empire waist line and narrow close-fitting skirt. Around the neck which is quite low is a wide double ruche of the frayed taffeta, meeting at the front under a flat rabeat of the silk. The skirt is finished on the bottom by a ruche similar to that around the neck and above this is a narrow double ruche of the silk applied in loops.

1912 'SHAKESPEARE YEAR' AT CHAUTAUQUA

In response to the growing demand for a deeper study of Shakespeare, inspired by leading club women of Portland and Oregon City, the Gladstone Chautauqua directors have decided to make the 1912 session which opens Tuesday, "Shakespeare year." The plan is a unique one but with the assurance of Professor Lee Emerson Bassett of Stanford University, in a telegram sent to Secretary Cross Saturday, that he will be at the Chautauqua grounds Tuesday morning to personally take charge of the "Shakespeare year," the directors are confident that the idea will be fully as successful as the scheme is novel. Professor Bassett is a leading authority on Shakespeare, a deep student of the great poet, and his work at Stanford University in the department of English literature has placed him in the front ranks of American literary scholars. Besides devoting his entire time to the daily morning classes, Professor Bassett will give his great reading and interpretation of the masterpiece "Hamlet" on July 19 at 8:00 P. M., which is to be an unusual treat for Chautauqua patrons.

Almost every Women's Club in Portland, and every ladies' organization in Oregon City will have representatives at the park to hear Professor Bassett's great recital, and his daily classes are to be composed largely of club women interested in the famous author.

GUILD ENTERTAINED AT HISTORIC HOME

The annual social given by the women of St. Paul's Guild of the St. Paul's Episcopal church and the daughters of the King held at the historical old home of Mrs. Dan O'Neil and Miss M. L. Holmes at Mount Pleasant Friday was a most enjoyable affair. Supper was served from 5:30 until 7:30, and many members of the church as well as friends attended, some of whom remained during the evening to enjoy a social time in games and music. Miss M. L. Holmes favored her guests by several selections on the piano. Her piano is the oldest one in Oregon. "Rose Farm" is one of the most delightful historical homes in the West, and the many curios attract much attention. It was at this home many years ago that an inaugural ball was given for Governor Lane, which was attended by several hundred persons.

REV. EDWARDS TO SPEAK ON "WOMAN"

(Communication)
The most vital question upon the public at the present time is the Woman question. It concerns both man and woman; it is both public and private. The future of the home, the nation and the race depends on what the women do. At present the men have the situation in their hands politically. What are they going to do about it? What ought we to do about it? Every man and woman is bound to think of these things. The brotherhood class of the Congregational church has been studying the subject for several weeks. On Sunday night the pastor will speak at the 7:45 service on "Woman; Her Place of Power." Both men and women are cordially invited to be present.

A Pig in a Poke.
A pig-poker is a dealer in pigs—not the large and portly fellow whom you meet now and again at the country market with a cargo of a hundred or more pigs of all ages, shapes and sizes for sale, but a little man who for the most part carries his wares upon his back or occasionally perhaps in a wheelbarrow. A "poke," of course, is a pocket or sack, and a pig poker, therefore, is one who deals in pigs carried round from place to place in a poke. The old proverb about the foolishness of "buying a pig in a poke" has its origin, of course, in this time honored method of pig purveying.—London Globe.

Literary Consuls.
Great Britain has had literary consuls as well as the United States. Charles Lever, the Irish novelist, for instance, was British consul at Spezia and Trieste during the last fifteen years of his life and was succeeded at Trieste in 1872 by Sir Richard Burton, the traveler, who wrote many of his best books there, including his translation of the "Arabian Nights," and died there in 1890. And one must not forget that most prolific but nearly forgotten writer, G. P. R. James, who turned out his three novels a year for about forty years, was British consul at Norfolk, Va., and died as consul general at Venice in 1890.—London Graphic.

The Wash Boiler.
A faucet on the wash boiler is said to be an excellent thing. Instead of lifting out the clothes after boiling them open the faucet and let the boiling suds drain into a tub or pail. The clothes may be more easily removed to the rinsing tub after the boiling water has been drawn off. A plumber will be able to fit a faucet to a boiler at small expense.

LIVE STOCK MARKET IS QUIET BUT FIRM

UNION STOCKYARDS, July 6, (Special).—There was no trade in any department of the livestock market today, the little stuff that came in being consigned directly to the packers. Receipts were 1 calf, 102 sheep and 130 hogs. The shippers were C. E. Lucke, of Canby, who brought in a carload of sheep and hogs; F. D. Decker, who sent in a load of sheep and hogs from Gervais, and Sevier & Weed, who brought in 75 hogs by boat. The market in all lines at the finish appeared to be steady to firm at the prices last quoted, with cattle and hogs the strongest features. Best grade steers yesterday sold at $7, and fancy cows and veal stock today were held to be readily salable at the quotations of the past few days. For prime pork material dealers reported no difficulty in obtaining $8, the high quotation for the week, and the indications are that the hog market will hold up in good shape the coming week.
