The injunction suit of Carl B. Hanson against the Board of Directors of the Milwaukie school was dismissed by Circuit Judge Campbell Monday. Hanson was granted a temporary order several weeks ago restraining the directors from purchasing a certain piece of ground upon which to erect a school house. They also were restrained from selling $20,000 bonds with which to purchase a site and erect a building. Subsequently, however, the voters at a meeting decided upon a site, which ends the litigation. Brownell & Stone represented the plaintiff.

Alleging that his property has been greatly damaged by the cutting of a street through it the defendant Monday in the suit of the city of Canby against Wallace R. the proposition for a playground was misunderstood by at least one-third of the voters. They thought it contemplated simply the purchase of a lot by the city where the children might play The object however, was to provide a lot for a swimming pool and bathing facilities for children and adults, a baseball field and for other games, such as tennis, football .etc. The revised charter which was lost was prepared by a commission named
