ORIGINAL LINGERIE GOWN

An exquisitely dainty lingerie costume, in which fillet lace binding is combined with embroidered voile, appears above. The peasant blouse has a bolero of the plain voile edged with pendant crochet balls, and enlarged by square embroidered tabs of the voile. A wide flat collar with three deep points, one in the center of the back finishes the neck which is composed of the fillet lace and a band of the voile. Crochet balls finish the edge. The skirt has a plain center panel with sides and back, consisting of three flounces of the embroidered voile running to a point in the back. These are finished with the scalloped square tabs and are without fullness falling over an inserted band of the lace which follows the line of the flounce.

ATHLETIC RECORD BREAKING EPOCH

James E. Sullivan Says We're In the Midst of One.

PREDICTS 25 FOOT JUMP.

Thinks Olympics Will Produce Man Who Can Do It—The 9 2-5 Seconds Sprinter Not Far Off—Adds That More Marks Will Be Shattered.

That the American athlete has not yet reached the zenith of his flight after records is becoming more apparent every day. Given the proper incentive and training and new figures in many of the events forming the average athletic meet program can and will be bettered in seasons to come. This is proved by the thorough manner in which the United States track and field stars are going after

JIM THORPE OF CALIFORNIA WHO WILL FIGURE IN THE ALL AROUND EVENT.

The Olympic records on the eve of the fifth international games to be held at Stockholm next month. The incentive needed to spur on the best performers in club and college circles is supplied in the desire to make the team which will represent this country in the Swedish stadium during the games July 6 to 15. As a result the competition has been keener in all branches of track and field sports this spring than in many years. Record after record has been wiped out and replaced by better times and distances until it would appear that "of the breaking of records there is no end."

So general and widespread has been this successful assault on figures thought to be invincible that even the leading athletic authorities hesitate to fix a limit on the future performances of the spiked shoe clan. With Gardner of Yale vaulting 13 feet 1 inch, Horine clearing the bar in the running high jump at 6 feet 7 inches, Rose shattering the shot put figures, Duncan the discus record and a score of runners equaling or surpassing Olympic standards, there is reason for the national enthusiasm with which this country is backing the American team in the fifth Olympiad.

Discussing the epidemic of record breaking recently, James E. Sullivan of the American Olympic committee said: "I am ready to throw up my hands so far as the future is concerned. There never has been such a season for all around athletic success as the present one. We all expect a record to go here and there each year, but when they begin to fall in bunches, why, you can't blame the old timers if we just sit back aghast. As to the reason for this athletic condition, I think it can be divided into three classifications—first, better and more scientific training methods; second, the general growth of athletics in all parts of the nation and, third, the unusual amount of intense, powerful training created by the fact that this is an Olympic games year.

"These, of course, apply to the particular and present epoch of record breaking. I am and have been for years a firm believer in the ability of the American athlete to lead the world in this line of sport. Some years ago during an athletic discussion in the Chicago A. A. clubhouse I. K. Baxter and Myer Prinstein, both Olympic non or men, asked me if I believed that a pole vaulter would ever clear thirteen feet and a broad jumper twenty-five feet. I answered "Yes. The pole vaulter has arrived in Gaidner, and I expect to see a twenty-five foot jump at Stockholm next month. Furthermore, the 9 2-5 seconds sprinter will arrive one of these days. In the person of some big, powerful athlete with the nervous temperament necessary for such a feat. He will be a high powered human mechanism, capable of hurling himself the full 100 yards at top speed from the second he leaves the starting pit."

OREGON CITY ELKS WIN SECOND PRIZE

quire of Oregon City Lodge, profited by his years of military training and drilled his bunch of stags to the limit of perfection and the result is told in a few words—"Second prize for the best appearance in line, $250."

Marching at the head of the delegation of No. 1189 was Henry Strebig, carrying the flag of his country, the colors floating proudly in the snapping breeze, and then came "Tod" Binford 51 inches in height, nearly the smallest Elk in the procession. The Girls' band of Oak Grove made a real hit, with their natty uniforms, with the purple and white trimmings, and the little ones bore up bravely under the long march and under the tire-some wait for their place in line, for Oregon City was in the last division but was not the least. All the officers of No. 1189 were in the parade, and the lodge was honored with the appointment of a division commander H. E. Williams.

Not a man dropped out of line. Happily refreshment was obtained just before the start was made, the uniformed men making a raid on a nearby delicatessen, which reaped a small harvest, selling its big stock of eatables in record time. All along the line there were cheers and applause for the Oregon City herd who finished strong and in perfect alignment.

The following Oregon City Elks marched in the parade:

- Ralph Parker, Fred Schaefer, F. A. Maslin, George J. Hall, P. Vernig, M. D. Latourette, J. C. Elliott, Thomas Randall, A. A. Price, Captain Young, F. H. Dungan, Henry O'Malley, Gus Schmoerr, J. J. PEARLS FOR FARMER AND WIFE.

Lambs gain in weight during their first month largely in proportion to milk received. For this reason attention should be paid to the milking qualities of ewes.

Here is the recipe for an excellent sarsaparilla decoction to purify the blood: Slice 1-4 pound sarsaparilla root thin and put over fire in two quarts water. Simmer 4 hours, strain, pouring root to mash, return to the liquid and boil down to 2 pints. Strain, cool and bottle. The dose is 1 tablespoon in glass cold or hot water, sweetened to taste.

The modern method of sealing jelly glasses with melted paraffin has many advantages over the old-fashioned method of covering with paper. The wax can be saved from year to year, melted over again and used many times.—Farm and Home.

FOOT MISERY

We Guarantee to Relieve The Tenderness and Restore Comfort

Are your feet weary? Rexall Foot Powder will help to make them rested and comfortable.

Your feet become tender from numerous causes—tight shoes, excessive perspiration, long standing, rough or long walks, changing from pavement to the ground and vice versa, clothing them too warmly in winter, imperfectly tanned leather, tight shoes.

Whatever the cause, the result is a tender skin and a constant irritation of the nerves, sometimes becoming almost unbearable and often extending to the knees or hips, perhaps leading you to believe that your trouble is something far more serious than tender feet. The pain spreads through the nerves, but the trouble is with the feet; that remedied, the pain disappears. Antiseptic, soothing, deodorizing Rexall Foot Powder should undoubtedly be tried in such cases.

When we say that Rexall Foot Powder will relieve foot troubles, we go farther. We guarantee it. We don't ask you to take a chance. We know what we are talking about, and are ready to prove to you that we know. If we are wrong, it won't cost you anything. If we are right, as we know we are, you are freed from suffering, embarrassment and inconvenience. Rexall Foot Powder costs you 25c. If it proves after use, to be what you want. If it doesn't, it doesn't cost you a red cent, because we will refund your 25 cents. Sold in this community only at our store. The Rexall Store, Huntley Bros. Co.
