Plunging Into Free Trade

The Democratic platform adopted at Baltimore begins with a straightforward declaration for free trade, and the assertion that a protective policy violates the constitution. President Washington and his associate founders of the government thought otherwise, for one of the earliest measures set in motion when Washington was first inaugurated recognized the desirability, and of course the legality, of a protective tariff. During the last fifteen years the business of the country has been conducted under a protective tariff as shaped by Republican administration during this period. Shall free trade take its place? The Democratic platform distinctly answers—yes. The election of a Democratic president and Congress in November will usher in free trade unless the platform of the Democratic party is repudiated in its first and foremost clause. In some quarters it is hinted that full free trade will be evaded, as during President Cleveland's second term, that nightmare of business depression. But no evasive party can be trusted. Its proper treatment is defeat.

That the business activities of the United States have been enormously developed in the last fifteen years is a matter of common knowledge. Every census bulletin is an example of the increase. Thus speaks protection for itself. Its record is an array of accomplished facts, not a theory with a string of promises attached. Look at the tens of thousands of factories in operation and the vastly enlarged industries of the last decade. Note that the foreign demand for American manufactured articles has mounted to more than a billion dollars, a fourfold gain in the last ten years. Is not this a matter for careful thought by the great army of men engaged in the myriad forms of manufacturing that have sprung up under the two Republican protective tariffs in force since 1897? There has been equally protection for the farms and the mines. Its story is in results. To forget it will be calamitous, as was proved in the last Democratic administration, which dabbled in and muddled with free trade of a half-way sort. There is a better way to learn than by bitter experience.

Panama has had an orderly presidential election. The explanation is the presence of American commissioners to insist that the contest should be settled by ballots, not bullets.

Senator La Follette's name for the third party would be something descriptive of butting in and spoiling the game.

As the vote against Lorimer was about 2 to 1 it is probable that another month's deluge of talk would have made it unanimous.

Beauty Hints. Nails that have been injured by cutting them too low are soothed and healed by gently massaging them with a good cold cream. Rub the cream well in around the nail.

Keep a dish of oatmeal on the toilet stand and rub it freely on the hands after each washing. This dries and softens the skin, preventing it from becoming red and rough when exposed to the air.

To keep hair brushes clean necessitates frequent washings, a process certain to soften the bristles. This may be remedied by dipping the bristles in a strong solution of alum water after they are thoroughly cleaned.

A veil is an excellent protection against the winds of spring. Chiffon or any loose mesh material is the best selection and may be removed when a lessening of the exposure warrants the elimination of this pretty and effective precaution. The shadow and Shetland veils now so fashionable give a becoming tone to the skin and have the advantage of coming from a warm bath of soap and water fresh and clean as new.

Almond oil is used to bring the desired whiteness to the hands. The hands should be dipped in the oil, then in French chalk and incased in a pair of old gloves over night. Another plan recommended as a hand beautifier is to wash with peroxide, letting it dry on the hands, then rub in a good cold cream and don old kid gloves. In the morning wash off with lemon juice, vinegar or cider, hot water and a good skin cream.

Sleep, if taken at the right moment, will prevent an attack of nervous headache. If the subjects of such headaches will watch the symptoms of its coming they can notice that it begins with a feeling of weariness or heaviness. This is the time a steep of an hour, or even two, as nature guides, will eventually prevent the headaches. If not taken just then it will be too late, for after the attack is fairly under way it is impossible to get sleep until far into the night.

A Cure For Nerves.

Fresh air will bring up any group of nerves not hopelessly demoralized. When you feel that "dying to pieces" inclination overtaking you, jerk your self to order with the checkrein of determination and then, if you cannot regain self control, stop anything on earth you may be doing and go out of doors. If you cannot leave the home, lean out of a window or step for a little while on a porch. You will not lose any time—you will, in fact, gain time by increasing efficiency in whatever you may be doing. Sleep also is a great restorer of nerves to a normal tone, and sleeping with all windows open secures for us two nerve cures at the same time. In foods raw on ions, carrots, lettuce and celery, with plenty of olive oil, are excellent nerve foods, all valuable as aids in the good work, but the chief remedy is strong will and the compelling of your body to obey your mind.

Cure For Fever Blisters.

Fever blisters, or cold sores, as some call them, are very disgusting. They may come from suddenly chilling the blood when heated, or they may result from digestive troubles. The best cure of course is to find the trouble and remove it. Sometimes if they are rubbed vigorously when the first symptoms of their coming are felt they will disappear. The following remedy, too, is helpful: Carbolic acid six drops; glycerin, one teaspoonful; rose-water, ten drops.

Then if a woman finds that her lips have settled into unpleasant lines, and sometimes they do, a few lip gymnastics are helpful. These should not be done to such an extent as to make wrinkles on the face, but if the lips are moved about and pursed up until any fixed habits of expression that they may have formed are broken up it will add to their charm.

Homemade Cold Cream.

During the windy weather one requires a good, pure cold cream that can be applied in the day time without being noticeable. Here is an excellent recipe: Take half an ounce each of spermaceti and white wax, with two of witch hazel and three of sweet almond oil. Let the wax and spermaceti barely melt over hot water before adding the oil. They should only just turn liquid before being removed from the heat.

Prince and Princess of Teck Open a London Exposition

THE Princes of Teck derive their chief importance from their alliances with royalty. The title of Duke of Teck, held by the head of the family, was conferred by the king of Wuertemberg upon his first cousin in 1870. That duke married a daughter of the Duke of Cambridge, a first cousin of Queen Victoria, and his daughter, Princess Mary of Teck, is now queen of England. His third son, Prince Alexander, married Princess Alice of Albany, a granddaughter of Queen Victoria. Like other royalties and near royalties, the prince and princess are in demand for such show occasions as the laying of cornerstones and the opening of exhibitions. The accompanying photograph was made when the couple officiated at the recent opening of the Latin-British exposition in London.

PHYSICIAN IS HURT IN AUTO COLLISION

TACOMA, Wash., July 24.—Dr. Guy O. Ireland, of the Steilacoom Insane Asylum, is lying in a dangerous condition at that institution as the result of a collision of an auto in which he rode with Superintendent A. P. Calhoun of the asylum, with a car driven by C. R. Lloyd and C. C. Cates, of Portland. The latter men were on their way to Portland from the Seattle-Potlatch, when Dr. Calhoun's car came into the road from a side road and the two machines collided and were wrecked. Dr. Ireland was thought to have a fractured skull, but the attending physicians say he may live.

Lloyd and Cates were arrested and the police stated the men would be held without bail, but they were released today on their own recognizance. They claim that Dr. Calhoun is to blame and say they will sue the physician. Dr. Calhoun claims the Portland men were on the wrong side of the road. "The men in the other car were driving on the wrong side of the road," he said, "and I swung to the left to avoid hitting them, when at the same instant they turned their car slightly to the right and caught us broadside."

Mix in the oil, then with a silver fork add the witch hazel, drop by drop. Beat to a smooth cream, adding a few drops of any preferred perfume.

A Beauty Tip.

Learn to laugh. A good laugh is better than medicine. Learn how to tell a story. A well told story is as welcome as a sunbeam in a sickroom. Learn to keep your troubles to yourself. The world is too busy to care for your sorrows. Learn to see the bright side of things. If you cannot see good in the world keep the bad to yourself. Learn to hide your pains and aches under a pleasant smile. No one cares to hear them. Learn to meet your friends with a smile. The good humored man or woman is always welcome, but the hypochondriac is not wanted anywhere.

ROOSEVELT SCORED BY CONGRESSMAN

WASHINGTON, July 24.—Denouncing Colonel Roosevelt as "a pirate who deliberately misleads the people" and asserting that the Roosevelt contests at Chicago were trumped up and faked, Representative Mondell of Wyoming in the house today denied that there was any fraud in President Taft's renomination and fired the opening gun of the campaign in the president's defense.

Representative Bartholdt of Missouri, will follow Mondell in presenting the case to the Taft people. Mondell's speech was filled with denunciatory epithets. He said:

"Roosevelt and his supporters have repeatedly, in the most violent and intemperate language, made serious charge of fraud and wrong doing in connection with the seating and election of delegates. Few persons realize how men may be led by an over zealous man and his unscrupulous supporters alike to subordinate. Truth is at a disadvantage in the presence of persistent prevarication.

"It is now proposed to steal the livery and secure the benefits of Republican state organizations while repudiating the party. It is difficult to conceive of a more shameless proposal of pure piracy. The local boss of the new crew is a cautious pirate, but the chief repudiates any such mushy procedure. Quoth he: 'If you are a pirate, be a pirate. Carry the flag as long as it is to your interest, but eventually make them walk the plank, and scuttle the ship.'"

Mondell declared that Speaker Clark had as much right to desert the Democratic party as Roosevelt had in the Republican, asserting that the nomination was "ruthlessly snatched from him without warrant, justification or excuse."

Referring to Roosevelt's 238 contests, Mondell said: "This overwhelming number was brought for the purpose of confusing the issue, misleading the public and to lay the foundation for outrageous charges. The southern contests were too raw for the stomachs of even the most prejudiced of the Roosevelt supporters."

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE

JOHN AND MRS. JOHN. "John, I don't see why you do not fix that back door. I've told you about it several times." John replies in like tone. The red blood flares up into Mrs. John's face.

Retorts are handed back and forth, and to end the controversy John flares out: "That door will not get fixed till I get ready, and it will not be any sooner because of your continual nagging." He goes out slamming the door behind him, which is peculiarly a masculine manner of emphasis.

The fact is John should have fixed the door when his wife asked him. It would have required only a few minutes. John did not regard the matter as important, but Mrs. John was greatly annoyed. A little thing had caused a big fuss.

By and by John cooled off and sat down to think. He was too hasty. Did he not know his wife's nerves usually were a little frazzled of mornings. Why had he not fixed the door before this? And why should he get so angry at her—be a big man and she a woman, weary and nervous? What a brave little wife! Always had she done her part, and then some. She had saved his money, slaved for him and the children, and though sometimes she did raise her voice impatiently, what a lot of things she had to vex her, the poor dear!

Mrs. John also thought: Why did she lose her temper? Of course she was feeling bad this morning. True, John was forgetful about little things, but after all he was a very good husband. He worked hard and stayed at home evenings. How kind he had been when she was very ill! He remembered her birthdays. And with tearful eyes she called to memory how he stood by her side in the vigils of the night, and how together they had fought black death away from the baby's cradle, and—

When John came home in the evening they looked into each other's eyes, smiled and were glad.

Abuses Which Tend to Cause a Feeling of Unrest

Disrespect Shown For Laws Class Hatred Is Fostered

THE crying sin of American life is lawlessness, and the tendency toward class hatred is deplorable. The duty of the educated classes is to teach restraint. Attacks are made upon the laws and the judges and legislators as a result of the growing unrest.

What do we gain by impatient zeal? Striving for immediate results in education seems to result either in narrower training or in the cramming of children with knowledge which is confusing and a hindrance to all normal development. In legislation it seems to result in leading us to trust to laws instead of educating the people in principles of life, and our HASTE IN LAWMKING IS REVENGED UPON US BY REACTIONS THAT LEAVE US IN WORSE CONDITION THAN BEFORE.

THE PRACTICE OF THE LAW ITSELF, BY BAD METHODS, RED TAPE, TECHNICALITIES THAT DEFEAT JUSTICE AND INEXCUSABLE DELAYS, HAS A VAST DEAL TO ANSWER FOR, BUT IF IT WERE TENFOLD WORSE IT COULD NOT EXCUSE THE TEACHING AND EXAMPLE OF LAWLESSNESS WHICH ATTACKS COURTS AND JUDGES WITHOUT RESTRAINT AND WHICH SETS UP ITS OWN STANDARDS.
