JENNINGS LODGE.

Mrs. H. H. Emmons was the hostess Thursday to a very pretty appointed luncheon. Her guests were Mesdames Fisher, Glegan, DeLong, and Pierce.

Perhaps the most interesting part of the camp meeting was the afternoon of Friday, which had been given over to the Woman's Missionary program. The president, Mrs. Noah Shupp, of Tacoma, being unable to attend, Mrs. Clark presided. The devotions were led by Mrs. Albright.

The children's work under the direction of Mrs. Bradford was also an interesting half hour spent with the little ones and the missionary cause.

Sunday, the largest gathering which ever assembled at this place was at the River View camp grounds. At 9:45 the children's service was held, two hundred and sixteen being present at this meeting. Rev. H. Hornschum spoke in Rev. Shupp's absence at 10:45 and at 2 P. M., the German service, conducted by Rev. Otto Schultz, which was followed by an English sermon by Rev. Fisher. An impressive service was held on the banks of the Willamette when a choir rendered "Wash Me and I Shall Be Whiter Than Snow" and "Shall We Gather at the River." A baptismal service took place, one being immersed and several sprinkled. Monday, August 5th, the annual business meeting took place. Tuesday, August 6th, the following subjects were taken up: "Essentials and Non-Essentials in the Sunday School," reading by Kathryn Voegelien; "Glimpses of Our Missionaries" by H. Schneckert told of the missionaries of the Evangelical church being in almost every country and the islands of the sea. A pleasant duet by Mrs. Bradford, of Lents, and Mrs. Clark.

of Lents; an address by Mrs. Banks, a returned missionary of Africa, held the utmost attention of all present. The fourteen years of Mrs. Banks and her husband were busy years teaching the boys and girls in the day school and of teaching the girls to sew and make their own clothing.

Instructions in Morality in Public and Sunday Schools, by Dr. D. L. Kiehle, of Portland; "Lecturing vs. Discussion in Bible Study," by R. R. Perkins; "Problems of the Wayward Child," by F. M. Fisher; "The Religion of the Rising Generation," (A prophecy,) by Rev. H. Schucknecht; "The Teen Age," by Mrs. S. M. Ormsby. Monday evening an able address was given by Rev.
