COURT QUESTIONS STEFFENS' STORY

JUDGE BORDWELL DENIES THAT HE MADE AGREEMENT WITH WRITER

TESTIMONY ENDS IN NOTED CASE

Bordwell Testifies that Magazine Man Made An Effort To Discuss Case But Was Rebuked

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 9.—The feature of the closing day of the taking of testimony in the trial of Clarence S. Darrow today was the sharp contradiction by Judge Bordwell, who presided in the McNamara trial, of Lincoln Steffens' testimony that the writer had discussed with him in advance the proposal to settle the McNamara case "without loss of life." Steffens had taken credit to himself for the ending of the famous case. He testified that he had taken the subject up with the judge himself. Judge Bordwell made as plain as possible his assertion that he had not permitted Steffens to discuss this phase of the subject with him.

Steffens testified he had won Bordwell over to leniency. Bordwell said that while talking with Steffens on one occasion Steffens began to tell him of conversations with Gibbon and Lissner in regard to settling the McNamara case without loss of life.

"Then," said Judge Bordwell, "I stopped him and told him that wasn't a proper question."

This, Judge Bordwell asserted, was all that was said. Judge Bordwell persisted in this statement under cross-questioning by Earl Rogers, of the defense.

Taking of testimony ended in the Darrow case today. Mrs. Bert Franklin, wife of the former McNamara defense detective, who confessed to bribing two jurors, was the last witness called by the state in rebuttal and at the end of her direct examination the defense announced that there would be no rebuttal.

"The people rest," said District Attorney Fredericks.

"The defendant rests," said Chief Counsel Earl Rogers, of the defense.

It was agreed that arguments should be begun Monday and it was decided to allow each side two and a half days for argument. This agreement assures submission of the case to the jury not later than next Friday night.

Judge Bordwell made it plain that his rebuke of the writer ended the effort to introduce the subject of the McNamara plea into the conversation between them.

MRS. E. B. ANDREWS IS TEMPERANCE HEAD

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union held its annual meeting Tuesday afternoon, and the following officers were chosen for the coming year: Mrs. E. B. Andrews, president; Mrs. L. H. Olmstead, vice-president; Mrs. Eberly, secretary; Mrs. Frank Welsh, treasurer. Plans for the future work of the organization were discussed.

ROOSEVELT PLANS REST OF ONE WEEK

FIGHTING COLONEL THEN WILL START ON SPEAKING TOUR OF UNITED STATES

VISITORS WARNED TO KEEP AWAY

Ex-President, Delighted With Reception In New York, Announces That Metropolis Has "Waked Up"

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Aug. 9.—For one week Theodore Roosevelt is going to forget politics if he can and take a rest. When that week is over he will take up the fight again to carry it on until election day.

The Colonel returned here today from the Progressive convention in Chicago and announced his plan for a week's rest, saying he had told his secretary he wished to see no one at Sagamore Hill. He expects to spend the morning with his riding horse and the afternoon at bowling and tennis, occasionally helping the farmhands in the field.

Colonel Roosevelt was pleased, he said, at the reception today given him when he reached New York. There was a crowd at the station and on his way to his office, where he spent most of the day, he was cheered by those on the streets who saw him.

"New York is waking up," he commented.

With most of the progressive leaders out of town, Colonel Roosevelt gave little time to politics today, except to talk with a few local workers.

He said he had found a great number of letters and telegrams congratulating him upon his nomination for President and the way in which the Progressive party had begun its career. Most of them, he added, ended with an invitation to speak at the place wherever it was, in which the writer lived. He had enough invitations to keep him busy making speeches for several years, and said he would have to refuse almost everybody to adhere to his determination to make only one speech in a state.

WIFE, SING, CALLS HUSBAND MISERLY

Declaring that her husband is miserly and that she had to support herself and her children, Ina L. Kingsbury Friday filed suit for a divorce against James Kingsbury. They were married December 24, 1886, in Bortford, Wash. The plaintiff alleges that the defendant has on many occasions left their five children at home without anyone to watch them. She asks for the custody of the two younger children and that the father be given the custody of the three older ones. Circuit Judge Campbell Friday granted decrees of divorce in the following cases: Gertrude Robin against Ferdinand Robin and Marie Pederson against Anders Pederson.

GRANGE TO HAVE BIG FAIR DISPLAY

Warner Grange is working diligently making preparations for the coming County Fair. The committee in charge has made application for booth space and expects to occupy a much larger space than in former years. All the members of the Grange are working together to make a showing that will surpass other years and enable it to win first prize. Warner Grange has taken first prize a number of times.

The County Fair is a great benefit to the County and all Grangers are urged to have displays. The County Fair is one of the best advertising mediums Clackamas County has ever had.

LIGHTNING KILLS VALUABLE BROOD SOW

Lightning killed a valuable brood sow belonging to James Hylton, of Mount Pleasant, during the electrical storm Wednesday night. The sow was lying under an apple tree, and a bolt of lightning struck the wire fence, searing the poles and killing the animal, which Hylton had recently purchased and which he valued very highly.

If you saw it in the Enterprise it's so.

DESERTED BY HUSBAND, SHE TRIES TO DIE

Mrs. Anna Tompkins, of Willamette, attempted suicide Thursday night at her home by drinking carbolic acid. She will recover, but it is feared she will make another attempt to end her life. Mahlon Snidow, a neighbor, was visiting at the Tompkins house about 9 o'clock, and Mrs. Tompkins went into a pantry and took the poison. Snidow hurried to the telephone station and gave the alarm and a physician from Oregon City administered relief. The woman told Snidow she was tired of life and wanted to put an end to it. Her husband, H. H. Tompkins, lives at Shaw, Or. They have not been living together for some time. Mrs. Tompkins has three children living with her, two daughters, aged ten and fifteen years respectively, and a son, aged twenty years.

L. & N. SHUTS OUT TELEGRAPH COMPANY

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 9.—The Louisville & Nashville Railroad has served notice on the Western Union Telegraph Company that all the latter's poles and wires along the road's right of way must be removed by November 1. This action follows a decision reached by the Louisville & Nashville some time ago to operate its own telegraph system. The contract made between the railroad company and the Western Union 25 years ago expires August 17. It is estimated the Western Union has 25,000 miles of poles and wires along the Louisville & Nashville right of way.
