The Time For Massage. Night is the time to massage the face for the removal of wrinkles. The tired lines must be smoothed out and the muscles of the face braced up by fore sleep is sought, so that all strain and tension are removed from the features during sleep. First all dust should be taken away from the skin. Many women will say in reply to this: "There is no dust or grime to remove. My face is quite clean." You are making a big mistake there, for it is really quite impossible to prevent the pores of the skin from collecting some dust during the day.

Sunburned Faces. Orange flower cream (soothing for sunburned faces) is made as follows: Melt two ounces of white wax in a double boiler, add to it four ounces of oil of sweet almonds and when barely hot remove it from the fire and add to it four ounces of orange flower water. Beat it with a fork till it is light and creamy, then pour it into small jars, which should be tightly covered. Keep it in a cool place.

To Remove Moth Patches. To remove moth patches from the skin apply a solution of common baking soda to the patches with a soft cloth or camel's hair brush. Repeat the process several times a day for three days. Allow the soda to dry on, then cleanse the skin of the face with a linn bath. Repeat the treatment if necessary.

Clergy in Belgium. The clergy in Belgium are allowed three votes on the ground of "superior education."

AN UNUSUAL DESIGN

The hat in the drawing is of petunia straw, wide of brim and comparatively small of crown. A greater height than that to which its crown actually entitles it is achieved by the uprolling brim in the front. Like all other of the season's hats either large or small it sets well down upon the head. From under the brim on either side of a self-toned ribbon is drawn to the back of the crown, where it is massed in many flat loops and ends. Between this ribbon and the brim on the right side two slender quills are thrust which, following the upper line of the brim, describe a graceful curve to the left side. The colors of these quills are petunia and black.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

TO THE MARRIED.

"How to be happy though married?" By remembering: To keep your domestic troubles inside the family. That a "quarrel" should be made up as soon as possible. By remembering that married life is a full, not a limited, partnership. That your partner is neither hero nor heroine, seraph nor cherub. That marriage is for better or for worse—especially for the latter. By remembering to be patient and kind, slow to anger and plenteous in charity. To dress for one another a little and not entirely for society. To be scant in the use of "dear" and "darling" in public, but plenteous in private. By remembering that a soft answer turneth away wrath and grievous words stir up anger. That the woman who saves money is as useful to the partnership and as deserving as the man who makes it. That a good husband is worth more than millions of money and a good wife is above rubies. That confidence, thoughtfulness and faithfulness in one partner beget like virtues in the other. By remembering that love believeth all things, beareth all things, hopeth all things. That love is not puffed up, beareth itself not unseemly, suffereth long and is kind. That the human heart craves fellowship and comradeship and sympathy, always and everywhere. That it is easy to see the mote in your partner's eye and to forget the beam that may be in your own eye. That your partner will meet you halfway. And, if not, go a little farther, for it is worth while. By remembering to be as agreeable (if possible) as in the sweet old days of courtship. That you can afford to make many sacrifices for the sake of harmony and right relations. And by remembering— That the happiness of more than one is bound up in the articles of copartnership and that you cannot afford to dissolve the partnership on any less reason than actual treason to the firm.

Tommy's Persistency. The teacher had been reading to the class about the great forests of America. CATTLE MARKET IS ABOUT AT STANDSTILL

Portland Union Stock Yards Company reports as follows: Receipts for the week have been: cattle, 755; calves, 47; hogs, 1495; sheep, 4604; horses, 65.

In the limited cattle offerings there was nothing that would tempt a high price value than applied for the week before. While the steer market, because of ordinary quality showed no advance, a glimpse at the prices paid for heifers and cows will give an indication of the high range of prices.

The hog market showed an advance of 15 cents. The extraordinary high line of prices as applied to the hog market as compared with what the raiser of the middle states secures for his efforts in swine production has brought about an increase in the production in the Pacific Northwest that shows in the increased receipts from local territory. The supply is nothing like what it should be and too much stress cannot be laid on the opportunities for money making that exists in raising hogs for market.

Prevailing Oregon City prices are as follows: DRIED FRUITS—(Buying), Prunes on basis 6 to 8 cents. HIDES—(Buying), Green hides 6c to 7c; salted 7c; dry hides 12 c to 14c; sheep pelts 30c to 85c each.
