It is as true as ever that no agitator can fool all the people all the time.

There has been an earthquake at Reno. But that's nothing, somebody is jarred loose there nearly every day.

Artificial daylight has been produced simultaneously by inventors in England and Germany. It is a hard blow to persons who allow themselves to be annoyed by that early bird, the rooster.

The citizens of Juarez are extremely fickle. When Orozco is in town they shout "Vive Orozco" with great unanimity, but when the federals captured the burg the popular cry is "Vive Madero."

The late General Booth of the Salvation Army started business on a slum sidewalk with a soap box for a platform. It was enough for a man of his qualities, to found a world-wide institution.

It is estimated that a total of 790-

600 names of candidates for office will be voted for at the November election. Worse still—all of them will be giving away campaign cigars and wanting to make freak bets.

Mr. Underwood is about to return to his district, the largest iron and steel center in the South. The president suggested some ways to reduce the tariff on steel, but Mr. Underwood never succeeded in agreeing with them, or in proposing any other that could pass.

Chicago professors have done almost everything else, and now one of them has turned burglar. It is said that he is insane. This is believed to be the first time that dementia among Chicago professors has taken this exact form.

President Taft and Governor Wilson must have been "tipped off" on their nominations, as both had their speeches of acceptance ready when the notification committees appeared.

It is reported that Castro is coming to the United States. Well, we have enough exes and has beans to make him feel at home.

The New York gambler who was assassinated may be called a dead game sport.

The Love That Lets Go.

Fiction is filled with stories of men who loved their sweethearts enough to let them go, but we find few enough instances of the sort in real life. Yet one such comes to light by way of Milwaukee, and it shall not pass without being chronicled. The name of the man is Simon Koppel, and he is a ragpicker. Simon is seventy-seven, and his wife is fifty. Because he loves her so much that he cannot endure seeing her go hungry Simon recently applied for a divorce so that she might be free to marry some younger man who would care for her.

Here are some nuggets from the ragpicker's philosophy:

"We poor people need more love in our lives, for we have so little else."

"Would one be so selfish as to make the one he loves suffer so she can be near him?"

"I am nearly done with this world. My wife has many years yet to live. I love my wife, and she loves me. But I can't support her. I can't let her go hungry, so I say that we go to a judge and get a divorce, and she can get a younger man."

"Do I love my wife? It is because I do love my wife that I will give her to another who can give her a better living than me."

It is of record that John Ruskin released his wife because she loved another. Yet Ruskin had his books and his ideals, his fame and his friends. But what has the poor ragpicker? He gives up all.

DIMICK TELLS OF MACCABEES GROWTH

State Commander J. W. Sherwood, of the Knights of Maccabees, addressed Tualatin Tent No. 74, Tuesday evening at the W. O. W. Lodge rooms. He congratulated the Tent on its rapid growth, and said that he expected the tent soon would have as good a drill team as any in the state. Mayor Dimick addressed the members and told how a few years ago this tent was organized under unfavorable conditions. He told of its struggle to exist, of how a few loyal members met in his office owing to lack of funds to rent a hall. He expressed his wonder at the large attendance, and the wonderful growth in the membership. A drill team of the Maccabees is being organized and funds are being raised for the purchase of costumes and there is no doubt that when the team is organized it will be a drawing card to tent No. 74, Oregon City.

FAIR WEATHER IS BOON TO FARMERS

The fair weather was greeted by many of the farmers of Clackamas County who had commenced to become discouraged over the rains, as much damage has already resulted in the loss of grain in the shock, but as soon as this becomes thoroughly dried threshing will be resumed. Everywhere the garages look fine, and the markets each day are well supplied with vegetables of all kinds in season.

The market is being well supplied with southern and Oregon watermelons, while cantelopes and musk melons of Clackamas County are finding ready sale. The melons of Clackamas County always find a good market with good prices.

Pears, peaches, apples, plums and other fruits are coming in rapidly except pears of the Bartlett variety, these being somewhat scarce and ranging from 75 cents to $1.10 per box, according to grade. Peaches of several varieties are ranging from 55 cents to 75 cents a box. Those of the 55 cent grade are for canning purposes.

The farmers, who have large quantities of potatoes, will commence digging at once.

THOUGH her health has not always permitted her to take an active part in the social life of Washington, Mrs. Sherman, the wife of the vice president, is one of the most popular women in the capital. While her husband was still a representative in congress she was mainly instrumental in forming the Congressional club, which is made up of the wives of senators and representatives. She is small in stature, has gray hair and, like her husband, has a youthful face, which usually wears a smile. Mrs. Sherman through her many years spent in Washington has obtained an insight into politics that few of her sex possess. She is abreast of the times and is an interesting conversationalist on events of a public character. Mrs. Sherman was the daughter of General Eliakim Babcock and was married in 1881. Mr. and Mrs. Sherman have three sons.

People who complain of the weather could overcome the vain habit by a little reflection. When tempted to find fault with the rain they should think how much wetter it was when Noah was on earth. When in the mood to swear because it is hot and dry they should reflect how much hotter and drier it is in the Sahara, and when peevish because it is too cold they should thank God that they are not at the north pole.

Each of the subtreasuries is soon to have a washing machine to launder dirty currency. Why could not the political committees use the same treatment for contributions of tainted money?

Invention has been perfected whereby peas can be grown by electricity. Now let somebody invent a way to keep them from rolling off the end of a knife.

A Virginia farmer reports that his cow has been getting drunk on ensilage, and an investigation by the agricultural department disclosed the fact that the ensilage had fermented and was raw Bourbon whisky. There are men who would pay a high price for that cow's milk.

A Philadelphia judge is trying to decide whether driving a peg through a live lobster comes under the head of cruelty to animals. It depends on which kind of a lobster is meant—a crustacean or a Johnnie.

Kentucky may have abolished the public drinking cup, but the mint is still growing along with the blue grass.

Are We In Danger of Famine?

At the recent meeting of the National Soil Fertility league H. H. Gross, the president, said:

Statistics show that agriculture in the United States has been so neglected that within twenty years we shall be forced to import our principal food products from foreign lands. We are facing an inevitable famine unless the soil is greatly improved.

The process of taking without giving cannot be long continued. The soil is not inexhaustible. We have reached the time when our farming methods must be revolutionized if we would escape disaster. The note of warning has been sounded often enough, but it has not been heeded extensively enough. We must give to the soil more than we take from it. We must leave it richer than we found it. Crop rotation, fertilizing and scientific farming have become absolute and immediate necessities to the salvation not only of the American farmer but of the American nation.

The simple truth is that our total population is increasing much more rapidly than our agricultural population. This means that the demand for agricultural products is growing faster than the supply. But this is not the worst of it. Our farms on the whole are decreasing in productivity. These facts are enough to point the imminent danger. Already we are at the turn of the tide when we must begin buying our foodstuffs from abroad. To remedy these conditions it is not enough to say, "Back to the soil." We must also make our motto, "Give back to the soil more than we take from it."

In a three cornered campaign some of the corners are likely to be knocked off.

Greater Than Wealth.

The late John Marshall Harlan, for nearly thirty-four years a justice of the United States supreme court, left an estate valued at less than $2,500. After his long life of usefulness to his fellow men that poverty is a higher distinction than the wealth of a Rockefeller or a Carnegie. It was not for lack of opportunities that Justice Harlan was poor. He came from a distinguished family in easy circumstances, his father having been attorney general of Kentucky and a lawyer of national fame. The son was a colonel in the Union army, a lawyer, a county judge and also attorney general of Kentucky. He was an unsuccessful candidate for congress and for governor. He was a member of the electoral commission in 1876 and was appointed to the United States supreme bench the next year. At that time he was forty-four years old.

Now it is apparent that aside from his judicial service a lawyer of such prominence might easily have amassed something of a fortune before the age of forty-four, or might, that is, if his bent had been for money getting. From his career it may be assumed that he was a man of such public spirit that, like Lincoln, he kept him self poor by helping his party and the principles in which he believed.

After his elevation to the supreme bench he gave more than one-third of a century to his country, that does not remunerate any of her servants sufficiently to enable them to grow rich.

In real honor John Marshall Harlan with his $2,500 estate, shines out above any millionaire in the land.

The Health of School Children Should Be Community's Greatest Care

By Dr. GEORGE B. YOUNG, Public Health Commissioner of Chicago

THE DAY IS NOT FAR DISTANT WHEN EVEN SMALL COMMUNITIES WILL AS SOON THINK OF RUNNING A SCHOOL WITHOUT MAKING PROVISION FOR INSTRUCTION IN PREVENTIVE MEDICINE AS THEY WOULD OF RUNNING IT WITHOUT A PRINCIPAL.

The VISION, the HEARING, the SPEECH of pupils, their PHYSICAL DEFORMITIES, their MENTAL DEFECTS, their NUTRITIONAL STATUS, all have come to be matters requiring attention by medical inspectors of schools and justifying CORRECTION at the EXPENSE OF THE COMMUNITY.

To point out the CAUSES of the diseases and defects of school children is only going HALF THE DISTANCE. We are becoming convinced that the true method is to work for the REMOVAL of the CONDITIONS which permit these causes to become operative. These underlying conditions almost all arise from the POVERTY that has its roots in INDUSTRIAL INEFFICIENCY, the IGNORANCE that hinders the advance of the poor and the UN-SOCIAL NARROW MINDEDNESS that limits the appreciation by the well to do of their duty to their fellow men.

THESE THINGS OPERATE IN TURN TO PRODUCE BAD HOUSING, UNDERFEEDING, HIGH INFANT MORTALITY, BLINDNESS, DEFORMITY AND INSANITY.
