COAST TEAMS RAIDED BY MAJOR LEAGUES

CINCINNATI, Sept. 16.—The Pacific Coast baseball teams were hit hard today when the major league clubs, exercising their rights to draft players from minor league clubs, picked several stars from the coast and northwest leagues.

Connie Mack, considered to be the shrewdest manager in the big leagues, plucked Joe Gedeon, the sensational outfielder of the San Francisco team. Friends of Gedeon say he has the making of a star of the Ty Cobb order. Sacramento loses Infielder Orr, who was also drafted by Mack. Hugh Jennings of Detroit picked Pitcher Klatwitzer of the Portland Beavers and the St. Louis Americans drafted Twirler Leverenz of Los Angeles. Catcher Agnew of the Victoria Tigers and "Wig" Meikle of the Seattle team of the Northwest league. The Philadelphia Nationals drafted Catcher La Longe of the Tacoma team and Boston Nationals drew Twirler Strand of Seattle.

The Chicago Cubs drafted 16 players. The New York Giants was the only major league club not to secure several players by draft, but failed in every case.

The Pittsfield Pirates drafted Hilderman from Tacoma and the St. Louis Americans drafted Patterson from Oakland.

The results Monday follow: Northwestern League At Seattle—Seattle 5, Portland 3. At Spokane—Spokane 5, Tacoma 0. At Vancouver—Vancouver 6, Victoria 4.

MARKET FOR GOOD CATTLE REMAINS FIRM

The Portland Union Stock Yards Company report as follows:

Receipts for the week have been: Cattle 1627; calves 56; hogs 1354; sheep 4554.

The market for the best grades of cattle has remained firm, some extra good steers selling as high as $7.25 and choice heifers readily bringing $6.50. Supplies continue to be inadequate to the demand and prospects are good for continued high prices.

The hog division has a widely diversified range, sales ranging from $8.50 to $9.30 according to quality. Best well finished swine, however, were in good demand at from $9.20 to $9.30. Receipts show a slight increase over last week's but buyers are still far from being well supplied.

Mutton continues to advance, best wethers now selling for $4.65, ewes at $3.85 and lambs for $5.50 to $5.65. Light receipts in this division continue to prevail.

Prevailing Oregon City prices are as follows:

WHEN YOUR HAIR BRUSHES OUT Your hair is as sensitive as your skin—even more so. It stands up under heavy hats, curling irons, and diseases of the scalp, etc.—But there is a limit. When you comb and brush your hair in the morning, watch for the "TRAILERS" that turn grey; fall out, and comb out with the first morning brush. You MUST know that there's something wrong. If your hair was in good health, it wouldn't fall out, nature never intended that. There is something wrong at the root of things—the hair needs a tonic restorer. When you see sick you take medicine. That is your first thought. Its turning grey, falling out, are both ways the hair has of "complaining of illness." It can't do it in any other way.—Do YOUR part. Use HAY'S HAIR HEALTH

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

A BOTTLE EQUATION.

Here is an equation from a bottle: John G. Schroeder of St. Paul was arrested in Chicago for passing a worthless thirty dollar check on a saloon keeper. According to Schroeder, the last eight years of his life may be put into the following equation. He lost in the eight years: Half a million dollars in cash. His position in a big business. His reputation. His friends. His health.

On the other side of this equation he got during the eight years: Ten drinks of whisky a day. What is the answer? Ten drinks of whisky per day cost, say, $305 a year; in eight years, $2,920. Or suppose the drinks cost as much as 15 cents. That would aggregate $4,380.

Now, it is easily seen that the terms of the equation are startlingly unequal. How could Schroeder lose a half million dollars, his business, his reputation and friends and health on an expenditure of only $4,380? He tells how. He says, "You can't whip whisky and carry it around inside of you." In other words, if you would correctly figure the problem you should not estimate the money that was paid out, but the whisky that was paid in.

For eight years Schroeder put an enemy in his mouth that was stealing his brains, and with the stolen brains went money, business, friends, health and reputation. "Eight years ago I was in charge of a milling business that did a million a year. I lost control of myself and of the business. I did not gamble nor joy ride with girls. I just drank whisky."

Unshaven, disheveled, with sad face and forlornly repentant voice, he uttered these words in the cell where he terminated his journey on the Great White Way. It did not pay. Of course not. But, like many another traveler to the bar of judgment, Schroeder must needs take the entire trip to find out. The figures are plain. Ten drinks of whisky a day—or less—will cause a man finally to lose everything he holds dear, except the whisky.

To try to whip whisky by drinking it is like trying to whip the devil by serving as his agent. Not That Strap. "Why don't you get up and give that seat to your father, Robby?" reprimanded the woman. "Doesn't it pain you to see him reaching for a strap?" "Not on a train," chuckled Bobby.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

End of the Honeymoon.

As a general thing a bride can always tell when the honeymoon is over by the way her husband begins to take an interest in what is going on downtown in the evening after supper.—Galveston News.

YOUR BURDENS.

No man ever sank under the burden of today. It is when tomorrow's burden is added to today's that the weight is more than a man can bear.—George Macdonald.

Good Luck.

"Tommy," said his brother, "you're a regular little glutton. How can you eat so much?" "Don't know. It's just good luck." replied the youngster.—Christian Intelligencer.

HELPING ANOTHER.

As the morning sun brushes the darkness from the world, grant us today to brush aside the shadows from some unhappy heart.—Robert Louis Stevenson.
