LOGIC IS LOGIC

There is a touch of pathos in Gov. Hadley's spurred and even unanswered advice to the Colonel, in which he pointed out the reactionary results to follow a large "progressive" defection from the Republican party in Missouri. The Governor, for the first time, seems to have caught a glimpse of the truth that Roosevelt "Progressiveism" spells reaction to Bourbonism. Referring to recent Republican victory in the state he writes: "Since that time the state government has been in control of the Republican party, and no one can successfully claim that it has not been clean, efficient and progressive in the conduct of state affairs. On the other hand the Democratic party in this state, with the exception of the faction which supported Mr. Folk, now almost a negligible quantity, has stood and now stands, for nothing except machine politics, reactionary policies and alliance with special-interests." "These voters," he writes, referring to Progressives who shrink from Bourbon restoration, "realize what a step backward it would be in the Democratic party, with its present candidates for state officers, should be successful. What attitude they will assume if they feel that the action of the Progressive State Convention has insured Democratic success you can judge as well as I." The Governor then pleads with the third-term candidate for the presidency to exert an influence with the Bull Moose convention for the abandonment of the Bull Moose State Ticket and the union of all Republicans in support of the candidates nominated in the state convention.

FORUM OF THE PEOPLE

DR. FORD ASKED QUESTIONS. OREGON CITY, Sept. 17.—(Editor of the Enterprise).—I see some things in print nowadays that cause me to smile. One of the most smilable of smiles was caused by D. Ford's open letter to Judge McGinn. Dr. Ford was the man that said at the Bull Moose meeting at Willamette Hall, "This is no time to be on the fence, if you are a Moose. I am a 'Prohi'. If I was not I would be a Moose." Now Dr. Ford attended the Clackamas County "Prohi" Convention Saturday. I suppose that when he read Judge McGinn's Scriptural passage both together was too much for him, hence the shout. But Doctor, if you were as well acquainted as some people with lawyers you would know they quote Scripture when they have a bad case but the quotation is good whether it is applicable to T. R. or not. Now what has Teddy done? Why, bless your life, the only thing that he has ever done to my knowledge of any good is the attempted annihilation of the Republican party for selfish motives. Why, if he had been a true Progressive, he would have worked for La Follette, one of the greatest Progressives of the age. Another, he busted the trusts to the tune of 149 when he went into office and there were 1020 when he went out. The first year he went into office there was excess of revenue over expenses of $90,000,000 and at the end of seven years he left a deficit of $38,000,000 and an increase of government expenses of $190,000,000 per year over his predecessors. W. W. MYERS.

PORTLAND EASILY DEFEATS ANGELS

PORTLAND, Sept. 17. (Special)—Portland beat the Angels today, 5 to 2, Klavitter being in good form. Hala was hit hard, the home team making 3 scores in the fifth. The results Tuesday follow: At Portland—Portland 5, Los Angeles 2. At Los Angeles—Vernon 6, Oakland 2. At San Francisco—Sacramento 2, San Francisco 0.

Mantague & O'Reilly Co.; Reed, Ed.; Smith, James E.; Smith, Louie; Trekan, John K.; Young, J. H.

Sues for $718.18. The Portland Wood Pipe Company has filed suit against J. I. Johnson for $718.18, alleged to be due for merchandise delivered September 21, 1911.

BOURNE VICTIM OF BULL MOOSE

Kennedy, Portland. Oregon Dairy and Food Commissioner—John D. Mickle, Washington County. Representative in Congress (First District)—John W. Campbell, Roseburg. Representative in Congress (Third District)—To be selected by convention to be held in Portland. Railroad Commissioner (Second District)—Robert Service, Baker. The convention split wide open shortly after perfecting permanent organization over the question of putting a state ticket in the field and the fight waged hot around the question for nearly an hour. The committee on resolutions, State Senator Joseph, of Multnomah; J. W. Campbell, of Roseburg; J. Frank Burke, of Portland; Bruce Dennis, of La Grande, and Will H. Evans, of Salem, failed to be a unit on the state ticket question. A majority report came in early concurred in by four members of the committee, resolving that the convention should name five Presidential electors and nominate candidates for United States Senator and Congressmen. Bruce Dennis, of La Grande, championed a minority report declaring that the primary law be taken as a guide and director and urging that the convention not deem it wise to put a state ticket in the field. This minority report was overwhelmingly defeated after some heated debate. J. Frank Burke, of Portland, put in an amendment to the majority report resolving for a full state ticket. This had the qualification that all of the men nominated be known to be affiliated with the Roosevelt Progressive party by their own declarations. This added phrase "by their own declarations" was swallowed by members of the convention without protest, although an effort was made to modify it somewhat by stating that such candidates could later express their desire to affiliate with the organization by their own declarations. This was hooted down by Ben Riesland as placing a premium on cowardice.

YOUR BURDENS. No man ever sank under the burden of today. It is when tomorrow's burden is added to today's that the weight is more than a man can bear.—George Macdonald.

Bramwell Booth a Writing as Well as a Fighting Christian

LIKE his father, General William Bramwell Booth, the new head of the Salvation Army, is an author. He has published a number of religious books, including "Our Master," "Servants of All," "Books That Bless" and "Bible Battles." He is the eldest son of the late general and was born in 1856. His wife, who is in charge of the army's rescue work for women, is the daughter of a Plymouth physician. They have two sons and five daughters. The new chief is popular with the army. He has proved his gifts of organization in forming into permanent bodies the group of converts made by his father's preaching. He has made many tours in various parts of the world, inspecting the widespread branches of the army.

First Thermometer.

The first thermometer was made in 1621 by a Dutch physicist named Cornelius Van Drebbel and consisted of a tube filled with air, closed at its upper end and dipping at its other extremity, which was open, in a bottle of nitric acid diluted with water. As the temperature rose or fell the air in the tube increased or grew less in volume and consequently the liquid descended or rose. This instrument is now known as an air thermometer, but as its measurements were based on no fixed principle it was of little use.

The Justs.

Banaram of Persia bore the enviable title of the Just. The righteousness of his decisions were seldom called in question. This title has been conferred on several monarchs, among them being Casimir II. of Poland, Ferdinand I. and James II. of Aragon, Haroun-al-Raschid of "Arabian Nights" fame, Khosrow of Persia, Louis XIII. of France and Pedro I. of Portugal.

Lassa.

Lassa, which is the capital of Tibet, for generations was known as the Forbidden City because of its political and religious exclusiveness. In 1904 a British armed expedition opened the mysterious old city. Previous to that time practically every European traveler had been stopped in his efforts to reach the place. The population of Lassa is about 35,000.

A Curious Tombstone.

Upton, near Peterborough, one of the smallest parishes in England, numbering only fourteen houses, possesses a tombstone of black marble, which becomes damp in patches whenever rain is about to fall. It is regarded in the village as an infallible barometer. This tombstone is, presumably, the English equivalent to the weeping cherub at Amiens cathedral.

If you saw it in the Enterprise it's so.

LIVE WIRES TO AID APPLE GROWING

(Continued from page 1) Mr. Hedges, supplementing the remarks of Dr. Morris, declared that the conditions in Oregon City were deplorable. He said that many persons who had small orchards and cared for them suffered because neighbors did not care for their trees. He cited several instances where diseased trees in a small orchard had branches interlocking those of trees well cared for in orchards on adjoining lots. The financial condition of Oregon City was also discussed. J. E. Hedges announced that the charter provided the city could not have more than $50,000 bonded indebtedness and the limit had been reached. He said $20,000 bonds would mature next year, and that something should be Stipp suggested that the people be given an opportunity to vote for an amendment. Messrs. Stipp and Hedges were appointed a committee to appear before the City Council and urge that an amendment be voted upon at the December election. The Council probably will act at a meeting tomorrow evening. It is necessary that the preliminary steps be taken sixty days before the election.

Real Competition Between the Big Interests Will Soon End Trust Control By GEORGE W. WICKERSHAM, Attorney General of the United States

MY opinion is that the MOST SUCCESSFUL TRUST DISSOLUTION has been realized in the TOBACCO CASE. THE DIFFERENTIATION OF INTERESTS THERE IS GOING ON MORE RAPIDLY, AND THERE ARE A DOZEN FULL SIZED COMPANIES ENGAGED IN COMPETITION WITH EACH OTHER, WHICH IS ALREADY VERY MARKED. There was a group of about seven STRONG MEN in that concern, and each one of those has cast his lot with a PARTICULAR COMPANY, and each one is making EVERY EFFORT POSSIBLE to have his company the MOST SUCCESSFUL. THE OBVIOUS COMPETITION which has arisen at once has been the BUYING OF RAW MATERIAL, and I am told that they had more REAL COMPETITION in the PURCHASE OF TOBACCO LEAF in Kentucky this last season than they had known there in YEARS. The competition in RETAIL PRICES is beginning to have its EFFECT. EACH COMPANY IS ENDEAVORING TO PUSH AHEAD OF THE OTHERS. EACH CONCERN HAS ITS COMPLETE ORGANIZATION BY ITSELF AND WANTS TO PUSH ITSELF AHEAD AND MAKE THE BIGGEST SUCCESS, INSTEAD OF ALL BEING IN ONE POT NOW THERE ARE THESE DIFFERENT CONCERNS.
