Sweet simplicity is the keynote of this charming little evening gown of corn-colored silk and cream lace. The high waist line is girdled with folds of the silk and above this is a wide flat band of the lace encircling the bust. Bretelles of the crushed silk cross the shoulders and the neck is partially filled with the lace. A short sleeve of the lace hangs unconfined to the elbow. In the skirt we have the modified panner and separate length of the girdle hangs from the left side and is caught under the fullness of the panner and again is allowed to escape, falling to the hem of the skirt.

REV. EDWARDS TO HAVE BIBLE STUDY TONIGHT

(By Rev. G. N. Edwards)
There are many people who cannot understand their Bibles; although they are written in plain English. They seem to think the Ten Commandments ought to be on every page and have not learned the difference between poetry and prose. Some of the greatest of the world's literature is bound up between the two covers of the Old Book and it needs some literary sense to discover it. Nobody has ever felt the power of a great oration by reading a brief extract nor seen the beauty of a poem by a mere glance at its first line. The literary perfection of the Bible has preserved its message and one reason it is quoted is because it was written so supremely well. It is worth while therefore to stop long enough to discover what kind of literature you are reading when you strike into your Bible. One of the most valuable discoveries of recent times is that the old writings came from the hands of masters of the human art of expression who move the heart with both truth and beauty. The literary form has recently been restored and new light has been shed upon the characters portrayed both in poetry and history. The appreciation of this Book is essential to a man's education.

The Bible Class at the Congregational church tonight will take a look at the "Bible as Literature" and it will be a good time for anyone who wants to understand his Bible better to be present.

DESTROYING GRASSHOPPERS

Reply to Jacob Mathiason, Walnut Grove, Minn. "Please send me by mail directions for killing grasshoppers."

Before attempting to give a remedy for the grasshopper plague, a few words in regard to its early stages of growth will not be out of place. In order for the grasshopper to multiply to any extent, the soil in which the eggs are laid must be undisturbed and there must be an abundance of food available. The most favorable condition for grasshopper development seems to be found in the alfalfa sections of the west. Where it is possible, one of the best preventive measures is to cultivate the ground. The soil need not be disturbed below the first two inches of surface, for most of the eggs are deposited very shallow. We fully realize that in many cases this cannot be done so as to completely destroy the grasshopper, but where it is possible to plow and cultivate in the fall, the number can be greatly decreased.

There are two ways of destroying the adult or grown grasshopper. One is by the use of the hopper dozer. Various forms are in use, but one that has given very good satisfaction can be built of sheet iron, ten or twelve feet long, and about twenty-six inches wide, with a board across the back, against which the grasshoppers will fly and then fall into the bottom of the hopper dozer. The bottom of the hopper dozer should be made water tight, so that a quantity of water may be poured into it, also a small quantity of kerosene. The hopper dozer should be mounted on low skids or small wheels and drawn by one or more horses. The grasshoppers will be collected in the hopper dozer and killed by coming in contact with the kerosene. This whole structure is rather inexpensive and has proved a very good method of destroying the grasshopper.

The bureau of entomology of the United States Department of Agriculture has recommended a poisoned bait, which is known as the "criddle mixture," and has given very good results in some sections. The mixture is made as follows:

One-half barrel fresh horse droppings, in which is mixed one pound each of salt and paris green. If the droppings are not fresh, the salt is dissolved in water and mixed with the manure and poison.

Then this mixture is scattered freely about, where the grasshoppers are abundant. Dr. Fletcher, entomologist for the Dominion of Canada, cites an instance where this poison mixture was scattered around a portion of the field, with the result that this portion stayed green while the grasshoppers seriously injured other parts of the same field. The criddle mixture has been preferred to other brands of poison because its effect on other forms of animal life is not so serious.

Before the frost is the time to prepare for next year's crop by selecting seed corn in the field.

MINUET CLUB HAS DELIGHTFUL DANCE

A delightful dance was given at Busch's Hall Tuesday evening by the Minuet Club. The dance was the first one of the season to be given by the club, which was one of the leading organizations of the city last winter. O. D. Eby and John Clark were members of a committee which saw that all present had a good time. Fox's orchestra of ten pieces, of Portland, furnished delightful music for dancing. Delicious refreshments were served and the hall was beautifully decorated with fir, asparagus ferns and potted plants. The club will give a series of balls this Fall and during the coming Winter and Spring. About forty couples attended the dance Wednesday evening.

"NERVE" VANISHING, DENTIST IS "PULLED"

J. Duke, a dentist, alleged to be insane, was taken into custody by Sheriff Mass Tuesday night at the home of L. Hartke, in Mount Pleasant. Duke called at the Hartke home late, and asked to be protected from two men, who he said, were after him. He said that the men had chased him several miles and had fired several shots. Mr. Hartke, thinking the man was insane, telephoned to Sheriff Mass, who hastened in an automobile to Mount Pleasant. The man told the sheriff he wished to be looked up for fear his enemies might find him. He appeared sane Wednesday and County Judge Beattie ordered his release. Sheriff Mass saw the man board a car for Portland. Later Mrs. Duke informed the sheriff that her husband had been acting queerly for several days and had left home quietly without any apparent reason. She denied a story which he told the sheriff that there had been family trouble.
