BEN SELLING'S RECORD PROGRESSIVE

While a Legislator Aided in Placing Upon Statute Books Many Popular Measures.

Referring to his record as a progressive, Ben Selling, progressive Republican nominee for United States Senator, in a recent interview, said: "I am proud to say that as a Republican I have been in the Oregon Legislature on and off for about 16 years. During that time it was my pleasure and duty to aid in originating and writing upon the statute books of this state such progressive measures as the Australian ballot law, the initiative and referendum, recall, the Presidential preference primary law and many other reform measures which have given to the people their rights. These measures have taken Oregon from under machine control and placed the nominating machinery in the hands of the people where it belongs. Bear in mind I have been at this work for 16 years, laboring consistently for everything that would bring about the present Oregon system. This being true and a matter of record, my contention is that myself and others who worked with me, are the true progressives in Oregon. "The people of Oregon do not have to guess as to my progressive work. It is an open book. It is recorded on the statute books of this state. Judge your progressive candidates by what they have done, by their records as progressives, and I shall be perfectly satisfied with the verdict expressed by the people next November."

"PLAYING THE GAME."

Truly, President Taft Does Not Follow System Politically.

That is a criticism often heard of President Taft. It is the professional politician usually who voices it, but often it is repeated by those who are accustomed to take their estimates of public men and their political opinions from others.

Playing the game has been the occupation of time serving politicians from time immemorial. Men who regard politics as a game like to see it played deftly. Other men without fixed ideas on the subject parrot the criticism passed by the experts.

Playing the game in politics necessarily has deceit as its fundamental principle.

The public man who sees developing an issue that might prove embarrassing to him personally, and who manages, by guile, to divert public attention to another, a lesser, but a perfectly safe, issue, plays the game.

The public man who makes promises, protestsations of his emnity toward swollen wealth and then holds secret conferences with the representatives of that wealth, plays the game.

The public man who preaches one code of political morality and practices another plays the game.

The public man who utters sounding but empty phrases, no matter how delightful his diction or how superb his eloquence, plays the game.

The public man who makes promises impossible of fulfillment plays the game.

The public man who puts the acquiescence of public favor above ideals of public service plays the game.

Truly, President Taft does not know how to play the game.

He has been reared in an atmosphere of service rather than politics, as we have come to know politics. The thing that has always concerned him is the doing of an act, not the spectacular staging of it, nor the exploitation of it, nor, on the contrary, the concealment of it.

To serve has always been his ideal, not merely to acquire the appearance of serving.

It has been impossible for him to look upon public service as a game. The public's business, as he regards it, is serious business.

There is reason for the belief that the American people as a whole share with him this view. The growing intelligence of the nation is rejecting the idea that the selection of their public servants is merely a sporting proposition.

This Was In 1806.

Says the London Times of May, 1806: "A decently dressed woman was last night brought out into Smithfield for sale, but the brutal conduct of the bidders induced the man who was or pretended to be her husband to refuse to sell her, on which a scene of riot and confusion highly disgraceful to our police took place."

ARIZONA DEMAND FOR SPUDS SMALL

A few carloads of potatoes are being shipped from Oregon to Arizona, but the business has scarcely started. Prices continue very low and this together with the unsatisfactory demand as well as the fear of quality, has given the trade a very quiet appearance.

For a few carloads that are being sent forward, dealers here are paying 50c per cental, f. o. b. country shipping points. They say they are able to get more than they need at this figure.

Advices from the country state that the blight is even more severe than had been anticipated. Most of the late potatoes are said to be affected, although only in isolated instances have the early growths been touched.

Owing to the blight, it is not expected that there will be any material increase in the outside business, and even local handlers are not inclined to stock up just now. In about a month it will be easy to see what stock is affected and then sorting can proceed. Blighted potatoes generally rot within 80 days.

SOME MANAGERS ARE NEVER SATISFIED WITH PITCHERS.

Bill Carey, part owner of the Connecticut league, tells one. Recently a manager of one of the clubs in a semipro league came to him in search of a good pitcher. "What's the matter with your present pitcher?" asked Mr. Carey. "Hasn't he won every game this season for you?" "Yes," replied the manager, "but just week he won by only one run." It got a little too close for comfort for the semipro's manager.

FANS STILL TALKING OF REGENT PITCHING DUEL BETWEEN WOOD AND JOHNSON.

Baseball fans are still talking about the great game between the Boston and Washington teams at Fenway park, Boston, Sept. 6, which the former team won by a score of 1 to 0. It was one of the greatest fights that has ever taken place in baseball.

No one who saw it will ever forget it, and they never expect to see such another. All the circumstances leading up to it and attending it throughout will never come in combination again.

There is no analysis by which one can reach the conclusion that he was quite as good a man as Wood was on the day mentioned.

A review of the accompanying data will give one an idea of how evenly the two men worked:

Wood threw the ball just 121 times in nine innings, serving it to the batsmen 108 times and throwing it to bases 13 times. Johnson, on account of Boston not going to bat in the ninth, threw the ball but 103 times in eight innings, serving it to the batsmen 98 times and throwing it to the bases 5 times.

Wood's greater number of throws to bases were piled up in the first inning, when he was trying to get Milan at first, which station the Senator had reached by cracking out a single. Wood did not propose to take any chances with Milan. He holds the record for stolen bases in the league, so Joe made him stick close to first and several times came near nipping him. Milan was finally forced at second.

Just before the game President James A. McAleer said to some persons in the grand stand: "It is going to be a great fight between two great pitchers. I wish the score might be 1 to 0 and that we might make the 1." He surely got his wish.

LIME FOR SOILS

Crop Growth Indicative of Condition of the Soil—Lime is important for Growing Leguminous Crops—Manure Spreader May Be Used for Applying Lime

Mr. O. C. Rostel, Marble, Washington, writes as follows: "Please let me know if our mountains of lime rock here in Stevens county could be utilized for commercial fertilizer by grinding it fine without first burning."

Unburned but finely ground limestone is best for correcting soil acidity. The use of lime on soils is beneficial in places where calcium is deficient. Some crops require more calcium than others. This is especially true of clovers, alfalfa, and other leguminous crops.

Whether the soil requires calcium depends upon its condition, and this can be determined by one of two methods—either by a close examination of the plant growth or by the use of litmus paper. If you find horse or sorrel grass in large quantities it indicates that your soil requires calcium; also, if clovers do not grow well that is an indication that calcium is lacking.

By the use of litmus papers, which may be purchased at almost any drug store, you will be able to determine whether your soil is acid. Take a small quantity of moist soil and press it around the paper for ten or fifteen minutes. If the blue paper is turned to a pinkish or reddish color, it will indicate that your soil is acid and an application of lime will be beneficial.

There are several (at least ten) forms of commercial lime on the market. The best form to use is finely ground limestone. First, because it is cheap, and, second, the effect on the humus is not so serious as with other forms of lime—especially caustic or quick lime. The action of finely

London's Famous Bow Bells.

Bow bells, the peal of bells belonging to the Church of St. Mary-le-Bow, Cheapside, London, number twelve, not ten, as reference works state, and are rung officially by the Ancient Society of College Youths, founded about 1637, who are probably the oldest guild of bellringers in Europe. The College Youths, some of whom are promising lads of fourscore, have never rung a complete peal on Bow bells, because with twelve bells there are 479,001,600 possible changes and to ring these would take nearly thirty-eight years. Their peal on twelve bells—technically called a "maximus"—is thus never more than a fraction of what it might be.—London Family Herald.

Hia Remedy.

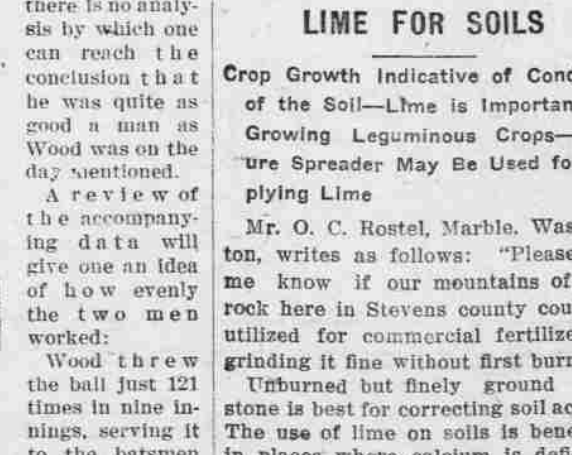

The Wagnerian tenor was in the middle of a lengthy aria of "Tristan und Isolde," and no sign of a letup was in sight.

"I wish this was a ball game," whispered the young man to his fair partner.

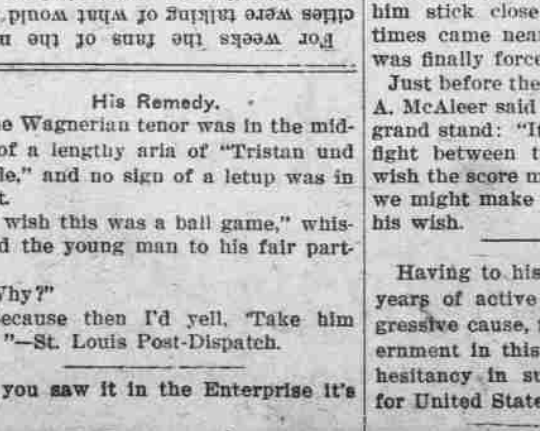

"Why?"

"Because then I'd yell, 'Take him out.'"—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.
