Mr. Bryan's nominee also takes the ground that New York is the enemy's country.

Prof. Wilson also assumes that he is bigger than his party. This is a good year to teach egotists a sound American lesson.

It is announced that Mr. Bryan will confine his speeches during the next two weeks to five far western states. The point seems to be that he might be a party disadvantage in other sections.

Bumper crops and unprecedented prosperity are the rule this year. The condition is quite different from that inherited by the Republican party from the last Cleveland administration.

On the subject of New England, Democratic campaign managers are now apologetic instead of exuberant.

Thirteen is Prof. Wilson's favorite number, but he is superstitious on the subject of persons named Smith or Murphy.

SINGLE TAX IS OPPOSED

Selling Against Any Measure Doin' Away With Individual Ownership

Of course, Ben Selling, progressive Republican nominee for United States Senator, is being opposed by W. S. U'Ren, A. D. Cridge, H. D. Wagoner and other advocates of single tax. But the real reason is not difficult to ascertain. In the primary campaign Mr. Selling came out fearlessly against Mr. U'Ren's pet tax measure. What is more, Mr. Selling is still against single tax and any other measure that proposes to do away with the right of individual ownership of land. Mr. Selling announced his unqualified opposition to single tax at the beginning of the primary campaign. His opponents in that contest remained silent on this question. His opponents in the pending campaign are equally silent. The voters of the state have a right to know where candidates for United States Senator stand on this issue which so vitally concerns the homeowner. Are Mr. Selling's opponents afraid to take the people into their confidence?

FINAL TRIBUTE IS PAID MRS. MILEM

More than fifty persons gathered at the Stafford cemetery Thursday afternoon to witness the impressive funeral services conducted by the Oswego Grange, 175, over the body of Mrs. Pernella Milem, who died Tuesday morning at the Sellwood Hospital. Mrs. Milem was a sister of Judge Gordon E. Hayes of this city. She had been ill for about three months. Mrs. Milem was born about seven miles west of Oregon City in 1854, being a member of one of the honored pioneer families. After funeral services were held at the home of her husband, C. Milem, the body, followed by the relatives and many friends was taken to Stafford, where the members of the Oswego grange of which she was a member, were assembled. Many members of Winona grange, 271, as well as members of other granges were present. She was well known throughout the county, having been reared on the homestead in the Stafford country. Mayor Dimick and Hon. H. E. Cross, represented the bar of Oregon City, and Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Dunn, Mrs. Grant B. Dimick and J. D. Olson attended from this city. Mrs. Milem is survived by her father, who lives in Portland; her husband, C. Milem, of Mount Tabor; a son, Eliza Milem, of Mount Tabor; a brother, Gordon E. Hayes, of this city, and a sister, Mrs. Fannie L. Shipley, of Portland.

FEEDING CORN FODDER

Experiments Show that Corn Stover Is Valuable in Beef Production—Corn Stover Is One of the Many By-Products of the Farm. (By J. E. Waggoner of the I H C Service Bureau)

Profit is a stimulus which causes men to engage in some one or more of the many phases of business. It may be commerce, the industries, banking, farming or some other activity, yet when all is said, the profit from that particular line of work is usually the attractive feature. Competition has become so strong that profit in many undertakings is made only by practicing the strictest principles of economy and exercising unusual care in looking after the small things and what might be termed "by-products." For instance, one of the sources of the banker's income is the small increase in the rate of interest on money loaned over what it cost him. The same is true of the farmer. The increase in the value of land has necessitated putting farming on more of a business basis in order to realize a profit on the investment.

Much has been said and written regarding saving and utilizing the waste products of the farm, and it is encouraging to note that more farmers are making better use of all the products of their farms than ever before. One of the most serious wastes has been the neglect to save and utilize the entire corn crop. The principal market demand has been for the grain. This, combined with an abundance of hay, has not been conducive to the use of corn fodder as a rough forage. Conditions have changed the past few years; among other things, hay has advanced in price to such an extent that it is only good business practice for a farmer to supply his rough forage in the form of corn fodder and put his hay on the market.

Every grower of an acre of corn should know the feeding value of the entire crop. It is quite generally known what returns can be expected from the grain, but few farmers know the feeding value of the corn stover (stalks without the ears). Reports from the Nebraska Experiment Station on experiments made comparing combinations of shelled corn, snapped corn, alfalfa and corn stover show that when stover is used as half forage on two-year-old steers from 40 to 45 cents per hundred. The stover was found to be actually worth $3.55 per ton as compared with alfalfa fed alone at $6.00 per ton. The farm value of alfalfa and other hay crops reached a mark of more than twice this amount the past year, thus increasing the value of corn stover from $8.00 to $12.60 per ton.

With these figures before us, it is plain to see that the corn belt farmer is neglecting one of his important sources of income by letting his corn stalks stand in the field. Considering the small yield of only one ton of stover to the acre, the returns of the American farmer would have been increased millions of dollars last year if this what might be called by-product had been saved. Coming back to the individual farmer, he would have realized his proportion of this profit. During this summer is the time to plan on cutting the corn for fodder, to fall and utilizing to the best advantage the entire corn crop. We find that the Nebraska bulletin No. 100 says: "By feeding corn fodder, we utilize the stalk and yet are put to no extra labor husking it. In fact, corn can be cut with a harvester and put in the shock cheaper than it can be picked and cribbed, inasmuch as three men with a team and harvester can cut and shock seven acres per day. Records from the farm department of this experiment station show that it costs $1.18 per acre to cut and shock corn, which figure does not allow for the wear and tear on the machine. Three cents per bushel should cover the cost of harvesting corn with a machine and putting it in the shocks."

The logical way of saving the corn crop is to shred the fodder. Extensive experiments at the Wisconsin Experiment station show that about 24 per cent of the feeding value of fodder is lost if left exposed to the elements. By shredding and storing, this loss will be prevented. The fodder is also in a much more convenient form for handling, and is relished more by the stock. Shredded fodder does not occupy as much room for storing as the unshredded, and the stable manure is much easier handled. In summing up the results of various feeding experiments with corn in all forms it is found that the best way to utilize the corn crop is to save the stalks either in the form of ensilage or shredded fodder. The records of the Nebraska Experiment Station dispel any doubt as to the economy of harvesting corn by the use of the corn binder as compared with husking the standing corn in the field. Under the latter condition the stalks would be lost. The value of the stalks as a rough feed, considering hay at the

New Carnegie "Peace Palace" Erected In the Dutch Capital

THE "Peace palace" at The Hague—to use the popular name for the building which will house the permanent court of international arbitration—is now nearing completion. It is the gift of that cheery multimillionaire Andrew Carnegie, who has shown his faith in the ultimate triumph of reason over force by his establishment of the $10,000,000 peace fund which bears his name. Besides that colossal gift, the million or more which he has spent upon the splendid new building in the Dutch capital is a relatively small expenditure, but besides serving the practical purpose for which it was designed the building will be a symbol of the aspirations for universal peace entertained by Mr. Carnegie and his coworkers throughout the world. In case the Panama canal question should be submitted to arbitration the "palace" will probably be the scene of the deliberations of the arbiters.

present price, is at least $8.00 per ton. An ordinary yield of corn will produce two or three tons of stover to the acre. Compare this value with the price of fifty cents per acre, which is usually paid for stalks standing in the field. When corn is fed as shredded fodder, the loss of stock due to constant disease is entirely prevented. Every farmer that has stock to feed should plan to supply the most of his roughage in the form of shredded corn fodder, thus utilizing in the best possible way his entire corn crop.

Forty per cent of the feeding value of the corn crop is found in the stalk.

SELLING WARMLY RECEIVED

Met With Much Encouragement on Recent Trip Through Oregon

During the last ten days, Ben Selling, progressive Republican nominee for United States Senator, has visited Southwestern Oregon and various counties in Eastern Oregon. On these trips he met with much encouragement in his candidacy for the Senatorship. On these trips Mr. Selling did not essay any spell-binding oratory, but plainly told the voters what they could expect of him as a public servant if elected. He refers to his past performances as a consistent progressive as a guarantee that he will "make good" on all promises as United States Senator. Judge Stephen A. Lowell, one of Mr. Selling's opponents for the nomination in the primary election, is loyally supporting the Republican nominee. Judge Lowell accompanied Mr. Selling through some sections of Eastern Oregon and expects during the month of October to visit several other counties in behalf of Mr. Selling's candidacy.

Old World Is Doomed to Destruction by Volcanic Action

By Dr. MILTON A. NOBLES, Student of Earthquakes and Volcanoes

CONTINENTS no less than human beings have their periods of life and death. A death is the outcome of the physical process of animals, so the destruction of a continent is the result of its OWN VOLCANIC ACTIVITY. Given, through ages of volcanic activity, the honeycombing of the earth's crust, the formation of molten minerals must find its way, the lighter to the surface by eruptive processes, the heavier and more valuable to the lowest caverns. With thousands of feet of material superimposed above the rich deposits and with the surface impoverished by thousands of years of cultivation, it is incumbent upon nature to REJUVENATE THE SOIL AND SO REMOVE THE OVERBURDEN THAT THE RICH STORES OF MINERAL WILL BE AVAILABLE TO MANKIND. For this process the destruction of the area by volcanic explosions is not only essential, but has been duly provided for. FOR TWO CENTURIES NATURE HAS BEEN PREPARING HUMAN BEINGS FOR THE CATAclysm WHICH ATTENDS THE DEATH OF THE OLD WORLD AND ULTIMATE BIRTH OF CONTINENTS WHICH SHALL MAKE OUR WESTERN HEMISPHERE IN TURN THE OLD WORLD. THIS WORK HAS BEEN PERFORMED BY THE EMIGRATION WHICH IS DEPOPULATING ITALY, LITHUANIA, SLAVONIA, POLAND AND OTHER PORTIONS OF THE OLD WORLD.
