10 PER CENT OF SPUDS INJURED BY BLIGHT

Not more than 10 per cent of the potatoes of the Willamette valley are affected by blight. This is the opinion of those who have given the matter considerable thought recently.

While in certain places the damage is very heavy, and in some instances total loss of the crop has been shown, the average is far less than had been anticipated.

The damage seems to have run in streaks. As a rule no loss is shown south of Clackamas county, while the greatest loss is in coast sections where the ground has been kept cold all summer.

Entire fields have been destroyed in Clackamas, Washington, Multnomah, Columbia and Clatsop counties, but in Marion and further south the loss is not enough to consider. So far as eastern and central Oregon are concerned, no damage was shown during the year. The acreage in both sections is increased almost beyond belief, therefore if every potato planted western Oregon this season was destroyed the state would still have about a third more stock than ever before in its history. The fact that western Oregon potatoes were not damaged more than 10 per cent adds that much more to the total production of the state.

There is practically nothing doing in the potato market at this time. Dealers are scared about the blight, but according to the leading interests the situation in that regard is less damaging than expected.

Prevailing Oregon City prices are as follows:

YOU GET WHAT YOU GIVE
Man is the artificer of his own happiness. Let him beware how he complains of the disposition of circumstances, for it is his own disposition he blames. If this is sour, or that rough, or the other steep, let him think if it is not his work. If his looks curdle all hearts, let him not complain of a sour reception. If he hobbles in his gait, let him not grumble at the roughness of the way. If he is weak in the knees, let him not call the hill steep.—
