WILSON'S RECORD.

Woodrow Wilson's record as governor of New Jersey is being laid before the American people with great disadvantage to the Democratic candidate for president. For instance, during the session of the legislature of New Jersey in 1911 two bills were passed which the people of New Jersey had long desired and greatly needed, namely a railway crossing measure and a bill to promote the building of a railway tunnel between Philadelphia and Camden. Both bills were vigorously opposed by the railway corporations and Governor Wilson vetoed them both, giving many excuses therefor, but no just reasons. Both bills were passed over the vetoes, but the railway crossing bill has been killed through legal technicalities and the people will thus be deprived indefinitely of the relief for which they have prayed for a generation—thanks to Governor Wilson's friendship for the great corporations of that long suffering state.

QUITS CORN FOR COLLEGE.

Old Illinois Star Will Try For Football Team. Harvey Sones, considered by Huff, the coach as the greatest halfback that ever played at the University of Illinois, has quit the Agricultural college this fall and it is said that he will try to make the football team. He is said to be a fine if he desires to become a candidate. Since leaving college more than twenty years ago he has accepted his farm, near Skidoo, Ill. and came into fame by producing choice corn. Sones is now thirty five years old, weighs 200 pounds and has a family. Students at the university are enthusiastic over his decision to re-enter the college, and they are hoping he can "come back" as a football star.

Wonderful Descent.

"Ever hear Wallaby tell about his remarkable descent?" "Descended from a hundred ears, I suppose?" "Naw; volplaned down 400 feet in a monoplane."—Washington Herald.

A Pointer.

Two thieves were breaking into a door when the master of the house, hearing them, looked out of the window and said: "Friends, come a little later. We are not yet in bed."—"Humor of Spain."

Broken English.

Teacher—What are the parts of a pin? Tommy Tucker—"It's—It's when a pin stings."—Chicago Tribune.

Oct. 17 in American History.

- 1711—The general court of Massachusetts unanimously reversed the attainder of all executed for witchcraft nineteen years before, declared it a vile delusion and ordered an indemnity paid to the surviving sufferers. 1777—Surrender of General Burgoyne's army (British) to General Horatio Gates (Colonel) at Saratoga. Gates took 5,782 prisoners, including six members of the British parliament. 1808—United States troops took formal possession of Porto Rico. 1910—Julia Ward Howe, author of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," died; born 1819. 1911—R. K. Munkittrick, humorous poet, died; born 1852.

We Are Just Entering a New Era of Prosperity. By JAMES M'CREA. President of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

THE PULSE OF THE WHOLE COUNTRY IS BEATING TO THE RHYTHM OF HAPPIER TIMES, AND WE ARE JUST ENTERING A NEW ERA OF PROSPERITY. If there are storage facilities in their own bins or in their local elevators for the bounteous crops—and I think there are this year—another factor in car shortage is removed. Another important factor is the CO-OPERATION OF SHIPPERS AND CONSIGNEES. The one can help by loading promptly and the other by unloading promptly. However, regardless of any car shortage, OUR NATIONAL PROSPERITY IS ON THE BOOM and, in my opinion, will continue for a long period.

FORUM OF THE PEOPLE

PLEA FOR SUFFRAGE.

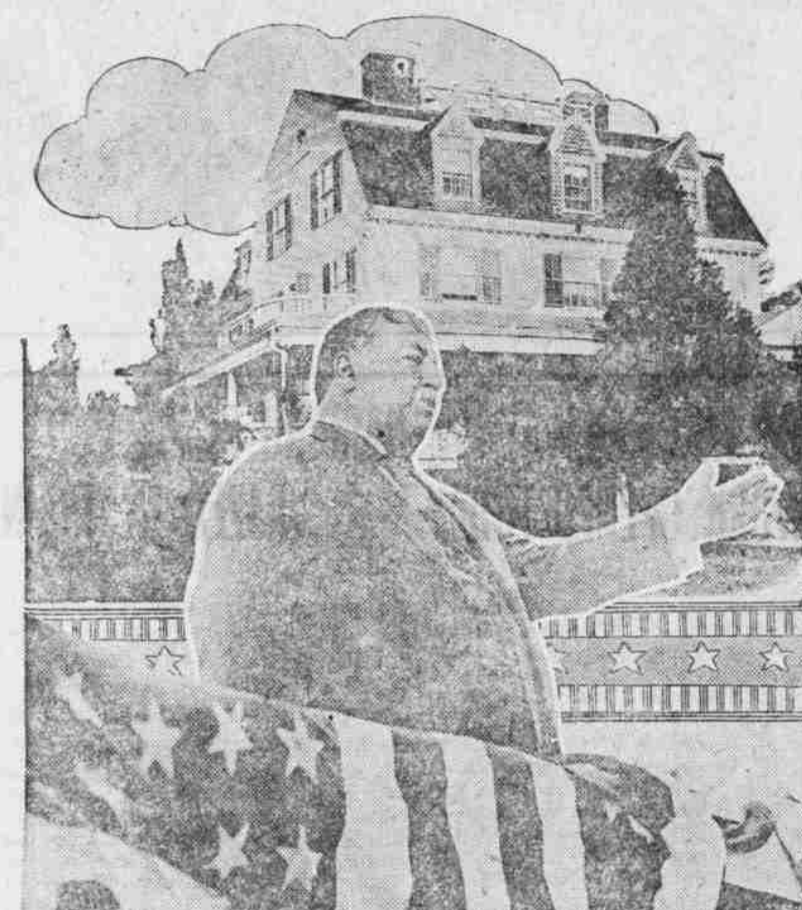

OREGON CITY, Oct. 15.—(Oregon City Enterprise)—You voters may not know it, but eight million women are casting their own living in the United States today, doing work which for them is quite as hard as your work is for you. A very large percentage of them are supporting families and paying taxes; they are governed by the same laws which govern you and stand shoulder to shoulder with you six days in the week. Do you consider that this makes them any less womanly? Then don't you think we should be able to ward off your influence—we have your word for it that it is not a proper influence—long enough to vote with you once in a year or two? These eight million women are perfectly willing to "remain in the home" where you say they belong, but since they are unfortunately compelled to get out into the world every day to earn their own bread and butter, they feel that they should have something to say about their conditions and surroundings while at work. If for no other reason than that they are going to be mothers of a large percentage of the next generation of voters, they should have a chance for health and well-being. The fact that an army of women and children are working in sweat shops and fire traps has not seemed to worry the voter much except when a wholesale cremation of factory girls or some such incident has for the moment aroused his pity. But women, themselves, do not enjoy it, and they feel that they should be given a chance to better their condition. Personally, I should dislike a heap worse to be one who takes the responsibility of rearing such a request than to be one of those who make it; shouldn't you? BARNESTINE SINGER.

Heart to Heart Talks. By EDWIN A. NYE.

PENSION THE MOTHERS!

One of the prettiest pictures I have seen is that of Mrs. Anne Sipes and her happy family of seven children, the oldest only ten. The newspaper picture shows jolly, hearty Mrs. Sipes at the head of her family cutting generous slices of bread for the healthy young kids. And there is more than bread on the table. The husband was killed in an accident, and Mrs. Sipes receives a mother's pension of $7 per month for each child. Who pays it? The people of the county, Ill. Under the new Illinois law the county does not break up such a family, sending the children to some institution, but pays the mother to keep the family together. Every state should copy that law. Under the old system families like that of Mrs. Sipes are ruined and the children are sent to county or state institutions, where the children are stamped with an influence that deprives them of self respect, character, enterprise and loyalty to the family. Knowing no home and no family, they can have no love for them. The four young men recently hanged in Chicago were raised in charitable institutions. The homeless child usually passes on to the reformatory—and the jail. And the mother? Say the husband is killed by one of those accidents so frequent in our industrial life or she dies in the death throes of a disease nearly to death trying to keep her brood of children. One day she falls on the rent and the landlord orders her out. What happens? Some society or the policeman hauls her into court, and the children are sent to different institutions, where she may never see them again. The home is broken and the mother heart-broken. It is an infamous system. Every child has the right to the love and care of its mother, if the mother is worthy, and the memory of the mother's companionship and affection is the child's dearest heritage. In a thousand places a thousand tragedies are enacted because of this system. Mothers walk lonely streets and, like Rachel, call for their children, and thousands of children cry out their hearts for their mothers. And think of it! Henry Hall, father of the new law says the rest of the mother plan is only half as much as the expense to the state plan. Why not everywhere pension Mrs. Sipes instead of employing a policeman to do her work? invisible ink. Fresh milk may be used as "invisible ink." To make it visible scatter coal dust on the writing.

President Taft In Action And His Summer Residence

Photos by American Press Association

WHILE President William Howard Taft, whom the Republican party hopes to send back to the White House, has not entered actively into the campaign, so far as "swinging around the circle" is concerned, he has managed to set forth his views on the crucial topics of the hour. He has done this in newspaper interviews and during his public appearances at various celebrations. He has remained close to his summer home at Beverly, Mass., except on such occasions as he has gone to Washington on official business or has spoken at public functions. His has been what has been called a "dignified campaign." At Beverly he has found a little rest and quiet from the activities of his office after congress had completed one of the longest sessions on record, but he has kept in touch with every move in his fight for re-election through his lieutenants on the Republican national committee, and he has announced in newspaper interviews that he is confident of serving the country for four years more.

What a Wife Needs.

She needs a good temper, a cheerful disposition and a knowledge of how her husband should be treated. She needs a capability of looking on the bright side of life and refusing to be worried by small things. She needs a secure grasp of such subjects as are of interest to men and should not be above studying even politics in order to understand should her husband speak of it. She needs a sympathetic nature in order that should sorrow fall upon them she may be able to give comfort to her husband. She needs to understand something of sick nursing. A wife with no notion of what to do in cases of illness is but a useless thing. She needs considerable tact and patience, the one to enable her to know when to remain silent, and vice versa, and the other to put up with him when his temper is ruffled.

The Length of Skirts.

Several inches longer. Always with chopped ones. Two inches and two and a half. The shoe top will now go into re-formation. Skirts may not be any wider, but they are longer, which helps some. Some folks may drop their hammers now. Usually there is another up their sleeve for the next change of fashion. Height, but bicyclists cannot be expected to neglect their jobs!

Looking Backwards.

"What," she asked with a haughty sneer, "would the garden of Eden have been without Eve?" "Well," he calmly replied, "it would probably have been quiet, for one thing."—Cause.

Milady's Mirror

The New Complexion. "What a splendid color you have!" said one of the girls who met at a fashionable soda fountain after not having seen each other for a month or so. "Have you been away on your vacation?" "Oh, no," the other replied. "I've been at home right along." "It certainly agrees with you. You're not roused?" the other asked tentatively. The second girl laughed. "For a specimen," she replied, rubbing her cheek with her handkerchief, under which the blood came mantling to the spot in a charming color. "It's all the new way I wash my face. I wash my face in ice." "Ice? You mean ice water?" the envious one said. "No, I mean ice, and I'll tell you how I do it. One reason so many of us have so color in our faces is because our circulation is bad. In spite of what the critics say, of us, women seldom do anything to bring the blood to their cheeks, so I studied out the following plan: Every morning, after I have had my morning exercise to wake me up, I take a small piece of ice and wash my face with it. I go over every spot of my face and neck with it until the piece is entirely gone. As I begin with a piece about half the size of my fist you can see I get a nice chilling. When the ice is melted I rub my face briskly with a Turkish towel until it is quite dry. "My dear, you feel fine. It is awfully cooling in the first place, and it makes you feel very lively. For a minute or two you are red, like a frost bitten apple; then that fades away into the nicest color. You see, the ice not only helps the circulation, but it acts like a tonic on the muscles and takes away that distressing sagging of the face that so many of us have." "Well," said the other girl, "I've been paying $2 a bottle for a face tonic, as it is called, and it hasn't done for me what your humble piece of ice has for you. After this I'm going to look for my cosmetic in the refrigerator."

To Whiten the Teeth.

To whiten the teeth an excellent powder is made by mixing one ounce of chloride of lime, ten ounces of prepared chalk, a half ounce of Peruvian bark and one teaspoonful of myrrh. This should be used once a day until the teeth are sufficiently white, when it is best to discontinue it for an ordinary tooth paste.

Remove Tartar.

To remove tartar, the disfiguring and obstinate yellow discoloration which forms at the base of the teeth, try dipping the brush in powdered magnesia and rubbing it up and down over the teeth as well as across. Dental floss should be drawn between the teeth at least twice a week to keep them free from food obstructions, such as bits of meat gristle or the seeds of berries.

One of the most satisfactory and beneficial mouth washes is peroxide of hydrogen. Many object to its use because of the peculiar sensation known as "splitting cotton," present only when peroxide is particularly active. To counteract this effect neutralize the wash with another made by dissolving common baking soda in water. Peroxide of hydrogen is both a deodorant and an antiseptic and is one of the indispensable remedies to be included in every medicine chest.
