"NO-BODY LOVES A BALD MAN"
Every day we see YOUNG men and women, who have grown prematurely grey. They immediately fall into the "Old Age" class, because grey hairs are so closely associated WITH OLD AGE.

It is extremely disconcerting and humiliating to be bald—to be grey when the years do not justify it. The girls laugh at the young men so married—the young man soon learns to discriminate between natural hair in its full bloom of health and NATURAL COLOR, and shabby looking grey and faded hair.

Give nature a chance. If she is encouraged, stimulated, assisted, she will give you a head of hair that you will be proud of. Give it to her. Use—

Wilson Approves Roosevelt Party

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE GIVES BOOST TO PROGRESSIVES.

Need of Present Times is "Open Road" Along Which True Government of People May Move, is Point of Speech.

Woodrow Wilson, candidate for President upon the Democratic ticket, stated common sense arguments in favor of the Third Party. In a recent speech Mr. Wilson said:

"I used to meet men who shrugged their shoulders and said 'what difference does it make how we vote? Nothing ever results from our votes.' I suppose you know the force that is behind the new party that has recently been formed—the so-called Progressive Party. It is a force of discontent with the regular parties of the United States; it is a feeling that men have gone into blind alleys, and that they now propose to find an open road for themselves."

Better argument for the Progressive Party and its need could hardly be offered. Even Senator Beveridge, who is doing all that he can to bring success to the Roosevelt banner, sets forth the same argument, only in different words. Mr. Beveridge says:

"The root of the wrongs which hurt the people is the fact that the peoples' government has been taken away from them. Their government must be given back to the people. And so the first purpose of the Progressive Party is to make sure of the rule of the people."

Many Songs for Campaign.
Something of the old-time election enthusiasm has been aroused by the Progressive Party campaign, and for the first time in many years the presidential struggle is being enlivened by the singing of the multitudes. A book of Progressive Battle Hymns has been issued by the Bull Mooseers, and these songs are features of the Bull Moose meetings everywhere. One song, "Captain of My Soul," has been adopted from Roosevelt's favorite poem—"I am the Captain of my Soul"—and is a protest against the "I am the King" hymn as opposed to old-time boss rule.

OSTEOPATHIC PRIMER.

A Fifth Cause of Disease—Placed or Displaced Organs.

To no other disease condition does the osteopath assign greater importance than to the mal position of abdominal and pelvic organs.

Displacements of the abdominal organs, as the stomach, liver, spleen and kidneys; of the pelvic organs, ovaries, uterus, rectum, are a most fruitful source of ill health.

Under disease of the pelvic organs, fall the consideration of nearly all the "Diseases of Women," the treatment of which has always offered greater opportunities for meditative surgery and temporary palliative medical treatment than all other diseases combined, simply because of failure to recognize the primary cause of these conditions.

When is a floating kidney, a displaced uterus, or hypersensitive ovaries, etc., ever a primary condition that is to say, purely a local affection? Rarely, if ever! Given any of these chronic conditions, and we will find that all the abdominal and pelvic organs are more or less flabby and weakened. Ad back of that general "atony" of structures there is more than likely some hidden osteopathic lesions depriving the diseased organs of due nerve and blood nutrition.

The patient complains of nervousness, backache, fatigue on slight exertion, disordered menstruations and similar symptoms. The ordinary diagnosis: Displaced uterus or laceration of cervix or prolapsus. Ordinary treatment: Strictly "local," antiseptic douches, pessary, dilation, curettage process perverted. The treatment is to place those organs back where they belong.

Result: Persistence of symptoms, after all treatment, even after total extirpation of organs. Why? Because if the first diagnosis had been carefully made, or if carefully made, certainly considered, it would have resulted in the knowledge that not only the uterus but the abdominal and pelvic organs were at fault, all tissues weakened and every physiological process perverted.

The patient must have her vital energies regenerated, must have the nerve force and blood supply of these parts properly regulated, and until this is done, medical and surgical treatment will ever be temporary, unsatisfactory measures.

Osteopathy accomplishes four things in these cases and common sense will teach that they are necessary before health can be expected.

- 1st. It replaces, by mechanical manipulation, the displaced viscera.
- 2nd. It accelerates the blood flow passing through the organs at fault.
- 3rd. It increases the strength of the nerve force, restores tone to flabby tissues and increases the vital energies essential to health.
- 4th. It corrects abdominal variations of the skeletal structure; this list is necessary because in the majority of pelvic and abdominal displacements we find the trouble to be with the lower portion of the spinal column, or the pelvis, usually the dorsal and lumbar vertebrae are "too straight."

Has it ever occurred to you that in the spinal cord originate nerves that control these organs, and that interference with the proper distribution of nerve force by pressure always causes mischief?

In osteopathy we have the remedial agent best calculated to cure that vast number of diseases usually classified as "Diseases of women," and without subjecting the patient to the annoyances of medical treatment, or the dangers of surgical interference—Osteopathic Health.

Miss Alcott's "Little Women" Dramatized by Miss De Forest.

MISS MARIAN DE FOREST.

Miss Marian De Forest, who dramatized "Little Women," is the dramatic critic for the Buffalo Express. She has a considerable reputation as a dramatic critic, but never before tried her hand at playwriting. She is an enthusiastic lover of Miss Alcott's works, and her dramatization was made without rewording the book. Miss De Forest explains that she did not want to be tied down by incidents, as is often the case when the dramatist consults the book in conjunction with the work at hand.

An Essay on Man.
The following composition on men is credited to a little girl:

"Men are what women marry. They drink and smoke and swear, but don't go to church. Perhaps if they wore bonnets they would. They are more logical than women and also more zoological. Both men and women sprang from monkeys, but the women sprang further than the men."

Alphabet Paragraph.
In a doorway hung a position whose fat, yellow sides you noticed, viciously burned the outlines of all the letters of the alphabet with a hot poker.

While some one keeps the pumpkin rapidly twisting let all the guests take turns hurling long meat skewers at the pumpkin. Whoever succeeds in stabbing a letter may be assured that that letter will be the initial of his fate.

THE LATEST ANTISEPTIC

The common Peroxide of Hydrogen which has heretofore held an important place in the family medicine cabinet must give way to the Borated Peroxide of Hydrogen, which is a scientific combination of the highest grade of Peroxide and 5 per cent solution of Boric Acid. The combination of the two forms the most effective and pleasing Bactericide known to the medical profession and is ideal in its soothing and antiseptic qualities when used for burns, sores, boils, stings, wounds etc. Borated Peroxide is sold at Huntley Bros. Co., for the same price as common Peroxide is sold at other stores. It is advisable to always keep a bottle in the house to be used in an emergency. For sale by the Rexall Store, Huntley Bros. Co.

It isn't because the cigar is badly made that the wrapper sometimes comes unrolled. It is because the cigar is a left handed one.

Cigar makers must be ambidextrous. They cut the wrapper and leaf on the bias, rolling it from left to right on the filler, while the other piece is rolled with the left hand, from right to left.

A nervous smoker, twisting and twirling his cigar, has no trouble with a right hand one, but if it happens to be a left hand one it is apt to come undone.—New York Tribune.

If it happened it is in the Enterprize.

Club's Members to Rally Moose

VITUPERATIVE ABUSE MAKES ROOSEVELT VOTES.

Portland Businessmen Turn From Old Parties to Progressives Following Viciousness of Old Line Attack.

Two hundred members of the Portland Commercial Club, including some of the most influential businessmen in the city, have organized a Roosevelt Club of their own, and are spreading the Bull Moose gospel throughout the business world. These gentlemen were formerly of other political affiliations, but turned to the Roosevelt banner because of the great mass of abuse and vituperation that has been poured upon the Colonel by the big metropolitan papers ever since the Chicago election.

"It must be obvious to any fair-minded man," said one of these Roosevelt supporters, "that the attack upon Mr. Roosevelt is being overdone, and is inspired by his political enemies. The Senate probe into his former campaign expenses, and the senate's absolute ignoring of the campaign expenses of Mr. Taft, are enough to cause any fair person to swing his sympathies to Colonel Roosevelt. There can be too much of anything in this world, and as far as I and my friends are concerned, there has been too much of this attack on Roosevelt. It has been overdone, and because I believe it is being purposely magnified and prolonged, I am for him from now on."

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

CONTENTMENT.

This is a true tale with a moral. Will and Jenn lived in a small town. Though neither rich nor poor, they were comfortable and content. They owned a neat cottage and had a fair business. Jenn sung at her work.

Will employed one clerk. When trade was slack there were pleasures and neighborly good times. A new gown a year sufficed Jenn. Will never bought more than two suits yearly. They had a little savings account that grew.

One day city friends came. They told Will he was burying his talents; the same ability and effort would bring ten times the return.

The women filled Jenn's ears with tales of the city's pleasures. Why not live to the full?

The leaven worked. After much hesitancy Will sold his business and the cottage. They went to the city, where he engaged in his line of business. They rented a flat which cost five times the sum Will paid for the little village store. The neighbors employed a maid—some two. One must live like his neighbors.

They saw much of life—Jean did. Also Will prospered. But the expense—Jean must buy a lot of clothes. And there was the cost of entertaining. They were making more money, but where did it go?

Will consulted Jenn, but she did not know. And Will began lying awake of nights figuring how to make both ends meet. And Jenn worried.

She knew Will was troubled and he was working to the limit. She was getting most out of the new life. But what did she get? A hurried, hurried existence, dates with dressmakers, late hours, wrinkles!

She worried about Will and the ways of the maid and the expense and their future. Despite prosperity they were running behind.

You can see their finish? No, they did not go to smash—quite. One day Will said he could sell the business, pay the debts and have enough to buy back his old store. The little cottage and the little bank account had been devoured.

Jean cried. She did not want to leave the city, though she knew they had not been as happy as in the old town. But she knew it was best. So they returned to the village, where they were warmly welcomed. It was like changing a tight shoe for an old, easy one. And the moral!

Change one word of the proverb. "Better is a dinner of herbs where contentment is than a stalled ox and hatred therewith."

False Ones.
There is a false modesty, which is vanity; a false glory, which is levity; a false grandeur, which is meanness; a false virtue, which is hypocrisy, and a false wisdom, which is prudery.—Bruce.

Canal Benefits Roosevelt's Aim

COLONEL'S ELECTION ASSURES PROSPERITY IN WEST.

Progressive Party Sentiment on Pacific Coast Largely Based Upon Desire of People to See First Ideals Win.

One of the main reasons why Roosevelt sentiment is so pronounced in the Northwest, and particularly in Oregon, is because the people of this section realize that Colonel Roosevelt was the man who made possible the building of the Panama canal, and all that this means to the Pacific Slope states. It was due to the indomitable perseverance of Mr. Roosevelt that the United States acquired the Canal Zone, and it was likewise due to his energy and forceful leadership that the early progress upon the big ditch was of such a nature that the following administration was enabled to make extremely rapid headway.

If this were not alone sufficient to assure Roosevelt the support of the Northwest, which will benefit in many ways by the completion of the canal, the words of the Progressive Party platform promise even more for the West. "We demand that the canal shall be so operated as to break the transportation monopoly now held and misused by the transcontinental railroads," declares this document—and the victory of Mr. Roosevelt at the polls means that this will be carried out.

He Forced Canal Through.
In forcing the construction by the United States of the Panama canal, and in making United States control possible at the Isthmus, Mr. Roosevelt built far better than he knew. He was planning for the future when he took a hand in this work, planning for the future of the Pacific Slope and the Northwest. Now, many years later, he finds that these plans of his are in danger of being stifled by the laxity of the present Taft regime in Washington, and he also finds the people looking to him as their champion to step back into power and see that original ideas are carried out.

Just as surely as the Northwestern states are preparing for the rush of business and settlers that will follow the opening of the Panama Canal, it will be found that their people are also planning to make the canal of service to them by placing in office as national executive the man and the party that will develop to the fullest the dreams and hopes of Atlantic-co-Pacific trade. Oregon people in particular realize that the canal will not be of benefit to them unless canal affairs are administered as originally planned, and they believe that the safest way to guarantee such administration is to elect Theodore Roosevelt as president, and to place in office as his aides candidates upon the Progressive Party ticket all down the line.
