ASTRONOMICAL EVENTS. (From noon today to noon tomorrow.) Sun sets 5:06, rises 6:23. Evening stars: Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter. Morning star: Saturn.

VERDICT OF THE PEOPLE. Senator Bourne was a candidate for the Republican nomination in the direct primary election but was defeated by Ben Selling who carried 27 of the 34 counties. Mr. Selling's plurality was 6500. It was the verdict of the people. They were "on trial." Bourne caused his name to be presented at the Bull Moose state convention where he was again turned down decisively. As a last resort, Dan Kellner and other partisan Bourne supporters organized a mass meeting of 160 Multnomah county electors and launched the Senator's independent candidacy. By his course, Bourne has repudiated the direct primary law in part the creature of his own creation. But he was determined to be a candidate.

BENEFIT TO THE PUBLIC. No one disputes the fact that our railway commission has been of the greatest benefit to the general public, and at the same time it has been beneficial to the railway companies, as it has stood between the companies and the public as a just and intelligent arbiter. We would hardly know how to get along without this commission. The only difficulty is the commission does not have the oversight of the street railways and other public utilities corporations. But the Malarkey bill, which was passed almost unanimously by the last legislature, and has been held up by the referendum, will come up for adoption at the November election. If this bill becomes a law all public utilities corporations will be under control of our railway commissioners. This added burden upon the commissioners will cost the taxpayers nothing, but will be of great benefit to the public. Be sure to vote 314, Yes.

HOME RULE ROAD BILL.

Among the numerous road measures submitted to the people upon the ballot for action at the November election, is the one submitted by the people of southern Oregon, known as the County Home Rule bill. This measure, as its name implies, gives the counties the right to build highways if desired, upon the consent of a majority of the voters if obtained at a general or special election.

The bill does not differ materially from the constitutional amendment submitted and carried two years ago, except that it is self-enacting and requires no enabling act and no legal entanglements or interpretations by the courts to hamper action.

No limitation is placed upon the indebtedness, as such limitation is needless, for the taxpayers will not vote for too large an indebtedness and if they did, the bonds could not be sold. The limitation of two per cent placed in the so-called Harmony bills, will be fatal to many counties as taxpayers will refuse to vote for an indebtedness unless it benefits by good roads, all parts of the county, which cannot be done with a small amount. Under this measure, the amount of indebtedness is left to the taxpayers to decide.

The measure provides that the county court, in its order of election shall "provide every detail concerning the form and manner of disposing of the securities issued" and to insure the success of the election, the roads to be constructed, the materials used, will also have to be set forth.

The simplicity of the measure is its strong point, and it has the indorsement of all of the leading good roads advocates, including Sam Hill, the president of the national good roads association; its number upon the ballot is 360.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

HIS CREED.

Joe F. Sullivan of Imboden, Ark., is the youngest mayor in the world. He is not yet twenty-one years of age.

He was elected by the joint effort of twelve young girls, two goats—and Joe himself.

At the age of four the boy was stricken with paralysis, which lost him the use of his lower limbs. When he began going to school he was drawn there in a little wagon, which he made, by two Angora goats he had trained.

The goats also helped Joe sell papers, by which he supported his invalid mother and himself. When his father died Joe quit school and made a business of delivering papers.

After being out of school for some time the boy, unable to walk a step and weighing but ninety-five pounds, started in again. Although behind the others, he not only caught up, but won several scholarships and a gold medal for making the highest grades.

When he was through the town school Joe decided to run for mayor.

There were two other candidates, experienced politicians, and the people took the young man's candidacy as a joke.

With Joe it was no joke. He drove his goats to his speaking appointments and told the voters what he would do when he was mayor. Being an advocate of equal suffrage, he appointed a dozen of his schoolgirl friends as his campaign committee.

A stroke of genius! The girls canvassed the voters and made a strong plea for Joe. They told the young men they would "never speak to them again" if they did not vote for Sullivan.

He got more votes than both the other candidates. Joe took over the reins of government and bids fair to guide it as successfully as he guides his goats. In fifteen minutes after he was sworn in he organized a cleanup crusade.

After two terms as mayor he says he will go to a university, complete his education and permanently enter politics.

Look out for Joe Sullivan! Why? Because, with all his spectacular methods, he is right inside. Here is his creed: "Faith, prayer and perseverance will never fail you if you are right, and you are already a failure if you are wrong."

It is not mere moralizing to say that a boy of twenty whose creed thus senses the dynamic power of righteousness will go far in life.

The Supply Held Out. Tommy at the supper table: Now, ma, may I have a piece of chocolate cake? You said I might after the minister had taken three pieces, cause that was enough for any man's sat or siner.

Sure Remedy. The editor of the correspondence columns had had a busy day—a very busy day indeed. So busy, in fact, that he had to enlist the aid of John, the office boy, to read out the correspondence.

"What is the next query?" he asked, when he had gone halfway through the pile of letters.

"Oh," said John, "a reader in South Africa wants to know how to prevent the hairs in his moustache from falling out. What have I to put down, sir?"

"Well," replied the editor, after a pause, "just put down, 'The best way to prevent hairs from falling out is to brush them lightly apart—and keep them from quarrelling.'"—London Answers.

The Wizard. "Must you go?" "Yes, the wife's sitting up for me, and if I miss the train I shall catch it!"

The Musk Ox. The musk ox is an arctic animal, occurring both in Greenland and in North America. In prehistoric times it occurred in England and central Europe. It is about the size of one of our smaller breeds of ox, but in habits and in the fact that most of its muzzle is hairy more like a sheep than a bovine. Its hair is very long, thick and matted. The horns in the young are small, upright and far apart, but in the adult they become very broad at the base and meet in the middle and take a curve downward and outward, while the ends curve again upward to a point. It owes its name to its strong musklike odor.

Life Sentence. "Poverty's no crime." "It ain't? Then why is it punishable by hard labor?"—Cleveland Leader.

Lord and Lady Decies on Way To Church For Christening

The christening of the daughter of Lord and Lady Decies, the latter formerly Miss Vivien Gould, took place recently at the church at Stoke Poges, England. The happy couple walked from their carriage to the church, accompanied by the baby's nurse, who carried the infant, as seen above. The names bestowed upon the child were Eileen Vivien De La Poer, Eileen being a favorite name of Lady Decies, Vivien her own Christian name and De La Poer a family name of the Beresfords. The godfathers were Lord Greville and Howard Gould and the godmothers Lady Waterford and Mrs. Edward Lamb. The godmothers were not present, Mrs. George J. Gould standing proxy for Lady Waterford and Mrs. Draxel for Mrs. Lamb. The baby squaled loudly during the christening.

Suggestive in Questions Sunday School Lessons

The most popular and the most practical plan for Bible study, together with a prize Bible contest, commences in the present issue of the Morning Enterprise. For the past thirteen weeks we have been explaining the importance of this course of Bible study, and the conditions of the contest, and urging all our readers to join our local club. If there are any who do not understand fully about the contest, and the prizes, call at this office and it will be fully explained. In short, the Sunday School lesson must be read each week for 52 weeks, also the "Suggestive Questions." Then any five of the Lesson for Sunday Oct. 27 1912. Wanderings in Decapolis. Mark viii 31-viii:10.

Father of the Weather Bureau. The father of the weather bureau service was Increase A. Lapham, a modest and retired but rich scholar, who lived in Milwaukee. It was the first to note by telegraph the progress of the wind currents and storms and to predict their appearance in specified neighborhoods. On the strength of a weather dispatch from Omaha in 1859 or thereabouts he announced the first storm on Lake Michigan that ever was heralded twelve hours in advance of its arrival. The first work of the weather bureau was under his charge in Chicago. It was on the small beginnings of Dr. Lapham that the entire system of the signal service was based. Dr. Lapham died in 1875.

If it happened it is in the Enterprise.
