GLAD TIDINGS.

A heavy rain accompanied by a violent wind visited us on the night of October 17, doing some damage, throwing down many telephone poles and putting certain lines out of commission for the time being.

The roads are slippery again, as an automobilist discovered on trying to mount the Yarrett hill. His auto bucked and refused to go further, and after a few fruitless trials he discovered that the gasoline had run out, so he started on foot to Marquam to procure some. After reaching there he was informed that there was none there, but if he would go on over to Ed Albright's, one and one-half miles further he might get some, so going on to Albright's he got gasoline, and walking back to his starting point he got his auto started again.

A happy man after his five-mile walk. C. H. Marsh, present owner of the place, visited a sale near Hubbard on the 17th of October, with the calculation of buying a team of horses if he could find horses suiting him. He did not buy, MACKSBURG.

The ranch owners are elated over Notwithstanding the blight threatened it in September the crop is turning out better than usual. Diedrich Harms has 300 and John Etzel nearly 400 bushels of potatoes to the acre, while many others are doing about the same. Apples, owing probably to the persistent spraying of the trees for two years, are finer this season than ever before. The frequent rains have kept the pasture as green as it is in spring time. This has made the dairy output much larger than ever before. Jim Mitts, a road boss for the Macksburg section of the Canby road, which is being covered with gravel, ches in diameter. Mr. Deidrich Harms furnishes the
