Japan's Pancake Women.

One of the familiar sights on the streets of a Japanese town is the pan cake woman, who, with her little bra zier of conis and her tiny frying pan, is usually found on a corner not far from a school. She has a bowl full of deliclous batter, a bidle and a cake turner and there is apt to be a hungry crowd around her little stand as soon as school is out, for not many of the children are able to resist the smell of the crisp pancakes, at least if they have any money. For a very small coin a child may fry and turn his own cakes. and happy is the one who has a num ber of coins in his little kimono sleeve and can try and eat to his heart's con
