BOURNE OREGON FOE, SAYS PAGET

W. S. U'Ren in favor of the candidacy of the present incumbent, Jonathan Bourne, at the meeting which he is to hold in this city tomorrow night at 7 P. M. at the corner of Seventh and Main Streets.

ing Mr. Bourne's campaign, appears quoted as having contributed the sum of $2000," said Mr. Paget, "I have been informed that Mr. Hawkins is the representative of certain Detroit lumber interests with large holdings in this state. I cannot see where, if elected, Mr. Bourne could go to Washington as the representative of the people of this state and still return to Mr. Hawkins and his lumber interests value received for the contribution. Mr. Bourne's committee has received from various business interests in Portland and vicinity large sums and all of these large contributors have been the bitter enemies of progressive legislation and popular government.

"I have mentioned the senior senator to publicly discuss the above charges and the various issues of the campaign. Although I have written him two letters, he has failed to extend the usual courtesy of an acknowledgment. In view of these facts I cannot but think that Mr. Bourne is reticent about placing himself in a position where it will be necessary for him to uphold his position and answer embarrassing questions.

"The letter to Mr. Bourne is as follows: "I regret that you have not seen your way clear to respond to my letter of October 26th, in which I asked for a public discussion with you upon the issues of this campaign. I feel very keenly regarding the points therein involved because your candidacy at this time is generally construed as a reversal of your hitherto sympathetic attitude towards Oregon's progressive popular, political system.

"I recognize there is merit in the severe criticism cast by your supporters on the primary campaign of your Republican opponent, Mr. Ben Selling, based on the ground that Mr. Theodore Mansfield, of New York, and residents of other states expended large sums of money in order to secure his nomination. I desire, however, to ask you the question as to what defense there is for the subscription of $2,000 to the fund for your campaign by Mr. Russell Hawkins, representing Detroit lumber interests, that not equally well apply to contributions by Mr. Selling's friends.

"An inspection of the records of the treasurer of the committee conducting your campaign also shows that large amounts have been contributed by local interests that have been by no means sympathetic with the progressive reforms which you have hitherto professed to champion.

"The question naturally suggests itself as to how, if elected, you can return full value for these large subscriptions and give due appreciation to the interests of these generous contributors without at the same time giving only secondary consideration to the interests of the rank and file of the people of the state of Oregon.

"It is my positive conviction that your election under present circumstances would be a tremendous blow to the cause of popular government in which we have hitherto been jointly interested and which you have supported up to the time of the popular verdict rendered against you.

"I am willing to forfeit any of my evening engagements previous to the election in order to meet you in a public discussion of these and any other points involved in this senatorial campaign, and trust to be favored with your response in acceptance of this suggestion."

Mr. Paget in the statement made Saturday night, also said that he did not see "how the junior senator could reconcile his former sponsorship of the Oregon system of popular government and particularly acceptance of the senatorial primary to his so-called spontaneous demand of the people. He was the friend of the people until the people refused to accept him as the candidate for the Republican party and then he repudiated the whole system and attempted to foist himself on the people of the state as the representative of himself and those Detroit lumber interests."

Emery James will soon move into the house Chesley Bentley vacated.

The man who bought a tract of land of Barton Jack, east of the road leading to Silverton, has built a good house, moved his family and is going ahead in an energetic manner.

Mrs. Emma Bentley, wife of Geo. Bentley, who has been sick so long, is gradually but surely nearing dissolution. We hate to think of parting from her for her life has proved a blessing, and a consolation to all whom she has come in contact with.

But she fears not, for she has been a lifelong Christian, believing in the fairness and justice of an all wise Creator, and in a future state of existence. We hope her belief may be verified, and that God will specially reward in the hereafter one who has done so much good in passing through this world.

Jack Faulkner and family will soon move to Arizena, mainly on account of Mrs. Faulkner's health, though also being offered a good opportunity to enter into partnership with a relative in a business that has heretofore paid large dividends. We all hope his good wife may regain her usual good health and that they may prosper, for they are both deserving, and since living here have had much hard luck and sickness.

ALICE FLEMING, THE POPULAR LEADING WOMAN OF THE BAKER PLAYERS. All week starting Sunday matinee. Matinees Wednesday and Saturday. Bargain night Monday. Election returns Tuesday.

THE DOLLAR MARK

Famous Drama of High Finance to be Presented by the Baker Players.

The Baker players will present Broadhurst's noted play of high finance all this week starting Sunday matinee, entitled "The Dollar Mark." It is one of those big dramas like the Bridge that deals with one of the five questions of the day, in this instance being that of the controlling power of money over the laws, judges, railroads, and in fact everything in the country worth having. The theme deals with the desperate struggle of one man—John Gresham—against the consolidated interests of millions, for possession of his mine, The Nellie Davis. The interests are represented by one Gordon Baylis and when the love of Alice Chandler comes into the issue it narrows down to a conflict between the two men, the one backed by untold millions and the other by grit and fighting ability, although Gresham is a man of considerable wealth himself. From the scene of the mine the play shifts to New York, where Baylis concocts a scheme to start a panic to inaugurate a run on Gresham's bank and by getting Gresham away for a while complete the ruin before he learns of it. They are all out on the Sound in a yacht, which Baylis contrives to delay by ordering the engineer to pretend there is something the matter with the machinery, but when he discovers the plot, Gresham forces them at the point of his gun to run full speed into New York, arriving there just in the nick of time to defeat the scheme and turn the tables on his enemies. Several pretty love stories run through the play and many clever characters are introduced which greatly add to the interest and comedy element. "The Dollar Mark" was played by the Baker Company two years ago and was an enormous success. In Los Angeles it ran eleven weeks at the Belasco Theater. The usual matinees will be given Sunday, Wednesday and Saturday, as well as the popular Bargain night Monday. On Tuesday night the election returns will be read from the stage, a special wire having been chartered and the local and long distance telephone service established which will furnish Baker patrons all the latest complete returns from all over the country as fast as received.

PORTLAND REJECTS BOTH CHARTERS

PORTLAND, Nov. 2.—An unexpectedly large vote cast today in the special city election, according to the returns tabulated up to midnight, resulted in the defeat of both forms of commission charter, most of the bond issues proposed, salary increases sought, left the police under civil service by a large majority and carried down by the general avalanche the proposition to create the office of city prosecutor.

The one outstanding favorable vote was that for the Northwestern Electric Company, which was granted a franchise to sell heat, light and power in Portland by an overwhelming majority. The earliest returns from all parts of the city carried the certainty that this measure, which was submitted on referendum by the city council, had passed and that the new company had received a most hearty endorsement.

MISS MATTLEY IS HALLOWE'EN HOSTESS

Miss Helen Mattley entertained a few of her friends at a hallowe'en party at her home on Seventh and Monroe Streets. The house was decorated with autumn leaves and ferns, many jack o'lanterns were in evidence. The girls were dressed up as ghosts and the first of the evening devoted to ghost reminiscences, while the later part was devoted to games. The prizes were won by Miss Evelyn Williams and Ella Turner. Refreshments were served. Present were Valera Myers, Lorena Andrews, Florence McGehan, Ruth Miller, Gene-
