HIGH SCHOOL BOYS EXTINGUISH FIRE

While several pupils of the Oregon City High School were enjoying recess Wednesday they were attracted to the basement by the odor of smoke and found that a small quantity of excelsior, which was in the wood room near a brick wall had caught fire. Professor Pfingsten, with the assistance of several of the boys, soon extinguished the blaze. No damage was done, as the excelsior was about ten feet from the furnace. The origin of the fire is not known.

GEO. FREY.
"Labby's" Bearded Friend.
Labouchere had a friend who spent a good deal of time and money in order to shirk the bestowal of tips. "He had a conscientious objection against tipping barbers and could not shave himself. He told me once that, according to careful conclusion, he had been forced to travel considerably over a hundred miles in one year to find new barbers' shops where his unending attitude on the tip question was unknown, and he spent rather more than $25 on bus and cab fares in doing so. Finally, having exhausted the whole of inner London and most of the suburbs, he had to give up the struggle and grow a beard."—London Chronicle.

FOUNTAIN FIREMEN TO HAVE BIG BALL

Fountain Hose Company No. 1 Thursday night decided to hold its next annual ball on Christmas eve, at Busch's Hall. The following members were appointed a committee on arrangements: A. C. Cox, chairman; Harry Woodward, Frank McGahey, G. Woodward and Joe Beaulieu. Chief Hansford informed the boys that the chances were excellent for the installation of the automatic fire alarm system by the first of the coming year.

SOCIALIST AND MOOSE HAVE VOTE MIX-UP

An irate Bull Moose and a near-sighted Socialist, voting in adjoining booths Tuesday at Gladstone, committed hari-kari to all election ethics and otherwise desecrated the sanctity of the polls, when the admirer of Teddy discovered that part of his ballot had already been given the necessary "X" and the socialist at that.
The election judges had been forced to improvise two extra booths to meet the demands of a slow and heavy vote. A partition was arranged above the center of an office desk, but unfortunately a space of half an inch remained between the table and the partition. Teddy's man, probably feeling that Roosevelt's returns might be a little late in materializing this year anyhow, had decided to vote the initiative measures first, and was so interested in his task that he failed to observe that about half an inch of his ballot had slipped into the sacred dominions of his neighbor. About this time the advocate of Eugene B. Debs began his march down the Socialist calendar, and had delivered about six telling upercuts against capitalism, little dreaming that he was marking the wrong ballot. A Bull Moose and a Socialist are not the best of friends in the world, even under ordinary circumstances and environments, so of course in a few minutes things were done.
"What's wrong with this ballot?" angrily thundered the Bull Moose in a tone that fairly shook the ballot box.
"The interests—'Big Business'—they're robbing me of my very vote," said the Debs man at the same instant, feeling a sort of slipping sensation, as the ballot disappeared from beneath his fingers.
"Ah—ah," quoted the Progressive: "Thou shalt not steal."
Only prompt action of the election clerks in locating the trouble and re-adjusting the situation to suit the wounded voters prevented further altercation.
To assuage the wounded feelings of the Moose, he was given a nice clean white ballot and instructions to try it all over again. The dignity of the precinct hall was upset for some little time afterward and eventually all parties had a good laugh.

MERVIN CALIFF IS APPENDICITIS VICTIM

Mervin Califf, formerly of Oregon City, who is now attending school at the Good Samaritan Hospital in Portland last week, where he underwent an operation for appendicitis. Mr. Califf is getting along nicely, and will be able to be taken to his home within a week. He is an employee of the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company.
Sliding up the McGooerty campaign been two months ago, it cannot be said that Eddie is a serious contender for the middleweight earthen. His weight won't hinder him either. For the Denning fight he scaled 157 1/2 pounds at ringside. Maybe that's why McGooerty can make the middle limit without loss of strength.
The fruits of success are now being plucked by McGooerty, who has a few weeks of vandeville time in the west at $1,000 per week. He also has had two big offers from Paris and London.

FARMERS ARE BUSY CLEARING LAND

In many sections of Clackamas County farmers are busily engaged in plowing when the weather permits. Most of the crops have been harvested, and many of the farmers in the county will have large crops in 1913, as there will be more land cleared and put into condition for the sowing of grain. Many have already commenced blasting and burning stumps and logs that are on some of the best land. With the exception of a few losing grain by the heavy rains of September and October the crops were a success. The fruit yield was the largest for years.

MONEY MAD PUGS HURTING GAME

Big Purse Demanded by Boxers Have Queered Good Bouts.

WOLGAST'S LUST FOR GOLD

Lightweight Champion Wanted Fortune to Battle McFarland—Mike Gibbons Latest One to Want Bage of Money to Meet Good Man.
A matter of dollars has queered two of the biggest boxing matches that would have been arranged in this country. It was Wolgast's lust for gold eagles that turned official disapproval upon the champion's proposed conflict with Packer McFarland. The publicity attached to Ad's numerous demands killed his own game.
Mike Gibbons and Eddie McGooerty have been matched and rematched of late, and on sundry occasions the sporting hot pot has anticipated with pleasure a bout between the two best middleweights in the world only to hear that each match has fallen through. Gibbons now reports a strained shoulder as an obstacle to the carrying out of the latest agreement to box McGooerty, but that is not the only drawback.
Eddie Reddy, who is Gibbons' manager, wants the fancy figure of $10,000 for ten rounds of jabs, uppercuts and sidesteps by Mike. He will not be given such an amount. Promoters have lost heavily of late, and their losses are understood to have been due to the exorbitant prices demanded by fighters who are cutting off their own noses by their anxiety to attract the increment their way.
Gibbons ought to jump to get $8,000 for ten rounds with McGooerty. That is more by considerable than he has ever earned since he quit his job as Y. M. C. A. boxing instructor at St. Paul. McGooerty is a few pounds heavier. But what of it? Gibbons is clever. He would lose little by a defeat. Possibly he might not cut the big money for a time, but that's the chance he takes. What's he making by refusing the McGooerty battle? If he doesn't take it he will have to go back to the $1,000 and the $5,000 guarantees. Occasionally he will make a trifling more than that. He will have difficulty, though, in keeping busy, for the booba are playing out.
What's the use of being a tin horn champion when one can just as well be a mighty one? Gibbons, many experts figure, has an even chance of whipping McGooerty. But while he is deciding whether he will fight the authorities again may step in and declare that the contest is too close to a championship affair, the same as in the Wolgast-McFarland case, and bar it out of New York.
McGoerty's recent record has been both stunning and otherwise, but on the whole his fighting indicates championship material. His knockouts of Jack Harrison and Dave Smith were highly sensational, and his fight, too, against Jack Denning, he making Denning quit in a few rounds, put a few extra streaks of light in the McGooerty halo. He outpointed Barney Williams easily in six rounds and stopped Jimmy Howard suddenly. His bad fights were with Johnny Thompson and Leo Houck. Philadelphia papers gave Houck credit for beating the Oshkosh man recently. At Cincinnati McGooerty went ten rounds to a time draw with Thompson. This time it was against him, howling for anyone to make something with Thompson.
