ONE OF THE FASHIONABLE HATS FOR AUTUMN

One of the new shaggy felts so serviceable for knock-about wear is the subject of the sketch above. These felts appear in the soft shapes with rolling brim which are pulled down over the face in becoming and stylish lines, a fashion which has suffered no diminution of its popularity since last winter. With a few exceptions these hats show the new facing band of silk. The model shown is a beige felt with turned up brim faced in self-tone silk, a length of this same silk swathing the crown; while to the right of the crown is placed a small but jaunty little black wing.

HOP MARKET ACTIVE; TAKING ALL GRADES

Dealers reported a strong general interest in the hop market at the opening Monday, buyers and sellers alike being disposed to do business, and as a consequence it is believed that the trade this week will fully equal that of last week, and possibly exceed it in volume. The interesting feature of the market at this time is the demand for the medium and lower grades. Up to about a week ago the buyers could hardly be induced to consider the inferior offerings at any price but since then, with holdings of the best in the state reduced to very small proportions, their attitude has changed. Now they are taking hops of all sorts, at prices of course in line with the quality of the product. For the best hops available in the Valley buyers generally are paying 17 to 19 cents, and quality stock as usual is the most rapidly sold. The next best grades are said to be going at 12 to 15 cents, and for poor stock dealers are reported to be paying around 10 cents. The holders of the cheap stuff are said to be letting go in a fairly free way at the prices offered, while growers who have quality stock still unsold are holding more firmly and as a rule getting full prices for their goods. The chances are that a large portion of the Valley crop will be disposed of before the end of the month. Orders from the East are now coming much more freely than was the case earlier in the season, indicating a general desire on the part of the brewery trade to cover wants for the remainder of the season as soon as possible because of the growing scarcity of the good grade stock. Shipments for the Eastern markets are being made up and dispatched as rapidly as conditions will permit in order to affect a saving in transportation charges, which are going to be advanced November 20. In many cases it is said, consignments, yet unsold, are being forwarded to save the increase in freight charges, the shippers planning to sell the goods while they are on their way East.

The Scented Court. "The scented court" was the name by which the court of Louis XV. was known throughout Europe on account of the rage for perfume which then prevailed in France. The expenditure of Mme. de Pompadour for this one branch of her toilet amounted to $100,000 annually. It became the fashion for the host or hostess of a great entertainment to signalize to their guests what particular perfume was to be employed for scenting their rooms on the night for which the invitations were issued, and they were expected to use no other, so that the delicate effect of a unity of odors might be produced. At court a different perfume was presented for each day of the week.

Hospitals in Smyrna. Seven nurses have their own hospitals in Smyrna—Greeks, Armenians, Turks, Jews, English, British and Dutch.

Endurance of Migrating Birds. The vigor and endurance that birds display upon the wing are astonishing. Nearly all the migratory species of Europe must cross the Mediterranean without resting. The little bluebird pays an annual visit to the Bermudas, 800 miles from the continent, and Wilson estimated its very moderate flight at more than a mile a minute. Remarkable stories are told of the long flights of tame falcons, one going 1,300 miles in a single day. Jewel mentions carrier pigeons that flew from Rouen to Ghent, 150 miles, in an hour and a half, and a certain warbler must wing its way from Egypt to the Baltic, 1,200 miles, in one night.

A Straight Tip. He—What do you consider the best way to propose? She—Promptly.—Boston Transcript.

Origin of "the Levant." Nowadays "the Levant" means solely the eastern Mediterranean region. But it really signifies the east in a general sense—the region of the rising sun, in fact—being derived from the French "lever," to rise. By "the high Levant" Bacon meant the far east. In the eighteenth century Chambers' Encyclopedia explained that "Levant" applied to any country to the eastward of one, and in this sense Evelyn wrote of "more Levantine parts than Italy." "Levant," indeed, was interchangeable with "orient," just as "ponent" was with "occident." So we find Milton writing of "Levant" and "ponent" minds.—London Chronicle.

The Best Light at the Lowest Cost

ELECTRIC LIGHT is the most suitable for homes, offices, shops and other places needing light. Electricity can be used in any quantity, large or small, thereby furnishing any required amount of light. Furthermore, electric lamps can be located in any place thus affording any desired distribution of light.

No other lamps possess these qualifications, therefore it is not surprising that electric lamps are rapidly replacing all others in modern establishments.
