BRONZE PEAU DE CYGNE

For the bronze peau de cygne gown appearing above, self-trimming has been utilized exclusively. The plain peasant blouse closes directly down the front beneath a box pleat of the material which is finished on either edge with a narrow flat pleating of the same. The turn back cuffs are finished with the this pleating also and around the neck is worn a turn down collar of white mousseline also pleated and edged with lace. Even in the case of the girle dress material has been utilized and formed into a smart bow at the left with finger ends. The skirt tunic also closes beneath a pleat similar to that on the bodice and is finished on the bottom with a broad bias band of the same. A row of buttons trims the center pleat.

YOUNG MAN DIES IN HOSPITAL

John Puenafatikos died Monday in the Oregon City Hospital from pneumonia. The deceased was 18 years of age, and was born in Greece. Up to the time of his death he had been in the employ of the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company. He is survived by a brother who is in Chicago, and a sister, Sophia Pielagos, who lives in this city. The funeral arrangements have not been made and they may hold the body until the arrival of the brother. He will be buried in Portland.

A Merry Old Widow.

One of the most remarkable instances of long life was that of the countess of Desmond. This merry widow died in 1074, having survived her husband, the twelfth earl, seventy years. She retained her faculties to the last, could walk ten miles a day until a week of her death, at the age of 140, and according to the inscription on her portrait at Muckross abbey, Killarney, "in ye course of her long pilgrimage renewed her teeth twice." The countess appeared likely to beat all records for longevity, when, relates Sir William Temple, "she must needs climb a nut tree to gather nuts; so, falling down, she hurt her thigh, which brought on a fever, and that brought death."

Better Do Your Shopping Now.

HERE'S A YARN FOR THE BASEBALL FANS.

Here, fans, is what appears to be a new one—at least it is new to us. When two clubs in Canfield, Colo., took the field recently it was discovered that one side was a man short. In spite of the fact that Albert Billings supported himself by one genuine and one cork leg, he gallantly volunteered to substitute for the missing man. In the ninth inning, with the score 5 to 5, the cork leg bobbed up—as cork will—and the last Canfield game of the season broke up in a row. Billings came up and, turning on the live pipe, whaled out a two bagger. He stole third and started home when one of his teammates hit to shortstop. The shortstop tossed the ball to the catcher ten feet ahead of the runner, the cork leg flew off and crossed the plate, while the owner of the leg dropped to the ground. The catcher stepped out and tagged the prone figure, but the umpire was watching closely and ruled that the foot at the end of the cork leg touched the plate. The opposing team claimed that Billings was out because the catcher tagged him before he crossed the plate. We rise to state that we consider this one story.

GILLETTE, STAR QUARTERBACK

Wisconsin's Little Field General Has Done Some Great Playing. Western football critics are of the opinion that if Eddie Gillette, the Badgers' star quarterback, keeps up his brilliant work he will surely be the selection for the position on the mythical All American eleven. No quarterback in the east or west has performed as well as Wisconsin's signal giver. In the game with Northwestern, which the Badgers won by a score of 56 to 0, Gillette was the bright star. His ninety yard run in the last period of the game through the entire purple team was the most brilliant play of the game. Near the close of the first quarter Gillette broke away for a fifty yard run, carrying the ball to Northwestern's twenty yard line. Wisconsin plugged the line and sent Van Riper over left tackle for the first touchdown. Gillette kicked the goal.

In the game with Purdue Gillette was the individual star. His most brilliant accomplishment was a sixty-five yard run for a touchdown at the opening of the second quarter. Wisconsin made six touchdowns, and Gillette kicked every goal. Wisconsin won, 42 to 0.

BUCKLE CURVE GOOD ONE.

Pittsburgh Pitcher Shows Fans the Old John Clarkson Trick.

Ball scientists have burned midnight oil to discover a substitute for the spitball, the "turkey" trot, the fade-away and the double shoot. Wilbur Cooper, the Columbus recruit to the Pittsburgh club, has beaten them all to it with the shining "buckle curve." It is a deceiving thing, this buckle curve. It buckles and it bends. At first that is what the batter thinks. On the back of his glove Cooper has a shining silver buckle. The master of the "buckle curve" just assumes a pitching pose and wiggles his thumb and four fingers in the sunlight. Old Sol does the rest. The gleam from the buckle gets in the batter's eyes, and he is as helpless as a handcuffed man.

Griffith Signs Cuban Player.

Clarke Griffith has a fondness for Cuban players and has just signed one for his Washington team. Jackie Calce is the man. He is one of the stars of the island and is said to be a better player than Almendra or Marsans, the Cincinnati stars.

Racine at His Work.

Racine, the French writer, composed his work while walking rapidly about, shouting out the lines in a loud voice. One day while he was thus composing part of his play of "Mithridates" in the Tuilleries gardens in Paris he was surrounded by a group of workmen who took him to be a maniac. On his return home from these walks he would write down scene after scene in prose, and when they were finished he would exclaim, "My tragedy is done!" considering the transposition of the lines into verse only a trivial thing.

APPLE MARKET SHOWS BETTER QUALITY

In the apple market there is a slightly better feeling than has prevailed for some weeks past, due mainly to the fact that a very considerable portion of the inferior stock which always figures in a large way in the offerings early in the season has been disposed of. With the rough stuff to a great extent out of the way, there is a better average in quality for the consideration of buyers, and this naturally works to the benefit of the market.

Prices, however, as yet show little change, and the dealers say that in all probability values will hold at a relatively low level throughout the season. On fair to good grade apples the prices now quoted run from 75 cents to $1.50 a box, only exceptional offerings such as fancy Winter Bananas or other varieties of unusual quality going at better prices. The trade is still mainly in the grades that sell at 75 cents to $1.

While the prices now obtainable for apples are materially under the average of recent years, the result of the unusually heavy yield in nearly all parts of the country this year, the crop nevertheless is said to be returning a fair measure of profit to the growers, especially those operating on a commercial scale and putting out a good grade product. The owners of neglected orchards in the Northwest this year naturally are not making much money out of their apples.

Prevailing Oregon City prices are as follows:

- HIDES—(Buying), Green hides 6c to 7c; salted 7c; dry hides 12 c to 14c; sheep pelts 30c to 85c each.
- EGGS—Oregon ranch eggs 35 and 38 cents case count.

CHILDISH COSTUME.

Simplicity, Yet Richness, in This Fur Coat.

OF MOLESKIN AND ERMINE.

The little coat of moleskin is matched by a babyish bonnet, and both are trimmed with bands of ermine. A big ermine muff completes the furry daintiness of this small girl. Buttoned boots are worn by all children in the street, and the pictured boots are of white buckskin with ribbed stockings of heavy white silk.

Hints Worth Remembering. An excellent way to prevent clothes from freezing to the clothesline is to dip a cloth in strong salt water and wipe the line with it. To restore a waterproof coat dissolve a handful of best gray lime in half a pailful of water and with this solution wipe the coat at the hardened parts. This should be done at intervals of about four hours. After this treatment a hardened waterproof laid by as useless for years should be equal to new. The frames of old umbrellas or parasols can be used very artistically for creepers in a garden. Just open them. One day while he was thus composing part of his play of "Mithridates" in the Tuilleries gardens in Paris he was surrounded by a group of workmen who took him to be a maniac. On his return home from these walks he would write down scene after scene in prose, and when they were finished he would exclaim, "My tragedy is done!" considering the transposition of the lines into verse only a trivial thing.

The Best Light at the Lowest Cost

ELECTRIC LIGHT is the most suitable for homes, offices, shops and other places needing light. Electricity can be used in any quantity, large or small, thereby furnishing any required amount of light. Furthermore, electric lamps can be located in any place thus affording any desired distribution of light.

No other lamps possess these qualifications, therefore it is not surprising that electric lamps are rapidly replacing all others in modern establishments.

STIPP EXPLAINS MALARKEY BILL

than the lowest rate charged January 1, 1911 for the same or like service.

From these provisions it must necessarily follow no company will be allowed to charge more for any service of like character than the lowest charge made by the company for that service on January 1, 1911, and that where the company since raised the rates it must go back to the rates of January 1, 1911 until such time as hearing and permission is given by the Commission.

I am of the opinion that should any company charge more or attempt to collect more after the passage of this act, than the lowest rate charged for like service on January 1, 1911, that such company would be subject to prosecution under the terms of this act.

Very respectfully,
L. STIPP.
