EDITORIAL IS ATTACKED.

OREGON CITY, Nov. 21 .- (Editor of the Enterprise)-I feel that an additional word should be said in re-gard to your editorial of last Sunday. Let us be perfectly clear about the point of controversy. Mechanism of the Human Body. The human body is an epitome in nature of all mechanics, all hydraulics. all architecture, all machinery of every kind. There are more than 310 mechanical movements known to mechanics today, and all of these are but modifications of those found in the human body. Here are found all the bars. levers, joints, pulleys, pumps, pipes, wheels and axles, ball and socket movements, beams, girders, trusses, buffers, arches, columns, cables and supports known to science. At every point man's best mechanical work can be shown to be but adaptations of processes of the human body, a revelation of first principles used in nature.

Explosive Rock.

The danger of explosion in mines is not entirely confined to inflammable gases, carelessly managed fuses and neglected charges or cartridges. It has been observed that in lead mines some of the slate rocks are likely to burst on being scratched with a pick. The explosion is supposed to be due either to gases inclosed in the rocks or to molecular strains. Not long ago a severe explosion of slate rock occurred in a mine at Hillgrove, New South Wales, and the shock was felt for a mile or two over the surrounding country. In this instance it is believed that the rock wall where the explosion occurred was subjected to a mechanical strain.-Chicago Record-Herald.
