men and when they come to understand where all this leads they will call a halt till we come to a realization of our dangers.
 Friend Stipp's explanation of the city's need of authority to issue bonds is a fairly good one, yet it is an acknowledgment of just what I've stated. The charter provides that bonds may be issued to $50,000. The framers no doubt thought that was debt enough to be created at one time and I believe they were right. If we provide a means to issue more bonds—and no limit provided—where does this lead us? Why not be honest with ourselves and the people and say it's time to quit running in debt and we'll stop till we're in better shape financially.
 This is the only course to pursue and I believe the members of the council will take this view of the matter.

President-Elect Wilson on Way to Polls and Voting

Thomas Aquinas, who was the first theologian to discuss the theory of papal infallibility as an integral part of Systematic Theology" (See Schaaf and the Catholic historian Dollinger in Das Papsttum, p. 333). Gallians and Jesuits quarrelled over it until the later finally won, and had it formulated as an Article of Faith at the Vatican Council of July 18, 1870.
 The difference between Catholicism and Protestantism lies not in the stability of the one and the changeableness of the other. It lies in the view of each regarding the fundamental of Christianity. The Catholic Church claims that the church is the source of all authority, and that its dogmas are binding in every realm. Protestantism denies the authority of the church, and claims that religion lies in the free life of the individual soul that has been touched by the Spirit of God, and not in other organism or credal philosophy. Thus Protestantism has no quarrel with any economic or social creed as such. Not so with the Catholic Church, however which logically when its premises are conceded—claiming temporal authority as well as spiritual power, and thus looks horns with Socialism, or with any other purely Democratic system. Were I a communicant in the great church to which Mr. Johnston belongs I should be compelled—not from the Spiritual but from the temporal side—also to oppose Socialism.
 W. T. MILLIKEN.

Very likely the predictions of today for 1921 will be found to be wide of the mark when that date arrives. Ottawa had kept tally of the people who entered, but overlooked those who departed. Thousands of those who enter Canada every year from Europe pass over into the United States after a few months' stay north of our line. Thousands of Americans who are duped into emigrating to Canada return to us after a short experience there. No reliable figures of this outward movement seem to be kept by the Canadian authorities. That is a side of the account which deserves some attention. Many million square miles of vacant lands are in the Dominion, which furnish farms at lower figures than can be had in the United States, although not much lower than in some parts of our Southern states, where the climate is much more agreeable than it is in Canada. When the census of 1921 is taken the Dominion, with an area larger than the entire United States, will probably be found to be still below the population of our single State of New York.

Friend Harris says: "If the taxpayers would attend the meetings and assist with their presence the men whom they ask to do their business for them, some of the members would not be so ready to give valuable franchises and privileges to corporations which ask for them for trifling considerations."
 Now he's puttin one over on me, for I did not know this; neither do I believe it till I have further proof. It can't be that it is necessary for us to watch the council to see that they do our business properly.
 But, getting back to our text, let us admit that we're uncasionally in debt, and make the most of it and try and get out. That's the manly thing to do.

CHURCHES VS. SOCIALISM.

OREGON CITY, Nov. 22.—(Editor of the Enterprise).—From his letter in Friday morning's edition of the Enterprise Mr. R. V. D. Johnston shows that he missed the point at issue between Catholicism and Socialism. Dr. Ira B. Cross of Stanford University, one of our authorities on economics, and a fair opponent of Socialism, in a work considered the standard to date from his standpoint, says: "They (Socialists) only seek to abolish industrial competition. They do not, however, seek to abolish competition in any field other than the industrial." "Socialism is not opposed to religion, although there are some Socialists, as there are some Democrats and Republicans, who are infidels, and even atheists. Socialist congress and party declarations have steadfastly maintained that religion is a matter with which the Socialist party does not concern itself. It is a question that should be settled solely by the individual." Now comes the point at issue. "The prevalent conviction that Socialism is atheistic is due, no doubt, to the fact that a large number of Socialists oppose, not religion, but the activity of the church on behalf of the interests of the capitalist class and in opposition to economic and political reforms." Here, and not in the realm of faith, is where the Catholic Church and Socialism clash. That church owns immense holdings. It claims the right to political and social power, as well as jurisdiction in spiritual matters. And herein it parts company with both Protestantism and communism. There can be no question, and no overlordship of the church above the state under Socialism. Thus the question is not one of religion, but of an economic and social creed after all.

GOVERNOR WOODROW WILSON, now president elect, voted at his home town, Princeton, N. J. Just after he had cast his ballot, which the governor took only a few minutes to mark, he faced the flashlight, with the above result. On his way to the polls, accompanied by his political secretary and a friend, he was snapped, and the result is also shown

FORUM OF THE PEOPLE

CANADA'S NEW PERIL.

Immigration is beginning to trouble the Canadian Government. Too many people from other countries are said to be moving into the Dominion. During the six months ending with September 30, 273,000 immigrants reached Canada, and 90,000 of these went from the United States. This was an increase of 13 per cent over the corresponding period of 1911. Ottawa is beginning to be alarmed lest the aliens overrun the country. The government there estimates that the census of 1921 will show that more than half of the people of the Dominion were born outside of its boundaries.

OPPOSES BIGGER DEBT.

OREGON CITY, Nov. 22.—(Editor of the Morning Enterprise).—I see from your editorial columns that you advise the women on the hill to vote for the elevator. Now I don't believe the women are any more anxious to run in debt than the men are, and when such men as F. J. Meyer and G. B. Dimick tell them the city is in serious condition financially I believe they'll heed this warning.
 There is no disguising the fact that we're in debt, almost past redemption, and it is high time we take steps to mend matters. It is a poor excuse to offer, to say that the people have petitioned the council to do these things. Isn't the county court besieged with petitions asking for money and improvements of all kinds at every term of court? Don't we know that the county would be bankrupt in no time were the county court to do all it is asked to do?
 Isn't the same thing true of the city council?
 Many persons think little of going in debt; but I believe our city council consists of a representative body of

Don't Get Old! You Can Stay Young if You Try
 By Dr. SAMUEL G. TRACY, Physician, of New York

"We want young men," is the continual cry, "men who are strong and wide awake and full of initiative. No old fogies need apply."
 And yet while some men fail to keep in touch with passing events as they advance in years there are certainly many others who have not permitted themselves to FALL BEHIND THE TIMES and whose years have brought them an essentially valuable experience and perspective. Surely these SHOULD NOT BE THROWN ON THE ASH HEAP or chloroformed, according to Dr. Osler's famous prescription.
 Certain men have almost literally BURNED THEMSELVES OUT by the time they reach middle life. They have worked exceedingly hard, and they have tried to do too many things. Their attempts at recreation have been as much of a PHYSICAL AND MENTAL STRAIN as the actual labor they have performed.
 In time of youth PREPARE FOR OLD AGE. That's as true as "in time of peace prepare for war." Eat, drink, work and play in moderation. KEEP OUTDOORS AS MUCH AS YOU CAN.
 LOGICALLY MAN SHOULD LIVE TO BE A CENTENARIAN. THE AVERAGE LIFE OF AN ANIMAL IS FOUR TIMES THE PERIOD IT TAKES TO ARRIVE AT MATURITY. MAN DOES NOT REACH FULL MATURITY UNTIL HE IS AT LEAST TWENTY-FIVE. THEREFORE HIS LIFE SHOULD LAST A HUNDRED YEARS, AND IT MAY WELL BE THAT OUR RACE IN THE FUTURE WILL HAVE SO DEVELOPED THE ART AND SCIENCE OF LIVING THAT MOST INDIVIDUALS WILL ATTAIN THIS COMPLETE SPAN.
 Miss Lulu Porter's class in domestic science prepared and served a banquet to the school men who gathered at the High School Friday evening. A discussion was held after the banquet of matters pertaining to the Clackamas County League City Superintendent Tooze acted as toastmaster. The following men responded to toasts: "The Goal" T. J. Gary; "Civic Duty" Brenton Vetter; "Effect of the New Voter Upon the Community," F. J. Buchanan; "Effect of the New Voter Upon Educational Conditions," J. G. Starkweather; "The Pedagogue in Politics," J. E. Calavan; "The Bachelor Girl" Fedogogus; "C. F. Anderson; "Retirement Fund," N. W. Boland. Addresses were made by A. O. Freel, F. T. Webb, H. Romig, J. Fiske, G. Thompson and H. E. White. It was unanimously voted to form a permanent organization of school men in Clackamas county.
 The girls who assisted Miss Porter in preparing the banquet were: Gwendoline Trudell, Alta Howell, Ruth Moses, Alne Phillips, Helen Baker, Gladys Green, Dora Barnholtzer and Tille Krause.

BUTTER PRODUCTION IN OREGON LARGE

The production of butter in Oregon this season is fully 50 per cent greater than a year ago. This announcement was made today by an official of one of the leading creameries which has various branch creameries throughout the state. Therefore the company is in a position to safely estimate the total output of the state.
 The productions of butter in the state for the first six months of the year showed an increase of 35 per cent over the same period a year ago owing to favorable conditions as well as an increase in the number of cows held by dairy interests.
 Since then the increase over a year ago has been very materially widened by reason of very good weather. As a rule there is a very heavy decrease in the output of butter here during the fall months but this season the decrease was small, therefore making the total increase for the season that much greater.
 So liberal is the output of butter in this section at the present time that there is not enough stock being brought in from the east to consider as a factor.
 The recent advance of two cents a pound in the price of butter on Puget Sound is not likely to have any immediate effect upon the trade here as best prices have heretofore been that much below Portland prices while at present both sections are quoting uniform values.
 The market for creamery butter is in rather good shape here at the present time so far as the better known brands are concerned, although some slight showing of weakness is indicated for the lesser known article.
