HERBERT S. HOCKIN RETURNED TO JAIL

BOND IS INCREASED FROM $10,000 TO $20,000 WHICH HE WAS UNABLE TO RAISE

COURT HOLDS HIM TO BE DECEIVER

Secretary and Treasurer of International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers Said not to be Trusted

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 23.—Imprisonment of Herbert S. Hockin, one of the chief defendants, in default of an increased bond which was required by the court "because he had deceived every one" the denouncing by the District attorney of a woman writer in the courtroom as an "anarchist" and the repudiation by attorneys for the defense of some of the acts of the defendants, were among sensational incidents at the dynamiting conspiracy trial today.

Hockin was declared to have been in the employ of detectives soon after the Los Angeles Times explosion. He was also accused of having told a witness of overhearing John J. McNamara talk to President Lynch, of the International Typographical Union, about "an explosion on the Pacific Coast."

United States Senator Kern was among the counsel for the defense who disavowed an article published by some of the defendants.

The 45 men accused by the Government of complicity in the McNamara dynamite plots for abetting for four or five years in the illegal transportation of explosives, sat in silence while the testimony and the action of the court brought in unexpected changes.

JUDGE BEATIE GIVES PAROLE TO FINUCANE

John Finucane, sentenced to serve a year in jail on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of Valer Proffitt, fifteen years of age, was paroled Saturday afternoon by County Judge Beatie. The girl committed suicide after an all night automobile ride in Portland, the party consisting besides herself, of Clara Johnson, Harry Timmons and Clara Johnson, Harry Timmons and Clara Johnson, Harry Timmons and Clara Johnson.

EDITOR BUYS PRIZE WINNING STOCK

Dairy herds have been improving in Clackamas County for the past year to a marked degree, the Jerseys taking the lead, the dairies of the county being made up almost entirely of this breed, but the other breeds have their appearance, the latest addition is three fine looking young Ayrshires, the animals being purchased by W. A. Shewman, editor of the Western Stock Journal of this city. They arrived in Oregon City Saturday.

There was a great interest taken in the animals as they were driven through the city, as they are undoubtedly the most notable of the breed named ever arriving in this county. One, a yearling bull, has won several first and junior champions, out of seven entries this year, showing at several of the state fairs on the coast and Canada, where they competed with the largest Ayrshire herds on the coast. Two yearling heifers completed the trio, they also being prize winners.

VARSITY ELEVEN HUMBLER O. A. C.

GOAL KICKED BY FENTON IN SECOND HALF WINS FOR EUGENE

CONTEST IS EXCITING THROUGHOUT

Corvallis Line Breaks Before Four Plunging Men of Opposing Team—Parsons Star of Great Game

(By T. A. Burke.) ALBANY, Nov. 23.—Oregon University "came back" today and defeated its old time rival, the Oregon Agricultural College in the greatest and most spectacular game ever played by the rival institutions. One minute after the opening of the second half Fenton's trusty foot booted the ball squarely between the uprights and the lone score of the day was registered in Eugene's favor before 8,000 wildly excited football enthusiasts.

It was a battle royal from start to finish, but Coach Pinkham's men had the upper hand throughout the magnificent duel, and clearly outplayed their opponents in every turn of the game, contrary to all anticipations, for it was generally conceded that O. A. C. would defeat the State University team by about two touchdowns. Not that the Corvallis team didn't play well and struggle had to defeat their old time antagonists, for they did put up an excellent game, but their veteran line was as one of paper before the four plunging backs of the University machine—Cook, Cornell, Walker and Parsons. The last named was the one bright star of the whole game and his work for the lemon yellow supporters gives him a fine chance for all-northwest honors.

The last half of the game was a punting duel between Fenton and Evendon. Oregon maintained a shade the best of the game all throughout. Penalties were not uncommon, and fumbles were few at the expense of either side. The spectacular work of Parsons, in smashing through O. A. C.'s line and around her ends was a feature that each time sent thrills through the large crowd present. Only once was the Oregon goal in danger, and that when Corvallis, by a clever trick play got within fifteen yards of the line. Then Oregon braced, held, and Fenton punted safely, and after that the Corvallis men abandoned all hope, for with a whirlwind finish the Oregonians literally "ate 'em up."

The stage setting for the big game was ideal. "Rah, rah" boys, hundreds of "em—a whole army of pretty, smiling, coeds wearing the Corvallis Orange and the Oregon lemon yellow, innumerable excited old grads of both institutions, and countless disinterested citizens, all jammed, crowded, pushed their way through the gates of Athletic park Saturday afternoon to see the game of all games—Oregon vs. O. A. C.

The scramble for seats lasted one hour, and in that time nine thousand excited football enthusiasts gathered—coming from all directions. All morning the visitors flocked into Albany, and at 1:45 the first 21-car special arrived from O. A. C. with shrieking whistles and deafening rah-rahs.

Hardly had they been seated when the Oregonians—12 coaches strong, pulled into the yards and bedlam broke loose. Rooters from both colleges, headed by their college bands, gaudily bedecked in varsity colors and chanting their songs, serpentine or "raged" from the depot to the reserved sections.

The day could not have been more ideal for the real good, old dyed-in-the-wool football—raw and chilly, with the field slightly heavy. Despite all ear-aches, dyspepsia, and other alleged injuries, the players from both colleges were in prime condition.

Between halves the Oregon rooters serpentine the field in wild enthusiasm and later the O. A. C. men took the field for a noisy demonstration. Two novel and original stunts were pulled off during the intermission. Oregon fired off thousands of fire crackers; the Corvallis men turned loose a dozen pigeons which flew above the field and then off in every direction. Both stunts were unique.

Referee—Varnell. Umpire Victor Place. Head Lineman—Smith.

If it happened it is in the Enterprise.

FINGERLINGS PLANTED IN CLACKAMAS STREAMS

40,000 fingerlings of the black spotted trout from the U. S. Fisheries at Roseman, Montana, were planted by a committee for the Oregon City Commercial Club, assisted by Henry O'Malley, superintendent of the U. S. Fisheries department for Oregon and Southern Washington. The delegation from the Commercial Club were Gilbert L. Hedges, Harry Draper and R. L. Holman. The fish were planted in Clear Creek and Milk Creek. A. D. Eby also had some fingerlings which he planted at the same time.

INSTITUTE OPENS FOR TEACHERS

HEAD OF EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENT OF REED INSTITUTE TO SPEAK IN EVENING

ALL TEACHERS IN COUNTY TO ATTEND

Institute Continues for Three Days. Meeting Will be Held at High School Monday Evening to Which Public is Invited

Dr. Edward Sissons, who is in charge of the educational department of Reed Institute, at Portland, and one of the ablest educators west of the Rocky Mountains will be one of the speakers at the Teachers' Institute which is to be held in Oregon City for three days, beginning Monday. Dr. Sissons will discuss the physiology of education at the meeting which is to be held in the evening at the Oregon City High School Building. The public is invited to attend.

Teachers will gather from all parts of the county to attend the institute and any teacher who fails to attend may be fined. The program for the opening day is an interesting one. Excellent speakers will be present and the addresses will be interspersed with selections by an orchestra.

One of the greatest problems in the education work is that of the rural schools. The rural schools have improved greatly in the past ten years, but there is room for further improvement.

Arthur H. Chamberlain, editor of the Sierra Educational News, of San Francisco, will speak on "The Problems of the Rural School."

Landscape illustration will be explained by Miss Alabama Brenton, of the Oregon State Normal. Her lecture will be followed by a talk on primary instruction by Mamie L. Fulkerson, of Salem.

Miss St. Clair will lecture on "Intermediate and Advanced Work." Margaret Craig Curran, who is Deputy State Superintendent in Washington, will be the first speaker in the afternoon and her topic will be "Community Work." Miss Curran will be a supervisor in this district after the first of next year. Mr. Chamberlain will speak again in the afternoon on "The Test of the Teacher."

SECRETARY BLISS LEFT $4,851,854 ESTATE

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—The late Cornelius N. Bliss, secretary of the interior during President McKinley's administration, left an estate valued at $4,851,854, according to appraisal figures filed here today. Most of the estate is divided among the widow, son and daughter. Bliss was treasurer of the Republican National Committee during the 1904 campaign.

TIMBER OF COUNTY WILL BE CRUISED

COUNTY COURT AWARDS CONTRACT TO M. G. NEASE, OF PORTLAND

TAXES ARE EXPECTED TO BE LARGER

Expert Gives Bond of $10,000 to Safeguard Owners—Contractor to Get Eight Cents an Acre

The county court, at a meeting Saturday, entered into a contract with M. G. Nease, of Portland, to cruise the timber land of the county. The majority of the counties of the state and all of the counties of Washington have been cruised. Not only will the work bring a greater revenue to the county, but it will be more satisfactory to the owners of timber lands. District Attorney Tongue is expected to approve the contract.

Mr. Nease will not only furnish the assessor with all the information necessary to assess timber lands, but he will determine the quality of the soil and give other useful information. The work will be finished July 1, 1913 and the contractor will be paid eight cents an acre. He will be paid each month 80 per cent of the amount due and the remainder when the work is finished.

The contractor has given the court a bond of $10,000 to safeguard timber owners in case his cruise is not satisfactory. Complaints will be given careful consideration by another expert appointed by the court and if Mr. Nease's work is found to be incorrect the cost will be taken from the bond. It is found to be correct, the complainant must pay the cost.

Assessor Jack, after a two years' study of conditions, has recommended the cruising system. The Oregon & California Land Company, which owns much of the timber land of the county, refused to pay the last half of the tax in 1908, which amounts to $15,000 as a result of the inferior methods of assessing valuations in the past. Mr. Nease will receive no payment for his services until March 10 next and his bond will be in force until after the meeting of the Board of Equalization in 1913. There are about 250,000 acres of timber land in the county.

Mr. Nease will not only furnish the assessor with all the information necessary to assess timber lands, but he will determine the quality of the soil and give other useful information. The work will be finished July 1, 1913 and the contractor will be paid eight cents an acre. He will be paid each month 80 per cent of the amount due and the remainder when the work is finished.

HUSBAND HAS AFFINITY SAYS WIFE, SUING

Alleging that her husband wrote love letters to another woman after their marriage, Anna L. Miller Saturday filed suit for a divorce from J. L. Miller. They were married November 23, 1909, in Portland, and have one child. The plaintiff says that soon after their marriage she opened a letter from the woman. The defendant said, she avers, that if the letter had been received by him before his marriage he and the writer would have been married. She also alleges that he corresponds with a woman named "Lena."

Lewis E. Atterberry filed suit for a divorce against Freda Atterberry. They were married in Roseman, Mont., December 3, 1910. The plaintiff alleges her husband deserted her August 5, 1911.

Circuit Judge Campbell granted divorce decrees in the following cases: Margaret Moore against Frank Moore, Douglas Leisli against Isabel Leisli, Blanch A. Thorpe against William Thorpe, plaintiff's name, Blanch A. Tewksbury, being restored; J. E. McMurren against Myrtle Zeala McMurren.

BOY SLAYER LEADS SHERIFF TO GRAVE

BODY OF D. M. LEITZEL IS EXHUMED BY AUTHORITIES IN MOUNTAINS

LAD NEAR COLLAPSE DURING WORK

Dead Man Carrier by Murderer Across Creek—Youth Covered Grave With Several Logs

Trembling and near collapse Glenn T. Gault, the 19-year-old slayer of his stepfather D. M. Leitzel, led Sheriff Mass, Coroner Wilson and Assessor Jack Saturday to the grave of his victim. After the boy had pointed out the grave and stood with folded hands while the earth was being removed from the body there was a marked change in his bearing. When the first spade touched the uncoffined body the youthful slayer stepped back and the authorities feared he would collapse. The skull was removed by Coroner Wilson and brought to this city. It was crushed on the left side.

It was a long and tiresome trip that Sheriff Mass, Coroner Wilson and Assessor Jack with the self-confessed murderer made Saturday. The roads were in poor condition and seven miles of the journey were made by the party afoot. The accused boy was familiar with the entire neighborhood in which the crime was committed and led the authorities to the grave without the slightest trouble. It was about 150 yards from the house where the man was slain. The boy had dragged the body across a creek and Sheriff Mass wondered how he had strength enough to do it.

Arriving at the house Gault led the Sheriff, Coroner, Assessor and several residents of the neighborhood into the kitchen. "I killed him in this room," said the boy. "He tried to kill me with a knife and I struck him with an ax. I then dragged the body across the creek and buried it. Then I dragged logs on the grave."

The slayer led the party to the grave and after the logs were rolled down the hill it took only a few minutes digging to unearth the body. Owing to the fact that the party had walked seven miles Coroner Wilson decided that only the skull would be necessary for use at the trial. Upon returning to the house the slayer regained his composure and was in good spirits when he was returned to the Oregon City jail. He was soon joined by his mother, who will do all she can to aid her son.

NO REGISTRATION AT CITY ELECTION

The women of Oregon City will not have to register in order to qualify as voters at the next city election which is to be held on December 2. Registration is not necessary in city elections here, as there are no primary elections.

In order to vote for state and county officers, or on state and county measures it will be necessary for the women to register as well as the men. A great number of women have been in doubt over this matter and County Clerk Mulvey has a great number of telephone calls from women who wish to know whether they were required to register. The women of this city are taking a great interest in the city election, meet as well as the men, where ward divisions have been explained and other matters pertaining to voting were discussed.

Saloon Man Sues Partner.

Gustaf Gardell, through his lawyers, Brownell & Stone, Saturday filed suit against Henry Kerbs for an accounting. The plaintiff and defendant purchased a Main Street saloon October 12, 1912. The plaintiff alleges that he furnished the money, and the defendant November 16, 1912, took the books, stock and four horses and orders the plaintiff from the house.
