

We Beg Leave

To express our deep appreciation for the liberal patronage given us by the people of Oregon City on our three opening days. It was conclusively proven that you had CONFIDENCE in our announcement, and we assure you again that we will always conduct our business on such principles as will MERIT your confidence.

We will only handle such woollens as will give PERFECT SATISFACTION, and we therefore GUARANTEE every suit or overcoat we make, for we POSITIVELY do not handle any ready-made clothes.

Don't Be A Ready-Made Man

But get a suit MADE for your particular individuality. A suit or overcoat made to fit YOU, not someone else—one that is a combination of character styles—fit and finish—ane above all, whichs shows the great distinction between READY-made and TAILOR made clothes.

REMEMBER, the price of a suit or overcoat made to your SPECIAL order, in any style desired to fit YOU, not some one else is only $18.00 and is the equal of any $30.00 suit or overcoat made.

A selection from 300 high class woollens, carefully shrunk, and made to your special order in either suit or overcoat GUARANTEED to sold their shape.

The New Beauty Stunt. "Come, have a game of grace hoops with me," said a girl recently. "Stand over there and catch the hoop on those sticks when I toss it to you from mine."

"Why play grace hoops? It's such a silly, childish game. Let's have a game of bridge."

"This is my hour for exercise. I cannot neglect it, even for bridge. You, too, would do well to take more healthful exercise. You are really getting too stout."

"Horror! Do tell me what I can do to keep myself slender, yet in good physical condition."

"It's really quite simple. I have found a way that, for me at least, takes the place of any expensive 'exerciser' I could buy. Watch while I give you a demonstration of the many splendid exercises that can be practiced with a child's hoop."

"Every day I take what time I can, for this—sometimes it's an hour, sometimes less—but always twenty minutes or more."

"For agility I begin and conclude with the grace hoops. Yes, it does give grace, for if one is light on her feet, agile, she is pretty sure to possess a fair amount of grace. I toss the hoop into the air from the points of the sticks, then catch it on them again as it descends. If any one will play with me we enjoy an active game, tossing the hoop from one to the other, trying not to let it fall, for that would count a point against the one who did."

"Then I take this large hoop and use it as a jumping rope. That keeps the muscles of my fingers, forearm, shoulders and lower limbs in good condition. I started by jumping through the hoop five times, but now I can do it twenty-five times without trouble."

"After a great deal of practice I have learned to balance the hoop on the stick—this for steadiness of nerve and poise. That is an excellent exercise, but quite difficult to accomplish, but it is worth the trouble to learn in the beneficial results obtained."

"I use these two embroidery hoops in place of dumbbells. You know the weight of dumbbells has very little effect upon the muscular development. They only serve as a means of exercise. One can get the same results with these little hoops or with any other article that can be conveniently held in the hands, for that matter, if one will imagine that they are heavy dumbbells and lift them with all the force necessary to employ with the real article."

"I let my arms hang loosely at the sides, grasping the hoops firmly in each hand, then raise them even with the shoulders and lower them five times, lifting them slowly, as if their weight were great; then five times over my head; in front of my body, where they touch each time; then I bend and touch the floor and last touch them behind my back. Oh, it's a fine general exercise! It limbers up my muscles and sets the blood circulating through my body splendidly."

Give Your Eyes a Holiday. Everybody should give his eyes a holiday at least once a month, says a writer. In the present age we experience far more strain owing to increasing reading habits and multitudes of glaring lights than our forefathers did and we suffer more from headaches. Therefore give your eyes a holiday as frequently as possible. Give them a day's absolute rest and the relief next day will be most refreshing. When taking an eye holiday a room with green wall paper is a good place to rest in if one cannot get to the country among nature's green fields and woods. Green rests the eyes more than any other color.

Rest and Good Looks. Every woman should learn to rest if she is anxious to keep her good looks. The one who leads a very busy life should acquire the habit of availing herself of every few spare minutes for this purpose. Let her analyze the art of relaxation and practice it in this way:

Hang the arms loosely at the side and then begin to move them slowly backward and forward from side to side. Now open the fingers wide and shake the hands loosely from the wrists and after this practice the same exercise with the legs and feet.

The Injurious Veil. Over and over for generations the thing has been told that women injure their eyes with the veils they wear—thin mesh, heavy mesh, spotted and figured—all kinds of veils. Now comes an addition to this old time information, which never caused one veil less. It is said that the veil causes, first, eye strain, then headache, nervousness, wrinkles and finally general and serious nervous disorders. This would seem to indicate that the game is not worth the candle.

The Revival of Combs. The latest fashion notes from Paris say that elaborate combs will be worn again the coming season. Some are fan shaped; others are narrow and curved to fit around the back of the head just over a heavy roll low on the neck. This shape is very pretty for young women. The fan shape is better suited for those of riper years.

KICKER MAY WIN UNDER 1912 CODE

Drop and Placement Kicker Is Necessary in Football.

RECENT SCORES PROVE IT.

Numerous Games Show Where Elevens With Good Toe Artists Have Come Out Winners—Brickley's Kicking Alone Would Have Defeated Tigers.

When the football rules committee framed up the 1912 code it was believed that a premium had been put on the drop kicker, the placement kicker and even the punter. The six points allotted for the touchdown and one more for the goal from touchdown made it impossible for opponents by booting two field goals to tie a team which rushed the ball across the line and kicked the goal from touchdown. The greater liberties given the forward pass and the increase in the number of downs to gain ten yards from three to four made it appear certain that a good team would gain so much ground that a long distance punter would not be called upon often.

Harvard proved the fallacy of these ideas when the Crimson depended almost entirely upon the toe of Brickley to score on Princeton. And to get the ball within goal kicking distance it relied to some extent upon the toe of Felton, who outpointed DeWitt, the Tigers' kicker. The touchdown which the Crimson made was unnecessary and probably would have been impossible had not Brickley already given his team the lead by his expert drop and placement kicking.

Suppose we eliminate Brickley and substitute Harvard's touchdown for the sake of argument. Then we again find that a kicker would have won, for following the Crimson touchdown the goal was kicked and seven points were earned. Princeton failed to kick the goal following touchdown and had only six points.

The team which does not cultivate the sure drop and placement kicker this year has overlooked a good bet. Penn might have scored twice in the game against Penn State had it employed the drop kick instead of the forward pass. In the first period the Quakers had the ball on State's fifteen yard line, and Marshall went back as if to drop kick. Instead a fake forward pass was tried and failed. If Marshall had drop kicked a goal Penn would have had three points and first blood. It might have changed the result.

Again, in the second period Penn had the ball inside State's thirty yard mark. Two forward passes were tried. One was grounded, and the other failed to gain the required distance. A drop or placement kick would have added three more points, and the Quakers would have had six to State's none. What new spirit that might have put into the red and blue line!

While it would always seem best to try to plow through the line, circle the ends, attempt the forward pass or some trick in the first three downs, to have a sure goal kicker to boot it over as a last resort is something that no team should overlook.

Goal kicking also played a most important part in recent football results. Michigan won from South Dakota by the solitary point, which represented a goal following touchdown, 7 to 6. Franklin and Marshall were able to boot the ball between the uprights after a touchdown, and Dickinson failed. Therefore the Lancaster eleven won, 7 to 6. The same thing happened in the Bates-Bowdoin game, and Bates won, 7 to 6.

In the Stevens-Johns Hopkins game both teams scored two touchdowns. Stevens kicked one goal from touchdown, and Johns Hopkins failed both times. Therefore Stevens won, 13 to 12. The Georgia-Sevannan contest ended 13 to 13, both elevens missing one goal following touchdown.

The Lafayette-Bucknell game ended in a no score tie. Yet Bucknell tried four times to kick field goals and could not get the ball over the crossbar. Lafayette, on the other hand, depended upon the forward pass when within scoring distance and did not succeed. Either team might have won with a goal kicker like Brickley.

Notre Dame won from Pittsburg, 3-0, because it had a man who could boot the ball between the uprights. Minnesota won from Illinois, 13-0, yet the accounts of the game indicated that the losers had the ball in the territory of the winners almost entirely during the second half. Two field goals would have been better than a shutout defeat.

Some football men decry the field goal, declaring that it is a question of ability more than grit. This may be true in one particular, but the player who has the nerve to make a perfect boot when the opposing team is charging on him must be given some credit for his gameness.

The team which neglects the field goal kicker—and also the placement kicker to boot it over after a touchdown—is almost certain to be sorry.

Miller Is Penn State Star. Miller, Penn State's great running quarterback, played a marvelous game against Cornell recently. His end running was spectacular, frequently covering thirty and forty yards, while his forward passes traveled twenty-five yards on an average.

DRAPER DID NOT CIRCULATE MRS. NEWTON'S PETITIONS. The announcement that Harry E. Draper circulated petitions in the interest of the candidacy of Mrs. Kate L. Newton for mayor was a mistake. Mr. Draper had nothing to do with the petitions, his policy being to attend strictly to the drug business in which he is interested and to keep out of political controversies. He is friendly with Mrs. Newton and Linn E. Jones, the other candidate for mayor, but has taken no active interest in behalf of either of them.

GRANDMOTHERS USED SAGE TEA

TO DARKEN THE HAIR AND RESTORE GRAY AND FADED HAIR TO ITS NATURAL COLOR

It is easier to preserve the color of the hair than to restore it, although it is possible to do both. Our grandmothers understood the secret. They made a "sage tea" and their dark, glossy hair long after middle life was due to this fact. Our mothers have gray hairs before they are fifty, but they are beginning to appreciate the wisdom of our grandmothers in using "sage tea" for their hair and are fast following suit.

The present generation has the advantage of the past in that it can get a ready-to-use preparation called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy. As a scalp tonic and color restorer this preparation is vastly superior to the ordinary "sage tea" made by our grandmothers.

The growth and beauty of the hair depends on a healthy condition of the scalp. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy quickly kills the dandruff germs which rob the hair of its life, color and lustre, makes the scalp clean and healthy, gives the hair strength, color and beauty, and makes it grow.

PLEADS GUILTY TO STEALING FISH NET

Clarence Jones, arrested several days ago in St. Johns, pleaded guilty Friday to stealing a fish net from Max Telford, Jr., about a year ago. Circuit Judge Campbell will sentence him today. Archie Meyers, indicted jointly with Jones, was found guilty several months ago and sentenced to serve from one to ten years in the penitentiary, but was paroled by Judge Campbell. The net was valued at $200.

(17) Verse 24—How much effect does emotion or intense desire when we pray have upon God in answering our prayers?

(18) What is the standard by which you would measure the extent of a man's faith? (This is one of the members to answer in writing by members of the club.)

(19) Verses 25-27—When God in these days casts the Devil out of a man, does it imply that he can "enter no more into him"? Why?

(20) Verses 28-29—How would you characterize the sin of the disciples for not being able to cast out this evil spirit?

FRUIT MARKET BEGINS TO SHOW ACTIVITY

Dealers Saturday reported a moderately good movement in nearly all fruit lines with apples and oranges the most important items in the business. Fancy Winter Bananas and Spitzenbergers were said to be movable at $1.75 to $2, but these were the only varieties for which such prices could be obtained. Other apples held generally at 75 cents to $1.25. Fancy market oranges were in good demand at $2.50 to $3.50 a box, and the market was said to be none too well supplied. Heavier offerings, however, are expected in the near future, for the southern crop this year is reported to be a generous one. For best grade late pears there was a fair demand at $1.25 to $1.50 a box. Cranberries were steady at the prices last quoted. Grapes of good quality were scarce and firm at $1.25 a crate.

Prevailing Oregon City prices are as follows: HIDES—(Buying), Green hides 6c to 7c; salted 7c; dry hides 12 c to 14c; sheep pelts 30c to 85c each. EGGS—Oregon ranch eggs 35 and 38 cents case count.
