Buying Fish in Copenhagen.
Copenhagen has a model fish market, built by the municipality. With the exception of the larger varieties, like cod and halibut, all the fish are kept alive in tessellated tanks filled with running water. There is no other town where all the fish, whether cheap or dear, are so beautifully fresh. In the harbor there are a large number of wooden boats pierced with holes and filled with fish. These boats just float on the surface of the water, and the living fish are taken out of them when wanted. But, as every one cannot go to the water's edge to buy fish, there are water tanks on wheels, and the live fish are brought to the doors of the people's houses.

Oil Lamps.

Oil was used for burning in lamps so far back as the twentieth century before Christ.
