The first invasion of America took place in 1870. Jack Haverly and Peter Duryea brought over a team to this country from Europe and gave exhibitions and rode six day races of three and six hours a day on roller skating floors in New York, Boston, Chicago and other cities. In 1886 Tom Eck constructed the first track having banked or raised corners in a hall at Springfield, Ill. This was the first time the riders and skaters were able to make turns at full speed. Until that year all records for the quarter mile to 1.044.5 miles (144 hours) were held by Euro

In 1899 the authorities passed a law prohobiting riders from riding more than twelve hours in one day. Team racing was then taken up. In 1899 the first team contest was held, and the winners were Charlie Miller and Frank (Dutch) Waller, they covering 2,733 miles and four laps, a record that stood until 1908, when Mc-Farland and Moran won with a total mileage of 2,737 miles one lap, that be skies and red lights threw a festive ling the record at the present time.
