SALEM, Jan. 23.—Dan J. Malarkey was elected president of the senate and Clifton N. McArthur speaker of the house, as scheduled. Practically the only fight was carried on against Malarkey, although that developed into a "tempest in a teapot," and when the votes were counted he had 25 out of the possible 30 in the senate.

Both Malarkey and McArthur reiterated their desire for a business session of the legislature. Malarkey, who sat at his seat on the floor, as he heard himself condemned in strong terms by Joseph and Kellaher, following his being conducted to the chair, made a definite statement in response to charges that he had acquired the place through a barter for votes, repudiating the assertion in strong terms, and in this he was backed by his colleagues.

"I promised not a single place to a single Senator before he gave me his vote," asserted Mr. Malarkey. But when it was apparent that I had 25 men promising me their votes I wished to promote a business session of the senate. I then asked the different senators to furnish me with their individual preferences as to committees and I will place them on committees where they can be of the greatest service to the state."

IRELAND, VETERAN EDITOR, IS DEAD

MAN, WHO FOUNDED ENTERPRISE IN 1866, BURIED AT MORO, OR.

SEVERAL PAPERS STARTED BY HIM

Schuyler Colfax, Horace Greeley and Wilbur F. Story Among Men for Whom Journalist Worked

The funeral of D. C. Ireland, founder of the Oregon City Enterprise in 1866, was held at Moro, Sherman County, January 9. Mr. Ireland was seventy six years of age, and he was editor of the Sherman County Observer at the time of his death.

During the past year Mr. Ireland had been weak, though apparently in good health until early in December. On Christmas night he was taken suddenly ill, but recovered until January 5, when he suffered a partial stroke of paralysis. From that time he grew steadily worse until the end came.

Funeral services were held at the Moro Methodist Episcopal Church, the edifice being crowded. County Court was adjourned and the schools dismissed to allow attendance at the services, which were conducted by Rev. W. C. Johnson.

Born in Rutland, Vt., July 4, 1836, Mr. Ireland moved to Indiana when still a boy being educated at a private Episcopal Church school. He learned the printing trade in Mishawaka, Ind., and afterward worked at that trade with Skuyler Colfax. His first business enterprise was the establishment of the Mishowaka Free Press, still published at that city, and of which the first copy is retained in his family.

Later he worked with two famous editors, Horace Greeley, of the New York Tribune, and Wilbur F. Story, of the Detroit Free Press.

Coming to Oregon in 1861, he set up the first job press in the office of the Mountaineer at The Dalles. He became local editor of the Oregonian when the late Harvey W. Scott became the editor. This was in 1864 and 1865.

On the staff of The Oregonian and the Evening Telegram are some who remember Mr. Ireland—notably J. McCown, proftreader on the Evening Telegram, and Thurston Johnson, foreman in the composing room of The Morning Oregonian, who worked with him at Oregon City many years ago.

One year Mr. Ireland "covered" the legislature at Salem, and in 1866 established the Oregon City Enterprise. Among many other papers that he founded or managed are the Astorian, in 1873, and the Astoria Pioneer, in 1887; the Portland Express, in 1891, and the Moro Observer, of which he was the editor up to his death.

He is survived by a son, Alba, living in Chicago; another son, De Witt L., of Sidney, Australia; a third son, Francis C., of Portland, and a fourth, Clinton L., of Moro, and there is one daughter, Mrs. G. L. Rohr, of Portland.

"I'M RESIDENT OF CITY," SAYS ENGINEER

George C. Yale, recently elected city engineer of the city, has taken the oath of office and will file his bond today or tomorrow. Regarding the statement of Henry Meldrum and others that he is not a resident of the city, Mr. Yale declares that he has considered this home for several years and he has never voted any other place. He says Mr. Meldrum's objection to his serving is probably due to his having appointed Maj. C. S. Nobie his assistant. Mr. Yale further declares that in recent years Oregon City has not had an engineer whose appointment met with all the requirements of the city charter.

Miss Agnes Harris was Monday night elected a grade teacher in the Oregon City schools, to succeed Miss Hilda Toose, who recently resigned because of ill health. Miss Harris has been acting since the holidays.

ARCHBALD GUILTY, IS SENATE VERDICT

CONVICTED JURIST FOREVER BARRED FROM HOLDING FEDERAL OFFICE

VOTE ON FIRST CHARGE IS 68 TO 5

Justice of Commerce Court Accused of Having Used Office to Further Personal Ends

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—Judge Robert W. Archbald, of the commerce court, was found guilty today by the senate, sitting as a court of impeachment, of having misused his office and power as a judge for his personal gain. The penalty is removal from the office and prohibition from holding an office of public trust again unless the senate decides otherwise.

Archbald was convicted on the first count of 13 which the house of representatives brought against him. It is charged that he had used his position as a judge to persuade the Erie Railroad Company to give to him and E. J. Williams, of Scranton, an option on a coal dump at a price probably $20,000 less than its real value.

On this, the first charge, the senate voted 68 to 5 for conviction of high crimes and misdemeanors.

Although the verdict insured Judge Archbald's removal from the bench and the service of the United States courts, the senate then proceeded to vote on the other 12 counts of the articles of impeachment, which charged various other acts where Archbald had improperly used his influence as a judge.

Not guilty was the verdict on the second article of impeachment, which charged Judge Archbald with having attempted to obtain a fee by setting a case between the Marion Coal Company and the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad. The vote was 46 to 25 in the Judge's favor.

On the third charge the senate found Judge Archbald guilty.

The vote on the third article was 60 to 11. The vote on the fourth article of impeachment again resulted in Judge Archbald's conviction. The vote for conviction was 52 to 20.

The fifth vote resulted in another verdict of guilty. The vote for conviction was 66 to 6.

Judge Archbald was acquitted on the sixth charge, the voting for conviction being 24 to 45.

A verdict of not guilty was voted on the seventh article. The vote was 29 to 36.

Judge Archbald was held not guilty on the charge of the eighth article. The vote for conviction, 22 to 42, failed of the necessary two-thirds.

A verdict of not guilty was voted on the ninth article, the vote for conviction being 23 to 39.

On the tenth article Judge Archbald was again held not guilty, the vote for conviction being one to 65.

The vote on the 11th article resulted in another conviction of not guilty, the vote for conviction being 11 to 51.

At his trial, the accused judge ad-

MILWAUKIE TAVERN CLOSED BY SHERIFF

ARTHUR J. BURNS, PROPRIETOR, RELEASED ON $500 BOND

TRUE BILL BROUGHT AGAINST HIM

Automobile Accident in Which Woman Is Hurt, Leads to Obtaining Evidence Long Sought

Arthur J. Burns, proprietor of the Milwaukee Tavern, which Governor West threatened to close with the aid of the Oregon National Guard several months ago, was arrested Monday night by Sheriff Mass and Deputy Sheriff Eddy, and his place of business closed. Sheriff Mass locked the doors and barred the windows. Burns was released upon providing a bond of $500 and will be arraigned before Circuit Judge Campbell this afternoon at 2 o'clock. The tavern keeper was astonished when Sheriff Mass served the bench warrant upon him, and declared that the county had no jurisdiction in his case. He said that he paid the municipality of Milwaukee a license of $800 annually to do business.

As a result of the automobile accident near Milwaukie early Sunday morning in which a woman was slightly injured, evidence was obtained by the Clackamas County grand jury which caused the indictment of Burns on a charge of conducting a nuisance. It is alleged that Burns sold liquor at the tavern after 12 o'clock Sunday morning. Sheriff Mass and Deputy Sheriff Eddy in an effort Monday to learn the identity of the persons in the automobile that plunged 30 feet over an embankment were informed that the law had been broken Sunday morning at the tavern.

They found the barkeepers, Al Pike and William Hurley at their homes in Milwaukie, and the men, after being questioned, said the charge was true. They were brought to this city and immediately testified before the grand jury. The men then went back to the tavern to resume their duties.

Sheriff Mass learned that the woman occupant of the car was Bessie Day, of Portland, and that the man's name is McCoy and he is a railway contractor of Portland. It was declared that the party was on the way to the Milwaukee tavern when the accident occurred and that they afterward went there. The driver of the car was Harry M. Terry, son of W. W. Terry, 607 Mulberry Street, Portland. He has a stand at Sixth and Washington Streets.

The Milwaukee tavern has been in the public eye for more than a year, and several months ago Governor West, with a military company went to the place and tore down a fence, so a better view could be obtained of the tavern. It was reported at the time that he contemplated closing the place but he did not do so.

MILLIKEN CALLS CHURCH UNION HARD TASK

"Church Union" was the subject of an interesting sermon delivered Sunday night by Dr. W. T. Milliken, pastor of the First Baptist Church. The edifice was crowded and Dr. Milliken was given the closest attention. His address had the following subheads: "Union Defined"; "Difficulties"; "Stability"; and "How Accomplished".

He said it was astonishing to note the difference in administration of various churches, although all were striving for the same ends. He declared that confusion might be caused should all churches in a union attempt to introduce too much personal feeling into the laws that would form a constitution in general.

"In short" said the minister, "if the representatives of all faiths would lay aside their creeds, confessions, doctrines and set forms of church government, upon which there is irreconcilable confusion, and sit down with their bibles, eliminating all private interpretations, and take as binding upon their people only those things in doctrine or practice, which are positively there, there would soon be union."

JURY GIVES HORSE TO ORIGINAL OWNER

A jury in Circuit Judge Campbell's court Monday rendered a verdict in favor of the plaintiff in the suit of Alva Smith, of Albany, against George Brown, of New Era, which involved the ownership of a horse and colt. The plaintiff declared that a horse in the possession of the defendant belonged to him. He said the horse had wandered away from his place almost two years ago. Mr. Smith said that he had bought the horse, paying for it about $175, and that soon after he got possession of it the colt was foaled. The plaintiff and several of his friends identified the animal. J. E. Hedges represented the plaintiff.

LIVE WIRES TO DISCUSS WATER AT LUNCHEON

WATER PLANT IS TO BE IMPROVED

COMMISSIONERS DECIDE TO TRY HYPOCHLORITE CLEANSING SYSTEM

EXPERT WILL MAKE EXAMINATION

Estimated Cost of Improvement is $1,000—Commissioners Make Investigation of Plan

J. E. Hedges and C. H. Canfield, a majority of the members of the water commission, at a meeting in Mr. Hedges' office Monday evening, recommended the immediate installation of a hypochlorite plant. The plant is estimated will cost $1,000. The commissioners also decided to employ J. H. Webster, a water plant expert, of Portland, to make an investigation of local conditions and report as soon as possible.

It was the opinion of the commissioners that the plant could be installed in the filter plant, attachments for it having been supplied when the plant was built.

Mr. Hedges said after the meeting that he and Mr. Canfield were convinced that the new plant would rid the water of any coliform bacilli or other germs that might be in the water. He said that a thorough investigation had been made of the system, and that it had been found to do all that was claimed for it. W. H. Howson, superintendent and E. H. Cooper, water rent collector, attended the meeting and agreed with the commissioners that the hypochlorite plant would give the desired results. James Roake, the other member of the board is in California.

Following an address of appreciation by Representative Schnoerr, the following program was rendered: Song, "Die Locelle"; Verein; trio, Dambach Brothers and Mr. Aldredge; song, "Get the Hammer, There's a Fly on Father's Head"; Ed Mueller, accompanied by Oscar Wood-

FAMILY IN PERIL AS HOME BURNS

The home of W. M. Moore, on McAllister Avenue, was destroyed by fire Sunday evening between 10 and 11 o'clock. Clothing falling on a heated stove is thought to have caused the fire. The occupants barely escaped with their lives. When the fire was discovered the beds on which Mr. Moore and his three children were sleeping were on fire and the occupants were forced to flee from the house, clad in their night clothing.

Mr. Moore's wife died last September, leaving him with five young children. During the summer previous to his wife's death Mr. Moore completed the small cottage where he lived with his family and, upon his wife's death two of the children went to California, where they are staying with their grandmother. A movement was started Monday by the Willamette Pulp & Paper Company, where Mr. Moore is employed, and by the St. Paul's Episcopal Church, to provide food, clothing and shelter for the unfortunate family and by Monday evening a generous number of useful articles had been donated. Clothing and supplies are still badly needed and any person desiring to aid the unfortunate family can send donations to Rev. C. W. Robinson, rector of St. Paul's Church.
