HARDSURFACING Is the trend of OF MAIN STREET

Main Street to the north? Many business men believe that it is, and it would not be astonishing if within a half dozen years there were at least a score of business houses where there are now only two or three. The hardsurfacing of Main between Moss and the Abernethy, the building of the Clackamas Southern, the establishment of a freight yard by the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company and many other improvements will tend to make lower Main Street attractive to business men. And of course the value of real estate on the thoroughfare will enhance accordingly. In view of all this it is incomprehensible how any property owner could object to the improvement of the street with hardsurface pavement. And yet there has been objection and such determined objection that the courts have been called upon to make decision. The property owners who objected to paying their share of the assessment for the improvement have won a temporary victory. But in the long run it is believed they will have to pay. And even if they shouldn't, is it possible that they will be willing to accept the benefits of a street, built by others? The city is that more streets of this city are not paved with hard surface. It is coming and the property owners had just as well become reconciled to the facts and get ready to share the benefits which for the

FORUM OF THE PEOPLE

PLEA MADE FOR ROADS.

OREGON CITY, Jan. 15.—(Editor of the Enterprise.)—I have, been a resident of Clackamas County for several years, and during that time the development of the county has been very slow as compared with counties less favorably situated. The old inhabitants are responsible to a large degree for the slow growth and development of the county, and also Oregon City. It is true some portions of the county are making rapid strides in modern development, but that is being brought about by the new blood that has been coming into the county in recent years.

The improvement of our roads is one of the necessities of modern times and no county can hope to develop without reasonable road improvements so as to accommodate our citizens who live in the interior of the county. When a road meeting is held to raise an additional tax to assist in a county road improvement, the "moss-back" is there with his hammer, and by a proper application of his ingenious methods, he receives the required assistance to defeat the improvement.

When Seventh Street in Oregon City was under consideration for a good permanent improvement in 1912, so as to make it safe for the farmers to pass over with their heavy loads, the "moss-back" was on the ground with his little hammer and defeated the improvement.

When lower Main Street was being improved it occurred to the "moss back" that the improvement was too good for Oregon City, and should be knocked and the knocker's hammer was applied with a vengeance but the progressive spirit prevailed and the improvement is being completed.

When the Molalla railroad was started, the natural knocker and the paid knocker was on the ground from day to day stabbing the company and impugning the motives of its officers, but as soon as the Southern Pacific Company started to build into the Molalla country from Canby, which would take a large part of the Molalla trade away from Oregon City, and thereby reduce the business and rents the knocker's began to get under cover.

The way to develop Clackamas County is to help every citizen, and not try to grab every thing in sight for yourself. Help Wilsonville, Canby, Sandy, Marquam, Molalla and every other town in the county to get what is coming to them in the way of school and road improvements, and not work wholly for your own immediate vicinity.

I would suggest that we all work together during the year 1913, and loosen up a little, and by united effort, work and complete the Molalla railroad and work for better county roads and schools, and at the end of the present year we will feel that we are broader minded and far better off from a financial standpoint.

English Plum Pudding.

The recipe for the plum pudding is as follows: Sift one cupful of flour into a basin, add half a pound of bread-crumbs, half a pound brown sugar, half a pound of chopped suet, half a pound of currants, half a pound of sultana raisins, half a pound of chopped seeded raisins, one cupful of chopped citron peel, half a cupful of blanched and strained juice of one lemon, one teaspoonful of baking power, two teaspoonfuls of mixed spices, one teaspoonful of grated nutmeg and half a teaspoonful of salt. Beat up four eggs, add half a glass of brandy and one cupful of milk and pour this among the dry ingredients. Mix thoroughly, pour into a buttered mold, cover with a greased paper and steam readily for six hours. Turn out and decorate with blanched almonds, mastic and holly. Serve with brandy sauce or hard sauce.

Mince-meat For Pie.

Two pounds of lean beef, boiled and ground fine; one pound beef suet, minced and freed from strings; five pounds of apples, peeled, cored and minced; two pounds of raisins, seeded and halved; two pounds cleaned currants, washed and drained; one pound sultana raisins, stemmed and washed; three-quarters of a pound of citron, cut into tiny bits; one tablespoonful each of cloves and allspice, two tablespoonfuls each of cinnamon and nutmeg, a tablespoonful of ground nutmeg, a tablespoonful of salt, two and one-half pounds of brown sugar, a quart of sherry and a pint of brandy. Mix well together all the dry ingredients, taking care to incorporate thoroughly the spices. Last of all, stir in the sherry and brandy, reserving a little of each to add when you make the pies. Pack away in a crock until needed.

Enquiring.

"I suppose you and your wife can remember your first quarrel," said the meddlesome person. "Remember it!" returned Mr. Growcher. "I should say so! It isn't over yet."—Washington Star.

Turkish Fanatic Murderers Strung Up by Bulgarians

Photos by American Press Association

ONE of the grewsome sides of the Balkan war was the murderous attacks of Turkish fanatics on innocent noncombatant Christians. Terrible excesses of brutality were reported from the Gallipoli district. Swift vengeance was wreaked upon the guilty murderers wherever caught. An instance of this is here illustrated. Two fanatics were nabbed, rebanded by the Bulgarians. They were quickly court-martialed, found guilty and hanged to a tree in the village where they had committed their atrocious crimes. The upper picture shows the two slayers with their arms bound behind their backs, listening to the death warrant. Beneath shows the pair strung up to a tree in the village of their crimes.

Hats at Table.

It was the correct thing in the seventeenth century for men to wear their hats at table. "The Rules of Civility, or Certain Ways of Deportment," published in 1673, gives minute directions. Supposing "a person of quality detains you to dine with him," it is prescribed that "when the person invited is sit he must keep himself covered till the rest sit down and the person of quality has put on his hat. If the person of honor drinks a health to you you must be sure to be uncovered. If he speaks to you, you must likewise be uncovered till you have answered him. If one rises from the table before the rest he must pull off his hat."

Marriage Is Without a Doubt the Greatest of All Human Institutions

By HALL CAINE, Author

LOOK UPON MARRIAGE AS THE GREATEST OF ALL HUMAN INSTITUTIONS. I THINK IT IS AN IMMENSE SUCCESS AND THAT WOMAN, NOT MAN, HAS MADE IT SO. WITHOUT IT THE HUMAN FAMILY WOULD FALL INTO SWIFT AND COMPLETE DISINTEGRATION.

Whether marriage comes out of the family or the family out of marriage is a metaphysical question that does not trouble me. What I see in the world is a mighty force that holds the children of men together as nothing else could.

I think MARRIAGE HAS JUSTIFIED ITSELF, that the majority of marriages are happy ones and that, taken together, they constitute the mightiest factor in the welfare of humanity. My experience has been that this is TRUE ALL THE WORLD OVER and among all sorts and conditions of people,—from people like Mr. Chevalier's "Old Dutch" to the people who wear coronets and the people who sit on thrones.

But I also think that if marriage as an institution has been a blessing to the human family it has not been by virtue of any legal contracts or religious sacraments whatsoever, but solely by the operation of that BEAUTIFUL NATURAL LAW which Jesus described when he spoke of a man leaving father and mother and cleaving to his wife, and they, too, being one flesh whom God hath joined together and therefore no man might put asunder.
